PROFESSOR DYKES ELECTED LEADER OF CITY SCHOOLS

Former Principal of Boys' High School Will Fill Unexpired Term of Former Supt. Wardlaw.

CHARLES S. CULVER BECOMES ASSISTANT

Professor Dykes Resigns Position With Fulton High and Will Assume His New Duties Today.

Professor W. F. Dykes, former principal of the Boys' High school, and a leader in the movement last summer which resulted in a complete change in the city school administration, was yesterday elected superintendent of Atlanta's public schools over Charles Culver, acting superintendent, by a majority of one vote. Professor Dykes assumes his new office today.

Charges made last May by Professor Dykes against the school board, W. S. Wardlaw, then superintendent; Mr. Culver, then assistant superintendent, and other officials, were upheld by an investigating committee appointed by council. The school board failed to adopt the findings of the committee, with the result that Professor Dykes resigned as principal of the Boys' High, and the matter was taken to the legislature and a new school board, elected by the people instead of by council, came into being. W. S. Wardlaw resigned several months later and entered war work.

Voting for Mr. Dykes at the meeting Friday afternoon were Paul Fleming, president of the board; Fred Winburn, commissioner from the fifth district; H. B. Troutman, commissioner from the fourth district, and W. H. Terrell, commissioner from the first district, while Mayor Key, Councilman A. J. Orme, ex-officio member of the board, and S. B. Turman cast their ballots for Mr. Culver.

Professor Dykes was notified of his election by a member of the board and has accepted the office. He will assume his new duties this morning when he will be met at the office of the superintendent of schools at the city hall by President Paul Fleming, of the board of education, who will formally turn over the office to him.

Culver Becomes Assistant.

Mr. Culver automatically becomes assistant superintendent again. Professor Gilbert Siler, who has been acting assistant superintendent, by motion of Fred Winburn and unanimous vote of the board, will be retained in the office during May at the same salary basis.

When called over the telephone for a statement Friday night following his election, Professor Dykes said that he was gratified at the expressed confidence of the board of education. He will tender his resignation as head of the mathematical department at the Fulton High school, where he has been teaching for the past year and notified Professor William Hopkins, the principal, that he will assume his new duties today.

Professor Dykes is one of the most widely known educators in Atlanta. For the past twenty-four years he has been connected with the schools of this city, eleven years being spent as principal of the Boys' High school and two years as supervisor of high schools.

Terrell Nominates Dykes.

Immediately after the members convened in session and were called to order by the president, Mr. Terrell arose and stated that he wished to renew the nomination of Mr. Dykes which he made at a meeting of the board of education last Wednesday. His nomination was seconded by Mr. Winburn.

At this juncture Mr. Turman took the floor and declared that the election of a superintendent was being done in too hasty a manner and offered a motion to defer the matter until the next regular meeting of the board on May 8. He got a second to this motion from Mr. Orme, but on a vote it lost four to three. Mr. Turman then offered Mr. Culver's name in nomination.

Speeches in support of Mr. Culver were made by Councilman Orme and by Mayor Key, who as mayor-elect and member of the board of education was roundly criticised by Mr. Dykes in his charges last summer

NURSES TO HAVE FINE CLUBHOUSE

Plans for $100,000 Home Have Been Drawn, Contract Let and Building Will Be Ready September 1.

The Atlanta Nurses' club is to have a new $100,000 club house.

The plans have been drawn, the contract has been let, and the building is to be completed by the first of September.

It will be located on Luckie street opposite the Y. M. C. A., and will be a brick building, modern in every respect of comfort and attractiveness.

Miss M. A. Mobley, assistant as surgical nurse for a number of years to Dr. Floyd W. McRae, and recognized as one of the ablest women in her profession in this section, is chairman of the building committee of the club, of which Miss Mary Feebeck, who is the nurse in charge at the Emory University Medical College, is president.

C. E. Frazier is the architect, who is completing the plans for the club house, which is to be of brick, and is to include extensive living quarters, as well as large recreation rooms, an ample cafeteria, and facility for convenience and comfort.

Turman & Calhoun are handling the contract for the club.

Their present location is 25 Porter place, but this has long since been outgrown, and the new home will be adequate in size and character for club headquarters.

The Nurses' club has a membership of about one hundred and forty, of whom many have seen service in France, and the camps in this country, and many are not yet home.

Only registered nurses and those who have stood the state examination are eligible to membership in the club, although the nurses' central directory kept there is open to graduate nurses and practical nurses, and graduate nurses are given some of the privileges of the club.

NEW TRANS-CANADA TRAIN LESSENS TIME

Montreal, May 2.—(Special.)—The trans-Canada, connecting Montreal and Toronto with Vancouver in less than four days, will be a new feature of the Canadian Pacific Railway's trans-continental service, beginning June 1. The actual time from Vancouver to Montreal will be 92 hours and 15 minutes, from Montreal to Vancouver 93 hours and 30 minutes. The best time from New York to the Pacific coast is 98 hours and 50 minutes.

The new train, run by private enterprise, is a natural recognition of the growth of Canadian business and is in line with the aggressive policy of the Canadian Pacific. This is the fastest trans-continental time and the train is operated under private management in one continuous run without change of car. The trans-Canada will have accommodations for sleeping car passengers only.

ATLANTA NEARING HALF-WAY MARK IN BOND CAMPAIGN

Bankers and Other Business Men Subscribe for $1,288,000 at the Victory Drive Meeting Held Friday.

$80,000,000 SUBSCRIBED BY ATLANTA DISTRICT

Eight New Counties Report They Have Secured Quota—Workers Report Great Enthusiasm in Every State.

Atlanta's campaign for the Fifth "Victory" Liberty Loan was given a big boost on Friday when bankers and other business men subscribed $1,288,000 at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce.

At the same time, teams of workers organized on Thursday night at a combined meeting of the Ad Men's, Kiwanis, and Rotary clubs and the Retail Merchants' association were out scouring the city for subscriptions and by nightfall had secured enough to put the city's total well up to the four million mark.

The local campaign, near the close of the first week of its two-week period, finds itself close to the half-way mark in securing its quota of $10,772,500 for the loan.

The largest single subscription made at the meeting of bankers, held on Friday morning, came from the Central Bank and Trust Corporation, and was for $1,000,000. The subscription was announced by A. P. Coles, vice-president of the bank, and brought forth prolonged cheering even from such a conservative set of men as the bankers.

Negro Company Helps.

Other subscriptions made at this meeting ran the total well up. The Standard Life Insurance company, a negro organization, subscribed for $25,000. Other subscriptions of like amount included those of S. C. Dobbs, Frank Hawkins, Harry P. Hermance, Crumley-Sharp Hardware company, etc. The list of subscriptions taken at this meeting was as follows:

Central Bank and Trust corporation, $1,000,000; S. C. Dobbs, $25,000; Frank Hawkins, $25,000; H. P. Hermance, $25,000; Mrs. H. P. Hermance, $5,000; Helena Hermanee, $1,000; H. P. Hermance, Jr., $1,000; Standard Insurance company, $25,000; Crumley-Sharp Hardware company employees, $28,000; A. M. Robinson, $25,000; Atlanta Woolen Mils, $15,000:; Johns Manville company, $10,000; John K. Ottley, $10,000; David Woodward, $20,000; St. Elmo Massengale, $10,000; Rice & Hutchins company, $5,000; Colonial Trust company, $2,500; James C. Williams, $2,500; John W. Grant, $10,000; Mrs. John W. Grant, $10,000; Mrs. W. D. Grant, $10,000; J. R. Mobley, $5,000; Peters Land company, $5,000; Thomas H. Daniel, $2,000; Haynes McFadden, $3,000; Adair & McCarty, $4,000; Edwin F. Johnson, $2,500; Mrs. Edwin F. Johnson, $2,500; W. H. Perrin, $1,000.

Reports from all over the sixth federal reserve district continue to be very encouraging. A number of additional counties reported their quotas fully subscribed during the day and the total number of counties over the top is now over fifty. Many others are on the verge of going over, while it is stated that there are a number which are actually over, but are delaying reporting in order to encourage additional subscriptions.

Total subscriptions for the district, as reported to headquarters by county chairmen, are $80,000,000, of the quota of $144,000,000.

New Counties Over.

Coosa county, Alabama.....	$ 40,700
Marion county, Florida.....	285,500
Haralson county, Georgia...	108,250
Scott county, Tennessee....	48,500
Trousdale county, Tennessee	47,100
Montgomery county Tenn...	377,650
Macon county, Tennessee...	45,000
Roane county, Tennessee....	293,900

Sterling Fort, chairman of the loan organization in Montgomery county, Tennessee, wrote, stating that his county had gone over the top by means of voluntary subscriptions only, no meetings having been held and no canvassing for subscriptions having been resorted to. He states that he simply wrote one letter and sent it to every taxpayer in the county and their voluntary response was more than sufficient to put the county over. Montgomery county has exceeded its quota in every loan and in every campaign for funds connected with the war.

Tallapoosa, Ga., established a record in the Victory loan campaign by more than doubling its quota in seven minutes, and at the same time putting Carroll county practi-

3,224 Persons Lynched by Mobs In Last 30 Years

Georgia Leads the States With 386—2,834 of the Total Number Lynched in the South.

New York, May 2.—In the last thirty years 3,224 persons have been put to death by mobs, according to a report made public today by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

For the thirty-year period from 1889 through 1918 the north has had 219 victims, the south 2,834, the west 156 and Alaska and other localities 15.

"Georgia leads in the list with 386 victims," says the report, "followed by Mississippi with 373 victims, Texas with 335, Louisiana with 313, Alabama with 276, Arkansas with 214, Tennessee with 196, Florida with 178 and Kentucky with 169.

"Fifty colored women and 11 white women were lynched in fourteen states. Thirteen of the fourteen states in which women fell victims to mobs were southern states, Nebraska being the only state outside the south which lynched women. The north and west, together, have lynched twenty-one persons the last five years' period, whereas during the same time 304 persons were lynched in the south."

Regarding President Wilson's appeal to state governors and other civil officers to prevent lynching, the report says:

"Despite President Wilson's earnest appeal, made under such extraordinary circumstances, lynchings continued during the remaining period of the war with unabated fury. Sixty-three negroes, five of them women, and four white men fell victims to mob ruthlessness during 1918 and in no case was any member of the mobs convicted in any court and in only two instances were trials held. In both of these instances the mob members were acquitted."

In conclusion the report says:

"It is apparent that lynchings of negroes for other causes than the so-called 'one crime' have for the whole period been a large majority of all lynchings and that for the past five years less than one in five of the colored victims have been accused of rape or 'attacks upon women.'"

U. S. NAVY PLANES SOON TO ATTEMPT ATLANTIC FLIGHT

They Will "Hop Off" at 11:30 "Some Morning in Newfoundland" for 18 1-2 Hour Trip to Azores.

60 DESTROYERS TO AID PLANES DURING NIGHT

Warships, Using Searchlights, Will Send Continuous Swinging Beams Through Darkness, Furnishing Path of Light for Planes.

New York, May 2.—At 11:30 o'clock "some morning in New Foundland" the navy's trans-Atlantic seaplanes will "hop off" on their flight of not less than 18½ hours to the Azores, it was learned at the Rockaway Point naval air station today. This means that the three planes, the NC-1, 3 and 4, will travel all of one night and will not alight before 5 or 6 o'clock the morning after they depart from New Foundland.

Sixty destroyers equipped with powerful searchlights will sweep the heavens with continuous swinging beams all night so that during the hours of darkness the air pilots can find their way along a path of light, with a "lamppost" approximately every fifty miles. For daylight reckoning, huge numbers will be painted on the decks and sides of the vessels, so that observers in the planes may check their course regularly on the way overseas.

At Altitude of 1,000 Feet.

Flying will be at a height of about 1,000 feet, according to Commander Towers, in command of the air squadron, an altitude at which

RUMANIAN ARMY ABOUT TO ENTER HUNGARY CAPITAL

RUSSIAN ULTIMATUM FOR THE RUMANIANS

Bolshevik Regime Orders Rumanians to Evacuate Bessarabia — Jugo-Slavs Reported to Be Invading German Austria.

Vienna, May 2.—King Ferdinand, of Rumania, accompanied by French generals, is about to enter Budapest, the capital of Hungary, at the head of his troops, a Bucharest dispatch to The Neue Freie Presse says.

BELA KUN SEEKING TO STOP HOSTILITIES.

Budapest, May 2.—In his notes sent to the Rumanian, Szecho-Slovak and Jugo-Slav governments, Bela Kun, the foreign minister of the Hungarian communist government, said that his government "recognizes unreservedly the territorial claims which you put forward."

The minister demanded the immediate cessation of hostilities, noninterference with Hungarian internal affairs, and the reaching of economic agreements.

Budapest dispatches Thursday stated that the Hungarian government had asked the Rumanian and Jugo-Slav governments for a cessation of hostilities, offering territorial concessions. The foregoing dispatch evidently refers to the official messages in this connection.

RUSS ULTIMATUM SENT RUMANIA.

London, May 2.—The Russian soviet government has sent an ultimatum to Rumania, demanding the evacuation of Bessarabia. A wireless dispatch from Moscow says that the Rumanian government is given forty-eight hours in which to make reply.

Bessarabia is a former Russian province populated mostly by Rumanians and to which Rumania has laid claim. On the retirement of the Germans after the signing of the armistice Rumanian troops occupied Bessarabia.

Four or five weeks ago Russian Bolshevik troops, after fighting their way through the Ukraine, reached the Dniester river, the eastern border of Bessarabia. A Bolshevik official statement on April 14 reported that the Rumanians had been defeated in fighting along the Dniester and were retiring from Bessarabia. The Rumanian government, however, denied that its troops were evacuating the province.

The Russian ultimatum to Rumania may have been made in view of the successful Rumanian campaign against the communist government in Hungary. The Russian soviet government thus far has attempted unsuccessfully to form a physical union with communist Hungary.

JUGO-SLAVS INVADE GERMAN AUSTRIA.

Geneva, May 2.—The government of Carinthia has ordered the mobilization of twenty military classes in order to arrest the invasion of German Austria by the Jugo-Slavs, according to a dispatch received at Berne from a reliable source.

Jugo-Slavs are reported to be attacking on a 50 mile front for the purpose of seizing Klagenfurt and Villach, from which they now are only 15 miles distant.

Vienna is said to be preparing to aid the Carinthian troops and the allies are seeking to settle the conflict.

Carinthia is a titular duchy of Austria situated east of the Tyrol and north of Carniola. The capital is Klagenfurt. Two-thirds of the people of Carinthia are German and the remainder Slavs.

Jugo-Slavs Cross River Drave.

Paris, May 2.—Seventeen thousand Jugo-Slav troops Monday night attacked Carinthian troops numbering four thousand in the sectors of Arnoldstein, Villach, Rosenbach and Rainer, says a Vienna dispatch to Zurich.

The result of the operation, the dispatch continues, was that the Jugo-Slavs by Tuesday evening had passed the demarcation line fixed by the armistice commission by six miles.

The Jugo-Slavs Wednesday crossed the Drave river at several points and cut the line to Arnoldstein and Klagenfurt, preventing communication between German Austria and Italy.

Belgium Not Satisfied With Provisions for Her In the Treaty of Peace

CHINA ALSO OBJECTING REGARDING KIAO-CHAU

No Developments in the Italian Matter — Disposition of the German Cables Is Considered by the Council of Three. German Warships to Be Allotted.

New York, May 2.—(By Associated Press. Summary of European Cables of the Day.)—Aside from discussion by the council of three of minor articles of the peace treaty, Friday in peace conference circles in Paris was a quiet day. Likewise at Versailles, where the German delegates are awaiting the pleasure of delegates of the allied and associated governments to hand them the terms of peace, there were no extraordinary happenings.

With the controversy between Italy and the council of three still unsettled and the Chinese delegation reported to be disposed to protest against the award of Kiao-Chau to the Japanese, Belgium now is declared to be dissatisfied with the terms of the peace treaty as regards her territorial desires in Germany.

Apparently no great attempts are being made by the council of three to bring about a reconciliation in ideas with the Italian delegates. The French ambassador to Italy, however, has conferred at length with Premier Orlando regarding the situation and the developments of events in Paris since the Italians quit the French capital and returned to Rome.

BELGIUM OBJECTS TO TERMS OF PEACE.

Paris, May 2.—The Belgian delegation to the peace conference is expressing dissatisfaction over the terms of the preliminaries for peace as they affect Belgium. None of the territorial claims of Belgium has been granted, except that for Malmedy, in Rhenish Prussia, a short distance south of Aix-la-Chapelle, the population of which before the war was largely Walloon. Malmedy will revert to Belgium. The territory on the left bank of

MUNICH IS TAKEN FROM RED FORCES

Paris Hears That Government Troops Have Driven Communists Out of Bavaria Capital.

Paris, May 2.—Bavarian government troops captured Munich from the communists on Thursday morning, according to advices reaching here today.

Berlin, May 2.—The entry of government troops into Munich from all points was to begin at noon today, according to The Vossische Zeitung. Dr. Landauer and Eglehoser, commander of the Red army, have been captured, the newspaper adds.

London, May 2.—Reports received here tonight seemingly confirm the recapture of Munich by the government forces.

A dispatch from Copenhagen dated Thursday says the Bavarian capital was taken Wednesday evening. The dispatch adds that somewhat severe fighting preceded the victory of the government troops.

CHILD LABOR LAW HELD TO BE INVALID

U. S. Judge Boyd Holds Unconstitutional Provisions of Revenue Act Intended to Stop Employment of Little Ones.

Goldsboro, N. C., May 2.—Federal Judge James E. Boyd today held as unconstitutional the provisions of the revenue act intended to prohibit the employment of child labor.

The previous case was brought to test the federal statute which denied the channels of interstate commerce to goods made in factories where child labor was employed. Despite the rallying of well-known constitutional lawyers to the defense of the statute, it was held invalid by Judge Boyd. After the supreme court upheld them, congress wrote a provision into the recent revenue act placing a privileged tax of 10 per cent on products of factories employing children under 14 years of age to any extent, or the employment for longer than eight hours of day of children from 14 to 16 years of age.

Permanent Injunction Granted.

In making permanent an injunction granted to temporarily stay execution of this law in Charlotte, N. C., case here today, Judge Boyd said that the federal law tries to accomplish regulation of empl ment by indirection under the taxing privilege in this instance, as the previous law attempted it under the interstate commerce powers. Both attempts he holds to be invasion of states' rights.

The case is entitled Eugene T. Johnson and his nearest friend, his father, John W. Johnson, vs. the Atherton Cotton Mills, and it is a Charlotte case.

The law previously passed and declared unconstitutional boycotted the product of the mills using child labor by refusing them the channels of interstate commerce. It was recognized by the national legislature that the prohibition of child labor

MERCHANTS FAVOR TAX LAW CHANGES

Hearty Support for Amendment Providing for Merchandise Taxation Assured at Meeting of Business Leaders.

Hearty support of the proposed constitutional amendment to be passed by the Georgia legislature, providing, among other things, for a merchandise taxation in the state, was assured at a joint meeting last night of three of Atlanta's largest commercial bodies—the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association and the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' association.

Resolutions indorsing the measure were authorized by unanimous vote, when Colonel Fred J. Paxon, well known Atlanta merchant, made a motion that the secretary be instructed to draft the resolutions for formal adoption at the next joint meeting.

Will Mean Better Roads.

That the new system, as recommended by the special tax commission, would be the means of assuring better roads and schools and "make Georgia stand out among southern states," was the opinion expressed by State Senator H. A. de Jarnette, who addressed the meeting at length on the results of his searching study of the matter.

He pointed out that in Virginia, where the merchandise assessment has been in force, the new system has worked out with remarkable success and satisfaction to the people. Its most hearty supporters are the merchants of that state, he said.

"Georgia is taxed less per capita than any other state in the union, with the exception of five," he said.

"And So, After a Long, Long Absence, They Came Home Again---"

Never before has there been written an adequate story descriptive of the landing of the homeward-bound men, who come back to their native land from the great crusade of the Twentieth Century.

But now, from the facile pen of Telamon Cuyler, there comes a story of the arrival in New York of the men of the 151st Machine Gun Battalion. These Georgia men who fought throughout every American battle in the ranks of the famous Rainbow Division, will soon be coming to Camp Gordon, from where they will make the last lap of their long journey, back to the loving hearts that have waited and suffered in sublime patience.

This graphic story, written in Mr. Cuyler's own inimitable style, will be published in The Sunday Constitution. It is unquestionably the great epic of the returning warriors of our own land. Nothing like it has been published anywhere.

the Scheldt river and Maastricht and the Limbourg peninsula are not mentioned in the terms.

Of the $500,000,000 already mentioned as an immediate financial indemnity for Belgium, more than half the amount has merely been placed to Belgium's credit in allied countries as part payment of war loans. No provision has been made for the recall by Germany of the six-billion marks which were left in Belgium and now are lying in Belgian banks and vaults, bearing no interest and unproductive, as the circulation of the mark in Belgium is not permitted. "The amount of six-billion marks represents virtually the total Belgian liquid wealth assets," said a member of the Belgian delegation today.

M. Delcroix, the Belgian premier, arrived in Paris this morning, bringing a message of protest from the Belgian senate. He conferred with M. Hymans, of the Belgian peace delegation, who is expected to appear before the council of three to make representations concerning the terms granted Belgium.

CHINA PROTESTS ABOUT KIAO-CHAU.

Paris, May 2.—The Chinese delegation to the peace conference issued a statement this afternoon with regard to the decision of the council of three concerning Kiao-Chau. The statement explains that the decision of the conference virtually substitutes Japan for Germany in Shantung and adds to the Japanese railroad rights in southern Manchuria. The decision, the statement says, gives Japan practical control of northern China.

"The Chinese delegation cannot but view the decision with disappointment and dissatisfaction," the communication concludes.

GERMAN WARSHIPS WILL NOT BE SUNK.

Paris, May 2.—The naval terms to be embodied in the peace treaty with Germany which finally have been completed, do not provide for the sinking of the larger German warships. The disposition of the vessels is left to be decided upon later by the allied and associated powers.

It is felt that the final disposition of the enemy ships is purely an inter-allied question and not one for inclusion in the treaty, which provides only for the surrender of the vessels. This action is regarded as indicating that the warships will not be sunk or destroyed.

After the enemy ships are divided among the allies, each power will decide on the disposition of its own quota. The general impression here is that the French and Italians will retain their share and incorporate the vessels in their present fleets, while the British and American tendency inclines to the destruction of their quotas.

COUNCIL CONSIDERING CABLES OF GERMANY.

Paris, May 2.—The disposition of the German Atlantic and Pacific cables is again before the council of three, with some prospect of a settlement along new lines. This proposes that the cables shall be administered jointly by the five great powers until an international cable congress can consider the entire question of cables between the different countries.

This plan is alternative to the German cables being held as prizes of war by the countries which cut them, principally Great Britain, France and Japan, some of the latter's representatives still maintaining the right to hold them as prizes of war.

MANY CHAPTERS TO PEACE TREATY.

Paris, May 2.—The treaty of peace comprises from fifteen to twenty chapters, according to Marcel Hutin in The Echo de Paris. The preamble is contained in the first chapter, setting forth the reasons why the various contracting parties entered the war and mentioning the necessity for the league of nations. The second chapter deals with the German frontiers, and the third contains all clauses connected with alterations of frontiers resulting in changes in the sovereignty of territory. The fourth sets forth the military, naval and aerial clauses and the fifth takes up the disposition of the German colonies, it is said.

The other chapters are not as yet altogether finished, but they will concern reparations, economic and financial questions and will deal with the international labor legislation treaty. The treaty concludes with a chapter concerning the guarantees for the execution of the treaty conditions by Germans.

M. Hutin adds that there is every reason to believe the German delegation really has full powers and will end the negotiations by signing the preliminaries of the treaty.

GERMAN CREDENTIALS ARE BEING EXAMINED.

Paris, May 2.—The credentials committee of the peace conference held a meeting today to examine the German credentials received at Versailles yesterday.

There is no disposition, it is said, on the part of the allies and the United States to raise any questions regarding the competency of the Berlin government to speak for the remainder of Germany. In the matter they are proceeding on the theory that the Berlin ministry is the real German government.

Another meeting with the Germans on this question is improbable because the decision of the committee regarding verification and adequacy probably will be communicated to the Germans in writing.

The German delegates to the peace congress today expressed themselves as well satisfied that the first meeting Thursday with representatives of the allied and associated powers took the form of a mutual exchange of credentials rather than a one-sided demand for the production of the German papers for purposes of identification. They take this as an indication that the negotiations are to be conducted on a basis of equality.

A little flurry was caused in both allied and German circles today by a press dispatch reporting that Prince Henry of Prussia was coming to Versailles as a naval delegate. This report was erroneous. It was due to the confusion of the name of a German naval officer, Captain Heinrich, with that of former Emperor William's brother.

Measuring the Day's Work.

(From Answers, London.)

The most difficult task of the coal commission seems to be to discover how much coal cutting is a fair day's work for a collier. It appears that in a good "place" a man will cut four tons of coal in a shift, yet the yearly output of coal per man was only 200 tons last year.

It is rather interesting to glance at other forms of work, and to see just how much other toilers do in a day. Take plowing, for instance. The man who, with a single plow, turns an acre in a day, is well earning his money. In completing his task, he will have walked and guided the plow about fourteen miles.

Harvesting in the old days used to be slow work, and the man who cut by hand half an acre of wheat was doing well. With the modern horse-cutter and binder one man, with the assistance of two "shockers," has been known to cut and bind twenty acres of wheat in one day.

At one time the setting of three hundred bricks was considered a day's work for a bricklayer. But at piece-work, and using a special mortar, a man has been known to lay 1,400 bricks during an 8-hour day and to continue this average for days on end.

Packing fruit is no easy task. Take oranges, for instance. These average one hundred and fifty to the box, and each fruit has to be separately wrapped in paper. Seventy boxes is considered a very fair day's work, but a man has been known to pack one hundred and twenty boxes in a 10-hour day. He had to handle and wrap eighteen thousand oranges to accomplish this task.

The work our men did in France when marching in full kit is far beyond that of an ordinary laborer. The world's marching record is held by a detachment of the London Rifle Brigade. In April, 1914, these men—sixty-two in number—marched from London to Brighton, a distance of fifty-two miles, in fourteen hours twenty-three minutes. They were in full kit, and caried rifles, a total weight of forty-two pounds, yet not a man fell out.

A 100-Passenger Airplane.

(From the Continental Edition of The London Mail.)

One of the greatest aerial experiments of the century will be made in England shortly, when a super-triplane, made by W. G. Tarrant, will be launched.

Mr. Tarrant says the machine is nearly completed, and the first flight will take place soon. The triplane is built to carry about one hundred passengers or six tons of merchandise. It has a wing span of 150 feet, and six engines, which it is estimated, will carry the machine five hundred miles without refueling. These engines together are equivalent to three thousand horse power, and will attain a speed of about ninety miles an hour.

DEFENDING RAISE IN PHONE RATES

Briefs Filed for Government in Connection With Appeals From South Dakota and Massachusetts.

Washington, May 2.—Increase of intra-state telephone toll rates by the postmaser general was defended in a brief filed by the government today in the supreme court in connection with pending appeals from South Dakota and Massachusetts courts. The state authorilies in their appeals have contended the increase was an undue interference with their police powers. Arguments in the proceedings will be heard next Monday.

The government in its brief declares the suits instituted by the South Dakota and Massachusetts authorities to restrain the postmaster general from increasing the rates were in reality brought against the United States without its consent and should be dismissed. The government also contends that in taking over control of the telephone systems of the country the presiden "placed them in the hands of the postmaster general as his representative, under the broad power given him by the resolution to manage as he saw fit," and they thus were in effect added to the postal service and "became as much a part of the means of conveying news or communication as the mail."

The Regulation of Rates.

"The regulation of rates," the brief said, "as an exercise of power is the assertion of a right to control a private business, affected with a public interest and subject to public use, so as to subject the private property to the public service upon the payment of just compensation. To this end, in order that the private right may not be asserted to extort undue compensation for use, the power is exercised to regulate the price for use just as it might be to regulate the price for the property itself if the fee was being taken."

The government brief, prepared by Solicitor General King, denies that any state police powers are "impaired or affected by not submitting the rates fixed by the officers of the United States to state control, because not only the price regulations of the state do not affect rates made by the government itself, but the police power does not extend to such a subject.

"The public," the brief adds, "has acted and fixed the rate when the public officer of the United States fixed it.

"It seems clear that if congress had intended to confer upon the states the power to regulate the rates at which the United States will furnish telephone service, it would not have expressed that intention by a reservation to the states of their 'police regulations.'

What Government Would Expect.

"When a private corporation leases, for however short a time, the property of another such corporation it is certainly with the expectation of making enough from its operations to pay the rental and even a profit to itself. It was, therefore, to be supposed that the government would expect to charge in the operations of these properties sufficient rates to pay for the increasing expenses of operaion and discharge the rental which it was to pay. It would have been legitimate to have even contemplated some additional sum to reimburse the government for the time of public officers consumed in this work."

The government contends that state public utility commissions were never authorized when created by the states nor since to deal with the rates of public utilities operated by governmental agencies.

Claims Missionaries Are Not Responsible For Korean Trouble

Nashville, Tenn., May 2.—(Special.) Declaring that the revolution in Korea has not been fostered by the missionaries there and that it was just the outcropping or result of a desire for freedom, Dr. W. C. Cram, associate secretary of the Centenary Commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, addressed a gathering of men and women at Vanderbilt University this morning. Dr. Cram has been a missionary in Korea for sixteen years and spoke with an authority which carried conviction to those who heard him. Dr. Cram said that, being so far from the scene of the revolution himself just now he was only able to speak of conditions there as they were reported to him through letters he has been receiving from missionaries still in Korea. In further discussing the problem of Korea, Dr. Cram said:

"Certainly the missionaries there are not to blame for the revolution. The group of Koreans who started it kept the whole thing absolutely secret and sprung it suddenly upon the public as well as the missionaries in one day. The whole revolution is just the outcropping of a desire for freedom which has been growing with the orientals everywhere now for years. The orentals' intellectual ability is just as great as is our own and, now that he, too, has come under the influence of the civilizing gospel of Christianity he is struggling for that spiritual freedom,—that desire of the individual to be delivered from the bondage of autocracy in any form.

"In the present crisis in Korea missionaries have been arrested but their indictment has come only through the lowest court of Japan where, according to custom, an indictment always follows an arrest. The missionaries will carry their case to the two courts above if necessary and, as the judge of the supreme tribunal is himself a Christian and a man of great force and intellect, I have no fear of the outcome of his decision. Temporarily all missionary work is closed in Korea because of the upheaval there, but it will be only a little time now when the churches can be at work again."

TANK IN THOMASVILLE ROOTS UP BIG TREES

Thomasville, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—Many of the towns in south Georgia have been stirred up this week by the visits of war tanks and many are wondering if the baby tanks exhibiting here can do such remarkable stunts what the big fellows can accomplish. The one visiting Tifton, Thomasville, Quitman, Valdosta and other towns in this section, though small in size, found no difficulty in climbing over trees and jumping ditches. The tank was in charge of W. G. Moore, field representative of the treasury department, and with him were Sergeants Hunt and Gregory. Large crowds watched the antics of the tank, the schools being dismissed for the pupils to view it.

DYNAMITE IS USED BY MEXIC REBELS

They Are Destroying Trains in Northern and Southern Mexico—Many Persons Are Reported Killed.

Washington, May 2.—Further rebel activity in northern and southern Mexico was reported today in Mexico City dispatches, which also said that the Mexican government had undertaken to build block houses on several of the railway lines in the republic that have suffered particularly of late from attacks by the rebel bands. Eighty-six block houses, the dispatches said, are to be built on the oceanic line between Vera Cruz and Jalapa.

The advices received through official channels here said Marcelo Caraveo, formerly one of the chief lieutenants of Orozco, had appeared in Puebla and that many believe he will be the successor of Zapata, who recently was killed by federal troops. Caraveo is reported to be bolder, more cruel and more unprincipled than Zapata and is said to have a devoted following.

Caraveo, the dispatches state, recently led a band of 500 men in an attack on a train between Jalapa and Puebla. The train was dynamited, twenty-seven of the thirty soldier guards killed, seven passengers, including the wife and child of the captain of the guard killed and about twenty passengers wounded. The train crew fled to the hills where they later were overtaken by the rebels and killed.

A band of thirty rebels recently penetrated into the heart of Vera Cruz, the dispatches say, robbed a store and carried away the wife of the proprietor. General Rafael Montalvo, port commander, who presided at the courtmartial which senteneed General Alvarez to be shot, called out the naval cadets to assist in running down the rebels, but no trace of them was said to have been found.

VICTORY LOAN DAY IS SUCCESS AT DAWSON

Dawson, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—Victory Loan day was celebrated in Dawson yesterday with much enthusiasm. A brass band played stirring music during the day and at 11 o'clock a largely attended mass meeting of citizens was held in the courthouse and a splendid patriotic address delivered by Hon. Hooper Alexander, of Atlanta. A stirring appeal was also made by Miss Rheba Crawford, lieutenant in the Salvation Army. A large amount was subscribed within a few minutes and this sum, supplemented by subscriptions from other towns in the county reports of which are expected today, will, it is believed, put Terrell safely over the top, the amount apportioned to the county being $245,000.

AMERICUS ON HAND AT TEACHERS' MEET

Americus, Ga., May 2.—(Special.) Americus is represented at the meeting of the educational association today by a strong delegation of teachers, representing a majority of the membfsreo teafhctam t t t of the members of the faculty of every school here. The teachers were enabled to attend the meeting of the state organization through the generosity of the board of education, which granted them leave of absence for that purpose. Miss Ella Polk, director of music in the schools here, had prepared a paper on community music at the suggestion of the program committee, and she will read this at a departmental meeting today.

Superintendent J. E. Mathis, who is prominent in the affairs in the associatino, has been in Macon several days attending committee meetings, while C. M. Hale, principal of the high school, and Miss Sarah Cobb, principal of the Furlow grammar school, went there today. Other teachers attending the Macon gathering are Miss Mary Cannon, Miss Lizzie McLendon, Miss Winifred Brooks and Miss Margaret Ivey, of the Furlow school faculty, and J. M. France, Miss M. K. 14 Men Are Badly Hurt By Gasoline Explosion On Submarine Chaser

Charleston, S. C., May 2.—Due to ignition of gasoline on board the submarine chaser No. 58 at the plant of the Valk & Murdock company this morning the vessel is practically a total loss and thirteen city firemen are in the Roper hospital.

Of the thirteen Chief Louis E. Behrens is the most seriously hurt and burned. He is affected also by concussion. Tonight he was still in a state of coma. Acting Assistant Chief J. H. Wohlers is also in a very serious condition. According to the hospital authorities all of the firemen are expected to recover, though, in the cases of Behrens and Wohlers, it will be some time before they can return to duty.

Ensign J. E. Martin, commanding the submarine chaser, was injured, but not dangerously, in the first of the series of explosions. Most of the ammunition on board had been removed before the first three gasoline tanks burst. The vessel was towed across the Cooper river and beached, continuing to burn for hours, minor explosions occurring at intervals, due to the ammunition which remained aboard.

Naval authorities will tomorrow begin an inquiry into the disaster. They say that Ensign Martin was the only naval man injured, several bluejackets escaping by a narrow margin.

MANY DISABLED MEN APPLY FOR TRAINING

Washington, May 2.—(Special.)—Rapid progress is being made in reaching the disabled soldiers, sailors and marines, who have received such disabilities as a result of service that they require vocational retraining. The Federal Board for Vocational Education, designated by congress to rehabilitate the disabled, reports a total of 57,611 cases of disabilities registered. This is an increase over the preceeding month of 18,042 cases, or 48 per cent. The increase in the number of cases for the month of February over the month of January was 73 per cent, and the increase of January over December was 80 per cent, and the increase for December over November was 50 per cent. The average rate of increase for the four months being 62 per cent.

Fitzgerald Taxes.

Fitzgerald, Ga., May 2.—(Special.) The city's tax equalization board was in session yesterday, and was practically overrun with complaining tax-dodgers who had been summoned to show cause why their tax returns should not be raised. Aldermen D. E. Griffin, George F. Flournoy and Charles S. Isler make up the board. The tax rate of this city is very low, considering the many civic advantages enjoyed free by our citizens. Besides a very low water and light rate, due to the municipally-owned plant, the city is brilliantly lighted free. The schools are free and run nine months, and every child is furnished free school books in every grade, both white and colored. The city tax rate is $10.50 per thousand, with an additional small levy for interest and a sinking fund to meet the outstanding bonds when they mature.

Cong. Blackman Speaks.

Anniston, Ala., May 2.—(Special.) Congressman Fred L. Blackmon announced today that he will start next Monday on a tour of the district in an effort to meet personally as many of the people as he can get in touch with. Congressman Blackmon says he is not making the tour for political purposes, but merely to meet the people and find from personal conversations with them what they wish in the way of legislation.

WHEAT CROP TO PASS GREAT RECORD OF 1914

Washington, May 2.—Prediction of the department of agriculture for a wheat crop this year even larger than the record-breaking crop of 1914 was repeated today by the United States Chamber of Commerce in a report based on statistics obtained from all sections of the country. The report stated that an acreage never before equalled had been planted and a yield of 900,000,000 bushels was forecasted.

"The condition of the winter wheat is so high as to be without precedent or parallel," the report said. "It is in fact, a monotone of perfection. The plant came through the winter and the trying month of March unscathed and unhurt. In many sections of the west and southwest it was necessary to pasture it to live stock to keep down its rank growth.

"Reports of damage are mostly remarkable by their entire absence. Mere rumors of Hessian fly and some stray predatory insects, but that is all. Unless some climatic catastrophe, or some Egyptian-like and unexpected plague of insects intervene, the yield will probably be 900,000,000 bushels, or about 33 per cent more than the great harvest of 1914."

This report stated that one interesting sidelight of the situation was that about 25 per cent of the yield would be south of the Mason and Dixon line. Southern states which never before grew winter wheat this year have large acreages planted, it was said. Reports showed that the seeding of spring wheat had been delayed from ten days to two weeks by excessive rains, and a decrease of acreage as compared with last year was expected.

BATTLESHIP OREGON FOR THE RETIRED LIST

Washington, May 2.—Shortage of men is about to cause the navy department to place the famous battleship Oregon out of commission. Acting Secretary Roosevelt said today that if the state of Oregon desired, the government probably would turn the ship over to it to be maintained for historical purposes without expense to the navy.

Before delivering the vessel, the department would have her stripped of all material valuable to the navy. Mr. Roosevelt explained that the hull could not be sold for any considerable amount of money and that the department did not desire to scrap the ship for sentimental and historical reasons.

Thomasville Comes Today.

Thomasville, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—Tomorrow will be Victory Loan day in Thomasville, and the committee in charge expect to put things through with a rush. An interesting program has been arranged by Chairman W. H. Rockwell, of the county committee, and J. B. Jemison, chairman in Thomasville, with a number of assistants. With the great success of the permanent roads campaign, it is desired to have the Victory Loan drive go with an equal rush.

JOHNSON'S RADIATOR CEMENT Mends Leaky Radiators

Stop those Leaks

THE easiest and quickest way to repair leaks in radiators, pumps, water jackets, hose connections, etc., is to use Johnson's Radiator Cement. This will stop the leaks instantly without laying up the car. No mechanical experience is required—all you have to do is remove the cap and pour the liquid into the radiator.

No tool kit is complete without a can of Johnson's Radiator Cement. It overcomes the inconvenience of laying up one's car. A half-pint is ordinarily sufficient for a Ford or other small radiator—for larger cars use a pint.

JOHNSON'S RADIATOR CEMENT

Johnson's Radiator Cement blends perfectly with the water until it reaches the leaks—just as soon as it comes in contact with the air it forms a hard, tough, pressure-resisting substance which is insoluble in water and consequently makes a permanent seal.

Quick—Efficient—Harmless

Johnson's Radiator Cement contains no powder, cement or anything which can coat, clog or interfere with the efficiency of the cooling system. It will ordinarily seal a leak in from two to ten minutes.

Use Johnson's Radiator Cement for Automobile and Tractor radiators and for sealing leaks and cracks in boilers and water jackets of all kinds.

Insist upon your dealer supplying you with Johnson's Radiator Cement. Write for our booklet on "Keeping Cars Young"—it's free.

EDUCATORS ARGUE POST-WAR TOPICS

Increased Pay for Teachers, Longer School Term in Country and Improved Methods Urged.

Macon, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—With more than 1,000 school teachers and college professors in attendance, the Georgia Educational association began its annual convention here today, two sessions being held, one in the morning, when a variety of subjects were discussed, and another this afternoon, when United States Senator Hoke Smith and P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, were the speakers. Tonight the audience completely filled the new city auditorium. At their opening session here the educators contributed $200 to a fund to establish a chair to honor the memory of Miss Celeste Parrish, in the state university at Athens.

Miss Parrish was formerly science teacher in the State Normal school and later a state school instructor, being widely known and loved throughout Georgia because of her work in promoting domestic science in the rural sections. The $200 was raised this morning in a few minutes, following the presentation of the subject by M. L. Duggan, rural school inspector.

Will Increase Fund.

Teachers agreed to continue their drive for the fund, hoping to have the chair established when the state university becomes a co-educational institution with the opening of the next term. In presenting the matter to the association, Mr. Duggan paid high tribute to Miss Parrish. Following the raising of the fund for the chair for Miss Parrish, Mr. Duggan presented a resolution to put the convention on record as being in favor of equal suffrage. This matter was presented to the committee on resolutions, which had been previously appointed, and it is expected that it will precipitate a fight on the floor of the convention at the session tomorrow morning.

A teachers' retirement plan for pensioning teachers after they have spent the best years of their life in school work, was presented in a resolution presented by J. Ellsworth Hall, of this city.

The resolution also provides for a report from each superintendent on teachers who have reached retirement age. The resolution also was referred to the resolutions committee.

Committees Named.

President Walker P. Thomas, in announcing the list of committees who are to make their reports just before the adjournment of the convention tomorrow, states that this convention is proving to be the largest in the history of the association. He said that more than 800 had registered up to this afternoon, and the indications are the list will go far above one thousand.

The committees appointed are as follows: Resolutions, R. E. Brooks, Albany; W. G. Roberts, Valdosta; H. B. Carraker, Commerce; F. F. Rowe, LaGrange; J. H. Parks, Madison; legislation, J. C. Harris, Cave Springs; P. J. Woofter, Athens; R. W. Powell, Valdosta, and M. M. Parks, Milledgeville; membership, M. C. Allen, Calhoun; C. O. Stubbs, Greenville; R. D. McDowell, Crawfordville; M. O. McCord, Manchester; Van Fletcher, Monticello.

The new members are: Miss Daisy library board were appointed, as this is the usual custom, to make a total membership of six.

The board passes on the reading course of all the schools of Georgia for the year.

The election of officers and the reports of committees are to occupy the time of the visitors tomorrow morning.

All of the educators in attendance expect to see the events in connection with the Southeastern Aeronautical congress before they leave, and some will remain for the opening night of the chautauqua.

After-the-war problems having to do principally with vocational education and military training were discussed during today's meeting of the Georgia Teachers' association, the latter feature being discussed by W. W. Crane, of Atlanta, who told of the benefits which the students of Georgia Tech have derived from the training. He quoted government figures showing there are fifty-two million boys in the United States and 50 per cent of them are physically deficient. Educational lessons derived from the war were handled in an able manner by Dr. C. C. Jarrell, of Emory university, who pointed out that hereafter education must be interpreted as filled with the spirit of service. That a new vision of democracy has dawned, which must be taught through the teachers of the nation: that America stands on the top of the world today and the teachers must make her worthy to stand there and that the school must catch the new meaning and teach it to the young.

Better Teachers Urged.

Professor Leon Smith, of Wesleyan college, in discussing "Educational Readjustments Between the High Schools and Colleges," urged that there be no teacher in college who is not a high school graduate and that no teacher be employed in the grammar schools who has not had such a high standard of preparation that she can command a salary of not less than $1,000. He urged that teachers be paid more, contending they cannot do their best work if surrounded by limited conditions and financial pressure. He appealed for a cessation of the friction between high schools and colleges and urged that every boy and girl with the mental capacity for taking it, should finish the four-year course before going to college.

Mrs. J. E. Andrews, state president of the Parent-Teacher association, appealed for a Parent-Teacher Association club in every school in Georgia. The Smith-Hughes law was discussed by Professor Roy Dimmit, federal agent for industrail education.

R. C. Stearns, district representative of the War Camp Community Service with headquarters in Atlanta, spoke on "Physical Fitness a National Necessity," and Dr. C. A. Prosser, director of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, Washington, D. C., spoke on "Vocational Education, As it Pertains to the Rehabiliation of the Disabled Soldiers."

County Officers Meeting.

At the final session of the county school officers association today, Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, made a talk on "Democracy and Education." He declared the state of Georgia must raise three times as much money for educational purposes as is now done. An interesting feature of the county officers meeting was a demonstration of the results of a new method of teaching. Cecil Booth, aged 7 years, son of Sankey Booth, superintendent of the school of Atkinson county, spelled rapidly and correctly a long list of words which many adults find difficult. Mr. Booth told the school officers that the child's ability to spell words that stump the average person is the result of a simple and direct method.

He also declared there is no mechanical problem in the school arithmetic that a child of seven years cannot work, with the exception of problems in square and cube root. Mr. Booth did not give the details of his system but volunteered to enlighten anyone who desired to communicate with him.

PROFESSOR DYKES ELECTED LEADER

against certain members of the school administration.

There were no speeches made in Professor Dykes' favor, his friends being confident that they had enough votes to elect and considering speeches unnecessary.

Culver Makes Talk.

Mr. Culver arose, and addressing the board, stated that he wished to correct with a statement some false impressions he understood certain members may have gained from rumors during the past two days. He said that he wished to brand as groundless any rumor that may have gained circulation that any member of the former board of education had with his knowledge worked to bring about his election.

He also asked that no report be given credence which represented him as being aligned with any faction. He expressed himself as havhaving endeavored in his official conduct to be open and above board, loyal to the schools and willing to continue to be so.

Continuing, he asserted his belief that the office of superintendent should not be sought by any man, and with this belief in mind he said that he had requested his friends not to petition the board in his behalf, not wishing to hamper them in their selection of the proper man for the place.

In concluding his remarks he thanked the commissioners for their consideration toward him and extended his thanks to the principals and teachers in the schools and to the members of the clerical force in the office of the superintendent.

Following the election other business came up for disposal and upon motion of Mr. Culver, the board voted to grant the several senior classes in the high schools, on a day to be determined by the principals, a one-day vacation for the purpose of holding a program of exercise either within or without the city, also in the discretion of the principals.

Also on motion of Mr. Culver the board voted to grant a period of leave of absence to Professor Gilbert Siler, who has been acting as assistant superintendent of schools, to visit various educational institutions in the north and east.

In some countries trousers were looked upon with disfavor for many years after they came into vogue. In 1790, for instance, the Landgrave of Hesse-Cassel ordered that the convicts engaged in street sweeping and road-making should be dressed in trousers, so as to disgust his subjects with this form of dress.

ATLANTAN FOUGHT ON SEVEN FRONTS, BUT IS UNINJURED

After fighting on seven fronts as a member of the famous 32nd, known as the "shock" division, Corporal Harry H. Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. McHiggins, of 525 Whitehall street, will arrive in New York Monday.

CORPORAL HARRY HIGGINS.

During the twenty months of his service Corporal Higgins has spent twelve of the months in the service of his country "overseas" and has been through many hard fights including the Argonne campaign, and has narrowly escaped death more than once. On one occasion he was sleeping with three of his companions on the side of the hill under intense shell fire. A shell dropped close by, killing one of his companions, severely wounding another, shocking a third and knocking him unconscious but not harming him otherwise.

Corporal Higgins was trained at Camp Wheeler and went across in April of 1919 with a replacement regiment, which was assigned to the 32nd division.

Filling Station Looted.

The filling station of the Texas Oil company, at the corner of Peachtree and Sixth streets, was entered early Saturday morning, the burglars securing about $130 in cash by working the combination on the safe. Entrance was gained by breaking open a side window. The robbery was discovered by Policemen Ellis and Appling shortly before 2 o'clock Saturday morning. No clew as to the robbers has been found by the police.

COMMITTEE TO PASS ON VOTES FOR WOMEN

Ernest Buchanan, chairman of the city executive committee, which will consider at its meeting Saturday at 12 o'clock the question of women participating in the primaries, said Friday that the most effective step which could be taken by the women who are advocates of equal suffrage would be for a large delegation of them to attend the session at the city hall.

The suffrage leaders of the city are urging all women who are interested in the principle of votes for women to come out in full force, whether or not they are affiliated with any organization. A number of the committee members have said that they will be glad to grant the privilege of the primary vote to women if the women desired it. Only a large attendance Saturday can answer this question.

Favors Liberty Bond For Each Month Served By Soldier During War

E. B. Lester, former chief clerk of local draft board No. 3 heartily agrees with the plan submitted by J. H. Mooney, ex-chief of local board No. 1, of Denver, Colo., to have each honorably discharged soldier receive a $50 Victory bond for each month he has served his country. Mr. Lester declares that while other men were earning good wages at home during war times, the soldier was doing his best to aid his government, and his services should now be rewarded substantially.

Mr. Lester is also very desirous of securing the name of every local boy who has been in the service or who is yet a soldier or sailor of Uncle Sam. In this way he expects to keep the local soldier in touch with the things his government is able to do for him. Mr. Lester resides at 176 Oakland avenue, Atlanta.

ALL IS PRIMED TO OPEN CONGRESS

Big Aeronautical Meet Starts in Macon Today With Series of Airflights and Balloon Demonstrations.

Macon, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—With canvas hangars erected around the edge of the big flying field at Central City Park, housing a score or more of airships, and the exhibit buildings of the Georgia State Fair association filled to overflowing with displays of everything that goes into the business of flying, Major Houghton, director of the Southeastern Aeronautical congress, announced tonight that everything is in readiness for the opening of the congress tomorrow morning. A force of 200 workmen put in the entire day setting up the exhibits and getting everything in readiness for the opening. The program for the opening day provides for the following events:

11 a. m.—Captive balloon demonstration.

3 p. m.—Wireless telephone demonstration, showing how squadron of airplanes several thousand feet in the air are directed in their movements from the ground.

4:30 p. m.—Arrival of the mail-carrying airplane from Montgomery.

5:30 to 7:30 p. m.—Moving picture of aviation at the Grand theater. Free to the public.

An eevnt for which no definite time has been fixed is the arrival of the giant Martin bomber, which will come from Washington, D. C. Major Frank, who will pilot the machine, expects to cover the 700 miles without a stop, and is scheduled to arrive over the city some time during the afternoon. He will land at Camp Wheeler, where the landing field is several times larger than the one at Central City Park. The machine is so large that a straight sweep of a half to three-quarters of a mile is required for the landing. Later the big ship will fly to Central City Park, where Major Houghton has decided it will be possible to effect a landing once Major Frank has familiarized himself with the conditions.

Nottingham in Charge.

Postmaster Custis Nottingham is in charge of the arrangements for the inauguration of the aerial mail service. The mail will be enclosed in fireproof bags and special aerial mail service stamps will be used. Macon and Montgomery mayors are to exchange greetings and hundreds of letters will pass between the two cities during the seven days that the service is maintained. The cancelled stamps used in this service will be in demand for souvenirs.

While the mail service is probably attracting more attention than any other feature of the congress, the radio demonstration is running it a close second. Very few people in the United States have had the privilege of witnessing a demonstration of this kind and they will not only be permitted to see, but they will also have the opportunity to listen in and hear through the megaphone transmission apparatus, the conversation which passes back and forth between the ground station and the machines high in the air. The main ground station will be located near the flying field, but a smaller station will be located at the Hotel Dempsey, where twenty at a time will be able to listen to the wireless communication in progress at the flying field.

Lieutenant Adams, of Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., will be the receiver for the aerial squadron and will transmit all messages to the flight commander, Lieutenant B. S. Thompson, of Charleston Field, Arcadia, Fla. When he gets an order he will pass it to the squadron commander, who will be flying a little in front of the other machines and who will execute the maneuver first, followed by all of the other machines in the squadron. Lieutenant Shangraw, of Bolling Field, who will be in charge of the ground station, states that it is possible to carry on the liveliest kind of a conversation with the airplane squadron and when the man flying high in the air runs out of something to say he can read a newspaper to the people on the ground and they can understand everything he says just as well as if he were standing within ten feet of them instead of speeding through the air at the rate of sixty miles an hour.

Phone Conversation Simple.

Few people understand just how it is possible to carry on a conversation of this kind, but to the initiated, it is as simple as can be. Antennae, wires 150 feet in length, trailing behind the machine, pick up the message as it vibrates through the air, and transmitting tubes in which the sound is intensified bring the voices thousands of feet below to the ears of the operator.

Many novel stunts are being planned by the flyers and radio men and they are anticipating the aerial frolic with a great deal of pleasure.

The aerial gunnery exhibit was unpacked and placed in the exhibit building today. It was shipped here from the armament section at McCook field, Dayton, Ohio, and is in charge of Lieutenant E. T. Smith. The most interesting thing in the exhibit is a 500-pound bomb, which was made to be dropped on Berlin. The first of these bombs were to have been dropped on the German capital on the day the armistice was signed, but the cessation of the fighting interfered with the plans of the aviators. There are a number of other kinds of bombs in the exhibit; in fact, every kind of death dealing device used by the airmen is included. Air models of Lewis, Browning and Marlin machine guns are shown and there are mechanical and hydraulic synchronizing gear for shooting between the propeller blades; aerial ring sites, ammunition belts for loading machine guns, fighting observers' Tourelles, a revolving mounting for machine guns and numerous charts.

Aerial Photography.

All kinds of mechanical devices are shown as well as the different types of motors. This exhibit will delight the man or woman blessed with a technical mind and it is a source of wonderment to the layman who knows nothing about the general principle of the thing.

While the congress is being held to further the commercializing of aviation, the army aviation service is not overlooking the chance to secure some recruits. Lieutenant Perry W. Blackler is here from Souther field to explain to prospective flyers the attractive features of the service. He states that all men who enlist for the three-year period can choose the camp to which they desire to be sent and if any of them want to go to Europe he will see that they are there within thirty days after they sign up. Uncle Sam needs aviators bad and he is offering special inducements to young men to enter that branch of the service. The greatest need is for mechanics and the announcement is made that previous service men may re-enlist a day after their discharge for a period of one year.

Major General Charles B. Menoher, former commander of the Rainbow division and present director of army aviation service, will arrive in Macon Sunday. He will be accompanied by members of his staff and will be the principal speaker at Monday's session of the congress. General Menoher will be accompanied by Major H. M. Hickam, chief of operation; Colonel D. C. Gapin, medical officer of the air service; Brigadier General L. E. O. Charlton, air attache of the high British military embassy, and Otto Praeger, second assistant postmaster general, who has charge of the development of the aerial mail service.

COVENANT OF LEAGUE DISAPPOINTS EUROPE

recall the circumstances of that session, when President Wilson had completed his statement, the voices of Japan, of Belgium and of France were raised in immediate protest. While the vacant place of Italy was even more eloquent testimony to facts as they were.

Actual War at Many Places.

Moreover, for those who were present there was a consciousness that while the Paris conference was thus adopting the covenant of the league of nations which carried with it no power to enforce its decisions actual war was raging from the Gulf of Finland to the Crimean peninsula. That the Rumanians and Bolshevists were figthing on the Dniester. The Rumanians and Hungarians along the Theiss, the Poles and Bolshevists on the front from Vilna to Pinsk and the Jugo-Slavs and Italians were facing each other in arms on the shores of the Adriatic.

In the session itself the atmosphere was unmistakable. Correspondents of journals of countries all over the allied world equally testified to the same impression of disappointment. While the formal phases of the covenant were adopted there sounded in the ears of those who heard these phrases the guns of a score of armies still fighting on European soil and there was in their minds the realization that one of the great allies had already left the peace conference on the question of national ambition, while still another was daily threatening to take the same course.

Plain Warning From France.

Moreover, for a third, for France, as for Italy and Japan, there was plain warning in the words of Bourgeois that the covenant of the league of nations had become a dead thing because no power had been bestowed upon the league to protect the members against attack coming from without.

There seems to be an impression in America that opposition to the league of nations comes from reactionary quarters in continental Europe and that the mass of people in all countries believed in and accepted this document. This was the obvious belief of the president when he appealed to the Italian people over the heads of their government, but today the response of the Italian people is unmistakable. They have followed their government with the same enthusiasm and unanimity that the German people marched with its government in the crucial days of July, 1914. There has been revealed again how impossible it is to rally a country to abstract justice when national aspiration is rebuffed.

Moreover, it is now clear that if conservative Europe always distrusted the league of nations, socialist and radical Europe is now equally opposed. "Humanite," speaking for the socialists of France, says today: "We declare, then, once for all, that the proletariat affirms its bitter disillusionment. We are not astonished that the international socialist conference at this moment meeting at Amsterdam also unanimously rejects this society of nations."

Meaningless on the Continent.

I am convincerd that if a measure of hope for the future of the league of nations survives in Great Britain, where conditions in a degree recall those of the United States, since Great Britain, like the United States, is separated by an ocean rampart from the continent, that on the continent the covenant of the league of nations has already become as meaningless as the agreements at The Hague. The Italian gesture, which has produced the crisis from which we have not yet recovered, was a final blow. Wars now going on in the east were an unanswerable illustration of the incapacity of the peace conference to deal with Bolshevism. Continental Europe, conscious that its necessities, its age-long traditions, its peculiar problems, have not been understood, is unmistakably in the throes of reaction against idealistic solutions for what it regards as totally practical problems. The French are demanding from their British and American allies a guarantee in military fact against a new German attack, the Italians are taking root on the eastern coast of the Adriatic, in Fiume and Dalmatia, in defiance of the appeal of the president, and in obedience to the dictates of their nation's security. The Poles are invading Lithuania and preparing to attack Germany to possess themselves of territories the conference of peace has allotted to them.

Controlled by Old Conceptions.

The league of nations represented before all else the conviction of the president and those Americans who share his views that all men of all nations, without regard to ancient rivalries or contemporary differences, were prepared to rally to the new gospel, to overturn their governments if their governments refused to heed the new voice and pursued the old pathways. The last four months have clearly and unmistakably demonstrated that the peoples of Europe, qutie as much as and perhaps more than their governments, are controlled by old conceptions of national unity, political security, individual economic existence and development. They have demonstrated that France will accept no league of nations that does not carry with it the specific additional guarantee by Great Britain and the United States against a new attack by Germany. That Italy will not resign national aspirations and sacrifice Fiume; that the Poles will accept no compromise in or out of the league of nations which deprives them of unquestioned ownership of Danzig; that Jugo-Slavia prefers another war to any compromise along the Adriatic.

Growing Realization of Facts.

It is the growing realization of these facts which created the atmosphere in which the league of nations covenant was adopted. It was the realization of these facts which led so many of those who were present to describe the session as a mockery. At all events, however, permanently accurate the contemporary conception may be, no one can mistake Paris judgment upon the present state of the league of nations, nor measure the extent of disillusionment and disappointment for all those who saw in it even a partial cure for the evils of recent days.

ATLANTA NEARING HALF-WAY MARK

cally over the top for the full amount asked of it.

Field Representative Ansley, who was in charge of the party from Atlanta zone headquarters which helped achieve this splendid result, says he has found the utmost possible enthusiasm for the loan everywhere he has been.

Zone Chairman Robert E. Harvey was at Covington Friday and will stop at Conyers and McDonough on Saturday. He reports a splendid meeting with large subscriptions for Friday. He has with him an army tank and an airplane from Souther Field, Americus.

The teams which were out canvassing all day in Atlanta met with ready response from all whom they called upon. It was stated by workers that they found no difficulty whatever in selling the bonds whenever they could find a man in and talk to him.

Industrial Plant Meetings.

In this respect, for the purpose of saving time, it has been requested that managers of industrial plants arrange so that they can call their workers together when the workers for the loan reach the plant. In this way it will be possible to effect a big time-saving by talking to the men all at one time and by soliciting them on the spot while they are gathered together.

The reports made by the different teams during the day, through their captains, shows a total of $1,624,200 subscribed Friday by the latest reports. The subscriptions secured by the different teams are as follows:

Captain Tenzler	5,850
Captain Donaldson	15,250
Captain Fitch	23,850
Captain Thompson	1,150
Captain Heary	23,500
Captain Walton	5,800
Captain Dinwiddie	3,400
Captain Webb	9,450
General Addicks	239,450
Captain Ramey	8,500
Total	$1,624,200

Central Bank Subscription.

In making the subscription of one million dollars for the fifth loan, Mr. Coles, of the Central Bank and Trust corporation, made the following statement, which was in the form of a resolution passed by the board of directors of the company:

The directors of the Central Bank and Trust corporation, believing that the Victory loan notes are a good safe investment and can be readily sold to its customers, have decided to subscribe and buy through the federal reserve bank $1,000,000 of Victory loan notes for its own account. We believe that these bonds will sell at a premium in a very short time and we base our reasons on the following facts:

1. These notes will be the direct obligation of the government and mature in four years, at the option of the government to redeem in three years, and bear 4¾ per cent interest, payable semi-annually, which is the highest rate that any Liberty bond carries.

2. If you already own as much as $20,000 of the First converted, the Second, Third and Fourth Liberty bonds you can be exempt from all surtax, excess profits and war profits taxes on these bonds provided you hold at least one-third in value of the Victory loan.

3. The Victory loan notes which mature in four years will not decline in value for the reason that if they sell at a discount of $1 per $1,000 the rate of interest goes above 5 per cent and all of the Liberty loan bonds are now selling on a 4¾ basis.

4. Victory bonds will go to a premium of $8 per $1,000 within the next six months because at this price they will net the investor 4½ per cent per annum.

5. If the government redeems these Victory bonds in three years they will sell at $16 per $1,000 premium and still net the investor 4½ per cent.

Atlanta Police Help.

S. C. Dobbs, chairman of the Atlanta campaign, expressed great exuberance during the day at the sale of $5,000 worth of the bonds to the members of the Atlanta police force. The members of the department have been consistent purchasers of the Liberty bonds in all of the previous issues and the response to the last of the issues is particularly gratifying. Mr. Dobbs also asked that it be made plain that the subscription of the Central Bank and Trust corporation did not represent the purchase of Asa G. Candler.

The women have been particularly busy since they started their campaign of the residential sections of the city and during the day reported sales of more than $40,000. Previously they had sold in excess of $50,000 bonds.

The Atlanta Boy Scouts started their campaign of the city during the day and while a report was not available on their first day's business several sales running over $1,000 are known to have been made by the boys.

The Fulton Bag and Cotton mills have purchased bonds to the extent of $200,000 and a subscription of $40,000 from Jacob Elsas, president, was announced.

The newspaper publishers, who were in the city Thursday to meet Carter Glass, secretary of the treasury, had most of them returned home by Friday night. Each expressed himself as highly pleased with the attention he had received during his visit and was loud in his praises of the publicity branch of the district organization, and St. Elmo Massengale, the publicity director, for the splendid arrangements which had been made.

PICNICKERS KILL LAST OF PACK OF WILD DOGS

By Sage Phinkett.

Already some bathers and picknickers are congregating at Houston's Mill, where yet remains a large body of wooded land. These woods connecting with the woodland belonging to Z. T. Harrison make a stretch of some two miles, which before the settlement of Druid Hills, then all in original forest, staged the last stand of the wild dogs produced by the destruction of Atlanta in 1865.

These woods were once full of packs of wild dogs as a consequence of Atlanta's being evacuated, but they have been exterminated, save now and then one appears along the creek in the neighborhood of Houston's Mill.

Last week a party of picnickers were treated to a sight of one of these wild dogs, grown to an enormous size. The animal was first sighted in crossing the creek above the mill to enter the pasture where ranged a number of cattle. It was apparent that his dogship intended to make a meal of one of the cows, but a vigorous Jersey bull among the cattle disputed the way with his dogship and delayed his action till a number of the picnickers went to the rescue and succeeded in killing the dog. Some of these wild dogs, found and captured when pups were owned by farmers from time to time in the past, and these agree that the dog in a wild stage is much stronger and self reliant than those petted and cared for under domestic conditions.

ON OUR NATION'S ROLL OF HONOR

The names of four more Georgia heroes appear in the latest official casualty list, which contains a total of 237 names. The grand total of all army casualties reported to date is 276,372, according to the latest official reports. Of the 198,790 men, who were wounded in action, during the war, over 85 per cent have been returned to duty, while the presence of only 4,133 men yet remain unaccounted for.

The Georgians appearing in the list are: Died of disease: Privates William V. McBee, Jasper; Walter Smith, Locust Grove, Ga.; wounded in action: Mechanic Eli Drury, Thunderbolt; Private Benjamin R. Watkins, Winston.

Total number of casualties reported to date including today's list are:

Killed in action (including 381 at sea)	32,535
Died of wounds	13,467
Died of disease	22,880
Died from accident and other causes	4,567
Wounded in action (85 per cent returned)	198,790
Missing (not including prisoners released and returned)	4,133

NEW JUVENILE COURT BUILDING IS NEEDED

The question of a new juvenile court is one that will come up before the county commissioners when they meet Saturday morning to award contracts for insurance of the furnishings of the courthouse. Judge Tindall, judge of the probationer's court, will appear to recommend the purchase of a lot which he has approved for the purpose of building a new detention home.

Paul S. Etheridge, chairman of the alms and juvenile committee, said Friday that it is unlikely that the commissioners will indorse the buying of a lot, when they own a large space just back of the courthouse. It has been suggested that this strip is too valuable for the juvenile court to occupy, since the building will not be a large one. While this may be true, Mr. Etheridge thinks that the board will prefer using such property as they already own to investing in a new lot.

It is conceded by all who know anything about the matter that the present building on the corner of Central avenue and Trinity is inadequate in every respect and better quarters should be provided at once.

WORK OF ARMY Y. M. C. A. PRAISED

"I didn't go anywhere in France where I didn't see the Y. M. C. A., and see it doing a great deal of work," declared Jay Bird, of the 37th infantry, who left here yesterday en route to his home in Kansas City.

"I am able to report that the Y. M. C. A. was of vast benefit to the soldiers of the A. E. F., and that it's a mighty unappreciative chap who doesn't give them credit for a fine work, splendidly performed."

Bird was shot through the left ankle last July, but has since completely recovered. He was in Atlanta visiting a cousin, Wilbur Morris, who also served in the war, and who was recently discharged.

PEOPLE ARE SLOW ON LIBERTY LOAN

Less Than Third of Quota Subscribed—Proposed to Carry Campaign to Every Person Who Can Be Reached.

Washington, May 2.—The need of the government for funds to bring the war to a successful conclusion will be carried directly to every person in the United States who can be reached, as a result of the slowness of the public in volunteering subscriptions to the Victory Liberty Loan.

Less Than Third Subscribed.

Latest figures compiled by the treasury department tonight showed $1,497,347,600, less than one-third of the loan quota, subscribed. Individual subscriptions in nearly every reserve district were said to be running far short of those in previous loans, apparently indicating that the public was not awake to the necessity for raising the full $4,500,000,000 asked for in order to bring the men back from overseas, complete demobilization and care for those wounded in the service. Plans immediately were laid and telegrams sent to every state organization in the country to make the last seven working days of the loan campaign productive of sufficient individual subscriptions to put the loan "over the top" without calling on the financial institutions and tying up credit.

The St. Louis federal reserve district leads the country in having subscribed 59.68 per cent of its quota and two other western districts, Chicago and Minneapolis, rank second and third respectively. The Southwest, or Dallas district, was at the bottom when the latest tabulation of subscriptions was made.

Subscription by Districts.

The amounts subscribed by the federal reserve districts, together with the percentage of quota attained by each district, as officially reported to the treasury tonight, were as follows:

DISTRICT—	Subscriptions.	Pct.
St. Louis	$116,385,050	59.6
Chicago	320,501,700	49.1
Minneapolis	75,070,050	47.6
Richmond District Gains.
Boston	158,202,300	42.1
Kansas City	69,890,900	35.8
Richmond	70,337,050	33.4
Cleveland	134,343,000	29.8
Philadelphia	97,484,900	25.9
New York	332,900,0090	24.5
ATLANTA	34,650,500	24.0
San Francisco	69,257,300	22.9
Dallas	18,324,850	19.3

The Richmond district today reported the largest gain of any single day since the campaign began, increasing its subscriptions nearly $10,000,000 taken by 17,233 persons. Maryland has subscribed $20,001,150; Virginia, $18,951,650; West Virginia, $3,038,900; North Carolina, $8,281,050; South Carolina, $1,568,100, and District of Columbia, $7,354,000.

New England showed an increase of $13,000,000 for the day, total subscriptions by states being: Massachusetts, $93,000,000; Rhode Island, $13,000,000; Vermont, $6,000,000; New Hampshire, $5,000,000, and Maine, $5,000,000. Honor flags have been awarded to 232 communities.

St. Paul was one of the few cities with a cheerful report as to the number of individual purchasers of Victory notes. The city has oversubscribed its quota by more than 10 per cent without any subscriptions from banks. Very encouraging reports came from Minneapolis district, 30 per cent of the counties having subscribed their quotas.

Three additional counties in the Cleveland district have exceeded their quotas, Leslie county, Kentucky; Hancock county, West Virginia, and Champaign county, Ohio.

In the Dallas district 102 counties are over the top. Subscriptions in Texas alone comprise $16,000,000 of the district's total.

Real Estate Auction.

A tract of land in the center of Marietta consisting of about sixteen acres and a ten-room dwelling house will be sold at auction next Tuesday by J. G. Moon and L. W. Cowdery, real estate promoters, of Columbus, Ga. These two men purchased ten acres near the Marietta courthouse some time ago and a few days ago acquired six additional adjacent acres. The entire plot will go to the highest bidder. Both Mr. Moon and Mr. Cowdery are on the property to answer questions of prospective buyers. This site is of the very best farm land and is centrally located. About $25,000 is the estimate of the property to be sold.

WILL ENTERTAIN MEN OF RAINBOW DIVISION

The one hundred citizens, who constitute the standing committee to work out the plans for formal reception of different units which have been and will in the future demobilize at Camp Gordon will meet at Mayor Key's office at 10 o'clock Monday morning for the purpose of planning for the reception of the southern members of the 42d division which the war department has announced will arrive at Gordon in the next few weeks.

Judge Marcus Beck is chairman of this committee and Friday sent each member of the committee the following message:

Your attention is called to the decision of the war department that all southern members of the 42d or Rainbow division be returned to Camp Gordon at once for demobilization.

The Rainbow division, of which these southerners are a part, saw more active service than any other fighting organization in France, and its work in conjunction with the marines at Chateau Thierry put the enemy to flight from the entrenchments held by it along the Marne for nearly three years. It is fitting that they be welcomed by the people of Atlanta.

You are urged to attend a meeting of the reception committee to be held in the committee room, mayor's office, Monday, May 5, at 12 o'clock noon, at which time preparations will be made for the reception of this unit.

GERMANS PRETTY COLD TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS

London, May 2.—According to a summarized report of an interview given by Herr Schuecking, one of Germany's peace delegates, to the Berlin correspondent of The Herald, the laborite organ, the plan for the league of nations, which has been formulated at Paris, has brought disillusionment to Germany. It is regarded there as a thinly veiled scheme for the victorious powers to gain the ascendancy and gives the militarists an opportunity to taunt the pacifists for their simplicity, it is said.

"If the scheme is adopted in its present form," Herr Schuecking is quoted as saying, "the league will lose all its moral authority over all sections of the Germans, some of whom will revert to reaction. Others look forward to the establishment of international socialism."

Herr Schuecking emphasized that a feature of German plans for the league creates a representative world parliament, thus safeguarding the democratic basis of the league and avoiding the return of militarism in a new world.

The correspondent adds:

"Herr Schuecking made an instant impression of sincerity and courage, which his lifelong fight against militarism and his record as an opponent of the war confirms."

MANY ARE ARRESTED FOR BOSTON OUTBREAK

Boston, May 2.—Measures were taken by the police today to prevent a recurrence of the rioting of yesterday in the Roxbury district, when more than 100 men and women were arrested in connection with red flag demonstrations. The route over which the prisoners were transferred to the courthouse were guarded in anticipation of possible attempts at rescue.

Up to noon five men had been arrested charged with "taking part in an affray." Two of the number, Ernest Greenberg, of Watertown, and Arnold Janeton, were found guilty and sentenced to serve two months each in the house of correction. The other three were discharged.

Captain Hugh J. Lee, of the Dudley street police station, in whose district serious rioting occurred yesterday as a result of the display of red flags in a parade of radicals, was found dead in bed at his home today. Death was said to be due to natural causes, although fellow officers were inclined to believe that the strain under which he worked during the disturbances was in a measure responsible.

FIGHT IN CALIFORNIA ON WAR PROHIBITION

San Francisco, May 2.—Permanent injunction to restrain Mrs. Annette A. Adams, United States attorney, from enforcing provisions of the war-time prohibition act of November 21, 1918, and the Sheppard prohibition amendment, was sought in the United States district court here today in a petition filed by Theodore A. Bell, an attorney.

The petition, filed by a wine-maker and a vineyardist, realizes that unless restrained by injunction, action under these laws will wipe out the product of 177,000 acres in California, valued at $75,000,000. He alleges the war-time prohibition act, effective July 1, 1919 is unconstitutional and ineffective since the president in an address before congress stated that "the war now comes to an end."

The petition charges that department of agriculture agents and state agents had encouraged the production of wine-grapes and has established an experimental vineyard to encourage vineyardists to produce wine grapes. The action is based upon an agreement by the vineyardist made today to furnish wine grapes to the wine-maker.

AUTOMOBILE FOR $250 TO BE PUT ON MARKET

London, May 2.—An English manufacturing company announces that it is preparing to put on the market an automobile that can be retailed for $250, certainly not more than $300.

Scarcely any wood will be used in the construction of the car, the principal material being a new substance which is described as a "kind of concrete, light, but strong and durable, produced from waste material such as slag, clinkers and sawdust and covered with a metal solution."

The process of manufacture is another innovation in England. All parts, including wheels and chassis, will be stamped out, each complete in one piece, and then fitted together.

The manufacturers expect to compete with cheap American cars, because "tax and freight charges are expected to raise the price of the American articles considerably above the figures asked from United States buyers."

RETAILERS CHARGING MORE THAN LUXURY TAX

Washington, May 2.—Already complaints have begun to reach the internal revenue bureau of retailers charging more than the actual tax on so-called luxuries, such as expensive articles of clothing and other personal equipment, although the new taxes went into effect only yesterday.

Reports so far indicate that most cases of overcharging were accidental, caused by the failure of store clerks to acquaint themselves with provisions of the law. Officials were prompted, however, to issue a reminder that overcharging a tax may render the dealer or clerk liable to a fine of $1,000 and a year's imprisonment. Dealers were urged to study the law and the preliminary regulations, which can be supplied by revenue collectors.

In the case of the luxury taxes, it was emphasized today that the tax of 10 per cent is imposed only on the excess of cost above a certain sum specified in the law for each kind of an article and not on the entire sales price.

Soda clerks also were urged to ascertain that beef tea, coffee, sandwiches, cake, ice cream in buckets and medicinal preparations often sold at fountains are not taxable.

A few complaints to the bureau related that customers were charged by druggists more than the 1 cent tax imposed on each 25 cents or fraction of the cost of toilet and medicinal preparations.

Are Corsets Underwear? Dry Goods Men Asking Answer to the Question

New York, May 2.—Are corsets underwear? This problem was put up today to Commissioner of Internal Revenue Roper in a telegram sent to the treasury department at Washington by Lew Hahn, executive secretary of the National Retail Dry Goods association. Mr. Hahn protests that the problem is causing grave perplexity to dry goods merchants throughout the country.

The new luxury tax is the cause of the difficulty. An unofficial ruling has declared that corsets are underwear, Mr. Hahn says, and a luxury, and taxable. Some merchants are collecting the tax and others are not and Mr. Hahn appeals to Commissioner Roper to put corsets in their proper place officially.

Washington, May 2.—The question of whether corsets are underwear is not one to be decided hastily, it was said today at the bureau of internal revenue. The bureau has been asked for a ruling on the question by the National Dry Goods association.

Retail merchants throughout the country who cater to women have been advised through their national organizations to collect the new luxury tax on corsets costing more than $5, until it can be determined whether corsets are a luxury or necessity. The tax will be refunded if the decision is adverse to the government and favorable to the women.

Before the Advent of Woman's Gladness

Women Who Know Take Precaution Against Suffering.

Before the arrival of the Stork, women for over half a century have learned the wisdom of giving nature a helping hand. Nausea, nervousness, bearing-down and stretching pains in the abdomen and muscles are entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, according to the testimony of thousands of mothers who have used this time-honored remedy.

Mother's Friend lubricates the fine network of nerves beneath the skin, and by regular use during the period the muscles are made and kept soft and elastic. They can then expand gently and easily when baby is born and pain and danger at the crisis is naturally avoided.

Mother's Friend is a preparation of penetrating oils and other medicinal agents prepared especially for expectant mothers. It is for external use, is absolutely safe and should be used regularly during the entire period before baby comes.

Write to the Bradfield Regular Company, Dept. A, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for an interesting Motherhood Book, and obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend from the druggist. You will find it the greatest kind of help.—(adv.)

Amateur Thespians Give Performance.

The Cathedral Dramatic club, organized by the young people of St. Philip's Episcopal church, gave an excellent entertainment Thursday evening in the Sunday school room. A double program was rendered. The first play was "An Interruption," written by Mrs. R. C. Patterson, and this was followed by "The Old Maids' Convention," written by Miss Catherine M. Hurtel.

The entertainment was under the direction of Miss Hurtel, who has inherited dramatic talent from her father, Judge Gordon N. Hurtel, former newspaper man and recorder pro tem. of the city.

The Cathedral Dramatic club will give a series of entertainments during the summer for the benefit of the parish work. The first entertainment Thursday evening was witnessed by a large and greatly pleased audience.

Atlanta Loses Pioneer In Death of Mrs. Kiser

In the death last Thursday of Mrs. Sarah Kiser, Atlanta lost one of her most prominent and beloved women, who had always been a force for good in this city, and who had long been identified with all movements of interest to women.

She was 92 years of age, and she had first seen Atlanta, when, leaving Athens, Ga., she passed through Atlanta when its only marker was a little cross-roads store, which stood where the flag pole now is at Five Points. There was little more in the way of a township when Mrs. Kiser subsequently moved to Atlanta to reside.

Her family was reared here, and she spent the greater part of her useful life here. She was awoman of that strength of character which brought the members of her family not only to love her, but to lean upon her for inspiration and advice up to the day of her death.

She possessed unusual mind and intellect, and kept abreast of the times. She was not only educated in the interests of her own day, but she was a student and observer of the times, and the generation to which her children belonged, and that of her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

She was identified with the work with which the women, her contemporaries, had concerned themselves, both in civic and church matters, and she was a woman who believed strongly in that applied religion which demands of a woman that her spiritual or religious life express itself in her every-day life and living, and that message she passed on through her descendants.

Her life was one rich in service not only to her family and loved ones, but to all those who came within the circle of her home, and could claim from her the hand of friendship and interest.

Are Women Less Generous With Money Than Men?

By Isma Dooly

"Are women less generous with their personal funds than men?" is the question arising in the Woman's Liberty Loan committee offices, where the women ward chairmen meet every day to make their returns of the house-to-house canvass among Atlanta women.

When the Liberty loan workers decided that they would have the woman's committee solicit exclusively, and that the solicitations should be done through a house-to-house canvass, some may have thought it was a little job.

In this way the individual woman will be reached, and the same women who do all the giving and who do all the work in public movements will in this way draw to their forces the women heretofore uninterested, and the women who have not had the opportunity or the inclination to work or give, or rather the incentive to lend their money to the government.

It is to reach the latter class that the house-to-house canvass was considered advisable.

The number of women taxpayers was secured, and the number of women holders of real estate. Those who were stockholders in banks and big manufacturing institutions were also secured, and it was a surprise to the Woman's Liberty Loan committee to find that, instead of the limited prospects they had anticipated, they had before them the brightest prospects.

In fact, the women in Atlanta who own and control their own fortunes comprise a large percentage of Atlanta's rich inhabitants. The majority of the handsomest homes in the most valuable part of Atlanta's residence section are owned by women who are independent to control their own investments. According to verified reports being made in this Liberty loan campaign, these women are not giving proportionately as generously as men do with similar fortunes.

In fact, up to the present moment, according to the records as they show themselves in the Liberty loan offices, the answer to the above: "Are women less generous with personal funds than men?" is "Yes"—with a capital Y.

Discussing the subject, a man on the executive committee made the deliberate statement yesterday that the professional and business women—those actual wage-earners—have proven themselves the most generous purchasers of bonds. Proving this was a report made by a committee of women Wednesday, who for the first three days of the woman's campaign showed a list standing for $36,300, most of which had come in voluntarily, and two-thirds of the women subscribing were business and working women. In direct contrast was the report of a committee making a house-to-house canvass among women considered the brightest prospects, which showed only $32,000 as a result.

"I think it can be explained this way," said a gentleman of chivalrous inclination; "women in this section have so long lived under the shelter system, and have so long left it to the men to do the giving, they are not trained to do it. They do not realize they can do it, and they do not realize that they are not giving when they buy bonds, but that they are making a good investment I have noticed that the women who have become workers in war activities, and who have given of their time and money, are the first to come forward and buy bonds, and that several of Atlanta's rich women have fully measured up to the standard set by the men.

"Therefore, the great advantage there is in this house-to-house canvass and in reaching women individually. I believe that the women themselves, if they are patient with one another in canvassing, can bring the message to the indifferent women, who really have not kept up with the movements of the moment. It is appalling the number of women who do not read the newspapers, who do not know what is going on and who do not feel an individual responsibility in the prosperity of their country.

"The Liberty loan solicitors, therefore, have before them not merely the taking of subscriptions, but the greater mission of bringing a message to those women who have not received one about their obligations as individuals."

"It is very hard work," said one little woman chairman of a committee, who had her feelings hurt by some of her indifferent sisters who did not care to subscribe for bonds. "Sometimes they positively refuse to see us—some of these sisters who do not care to help the government in paying the war debt that we owe for victory."

Before the woman's committee of Atlanta in the fifth loan there is still a great work, but they are going on working faithfully, and they declare they are going to prove that women who can lend their money to the government are going to measure up to the standard when it comes to buying the bonds.

HAWAIIAN MUSICIANS ON THE ANSLEY ROOF

Afternoon dancing will be inaugurated in the Hotel Ansley roof garden this afternoon, when the Wakiki orchestra of native Hawaiians will play between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock.

This feature is being established at the Ansley roof by Manager C. A. Creighton, in response to numerous requests that certain hours every afternoon be given over to dancing. He has just secured the Hawaiian musicians, who will offer a program of vocal and instrumental music.

The dance floor will, of course, be available at any time beween these hours, as well as later in the evening, thus meeting the request of numerous patrons of the roof garden that it be opened for dancing and afternoon luncheons.

Baptist Women to Entertain Missionaries From Orient

Mrs. Hugh Willet.

Mrs. Hugh Willet presided over an important meeting Thursday of the general committee of Baptist women who have in charge the program of the Baptist Women's Missionary union, which meets in Atlanta this month.

Chairmen of the various committees made interesting reports, one of these from Mrs. Bolling Jones, chairman of the luncheon committee, at which the returned missionaries of the church will be the guests of honor. This luncheon will take place at the Capital City club, May 17. This was the only place in Atlanta where as many as four hundred women could be entertained at one time, and, therefore, the size of the luncheon had largely to be governed by this fact.

"The luncheon will be lovely in every detail," states Mrs. Bolling Jones, chairman, "and we only regret that space forbids the extension of our hospitality on this occasion."

Tickets $1.50 Each.

Mrs. Jones explained that tickets to the luncheon are $1.50 each, and there are 300 reserved for visiting delegates, and 100 of these tickets have been reserved for all heads of committees, executive officers and state officers. Each church is privileged to buy one ticket for one member of the missionary society of that church. All members of the various committees are urged to post themselves about these details of the luncheon, so that they can explain to those who do not understand why the luncheon list is thus limited, and why larger quarters could not be secured for the event.

At the luncheon there will be brief addresses made by the different missionaries, many of whom are delightful and scholarly women, who bring a significant message to the convention. Following the luncheon there will be an automobile ride to interesting places in the city, the automobiles to be a courtesy from Atlanta owners, this feature of the entertainment, under chairmanship of Mrs. Alfred Newell. All those who desire to extend the use of their cars for this occasion are asked to so communicate with Mrs. Alfred Newell.

An Evening Session.

Although it has been previously announced that there will be no evening session of the Woman's Missionary union, that feature of the program has been changed, and the women will present phases of their mission work at a session Thursday evening of the convention week at the Baptist tabernacle, when there will be a lecture illustrated by lantern slides.

Hospitality Asked for Visitors.

The Baptist Women's Missionary union pays its own expenses, and this convention will tax the hotels and boarding houses of the city; therefore all those people who have rooms to rent or board to furnish are asked to communicate the same to Rev. Charles Daniel, chairman of the placing committee, or Mr. Augustus C. McHan, chairman of the homes committee, and any of her co-workers. This committee is as follows:

First Baptist church, Mrs. C. W. Daniel, 24 East Eighth street; Second Baptist church, Mrs. R. E. Harvey, 41 Columbia avenue; Ponce de Leon Baptist church, Mrs. H. H. Hale, 45 Peachtree place; West End Baptist church, Mrs. H. E. Edwards, 257 Lee street; Tabernacle Baptist church, Mrs. Joseph Broughton, 102 West Twelfth street; Druid Hills Baptist church, Mrs. J. B. Grant, 966 Highland avenue; Jackson Hill Baptist church, Mrs. Frank Huff, Boulevard; Inman Park Baptist church, Mrs. F. S. Cappers, 239 Lake avenue; Capitol Avenue Baptist church, Mrs. C. W. King, 492 Capitol avenue; Grant Park Baptist church, Mrs. B. S. Railey, 381 East Georgia avenue; Woodward Avenue Baptist church, Mrs. Clayborn; Jones Avenue Baptist church, Mrs. T. E. McCutcheon, 309 Luckie street; Gordon Street Baptist church, Mrs. W. C. Davis, 15 Westwood avenue.

Guests in Homes.

Though the policy and practice of the convention is to pay its own way, that does not deprive Atlanta's hospitable people the opportunity of having guests among the delegates and visitors. All those hosts and hostesses who would like to have as their guests delegates and visitors to the convention can so inform the chairmen of the committees mentioned above.

Miss Mary Gray, of College Park, is chairman of the young people's program, being planned for Friday afternoon, and besides the young people's organizations of this community, there will be representatives from the Bessie Tift college in Forsyth, the Shorter college in Rome and many other educational institutions in the section.

In discussing the organization of the Baptist Woman's Missionary union, Mrs. Ashby Jones, chairman of the local publicity committee, explained yesterday that individual churches do not elect delegates to the convention, but each state has taken the right to elect at its own annual meetings of Baptist Women's Missionary union twenty-six delegates who have the right of the floor. No others are delegates.

The founder in Georgia of the Baptist Woman's Missionary union is Mrs. Stainback Wilson, who was a delegate to the first convention held in Fort Worth, Texas. Mrs. Wilson Mrs. A. D. Adair, and Mrs. Harvey Hatcher were delegates to this first convention.

And So They Were Married

EPISODE FIVE (Temptation)

BY HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR

(Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.)

CHAPTER XI.

While Ruth's mind was occupied with a thousand and one worries concerning money and clothes and minor domestic troubles, Scott, strange to say, had begun to worry, too.

Some men are what is called thick-skinned. They take complaints from their wives as a necessary outcome of marriage. Inwardly they accept everything as their due for being foolish enough to get caught in the bonds of matrimony. Ask almost any married man and he will tell you that he accepted matrimony, but did not choose it. Take any of the typically married couples, who wrangle constantly or have sharp decisive battles. The wife speaks to her husband as she never would dare to her lover. At the slightest provocation she will weep and storm. She will allow her husband to see her with the tears streaming down her cheeks, with a red nose and with drenched eyes. No woman crying is an attractive proposition, despite everything said in novels about heroines who can cry so that the tears drop like pearls down their cheeks, leaving their eyes wide and melancholy and their noses absolutely undemolished.

And as for the men, how do they act after marriage? They adopt an air of righteous indignation. Before marriage they accepted the fact that very few women reason, with perfect equanimity; in fact, they liked it, and called it feminine. Now they act as if a woman were only half-balanced; they put her in the same class with children, and are annoyed at anything that may happen to cause a cloud on the domestic horizon. Ask any married man and he will tell you that he likes the wheels of his domestic regime to move smoothly. But he will chafe involuntarily at the monotony of marriage and laugh at it with his friends, no matter how good a manager his wife may be.

Scott was not the typical husband; in fact, Ruth ran far more true to type than he did. Scott in some ways had the tenderness, the sensitiveness of a woman, and instead of telling Ruth of her unreasonableness in the episode of the hat, he thought about it. In fact, it troubled him.

He asked questions of other men he met in business. He made an effort to find out what other men made, and discovered that the average man made what he did, a little more or a little less. Scott was conservative, yet he deliberately sought the company of one of the other men in the office one day at lunch. Across from each other in the cheap little restaurant with the rattle and clatter of dishes in the eyes. Scott, trying to speak carelessly, asked Merritt how he managed finances.

"We live out of town, you know," Merritt vouchsafed. "We're paying installments on our little place. It isn't much, but some day we'll own it and Grace likes the country. Besides, there's the boy."

Scott hadn't known about the boy.

"Say," said Merritt after a minute, "wouldn't you and Mrs. Raymond like to come out sometime for Sunday dinner?"

Scott was quite enthusiastic and promised to ask Ruth. Then he broached the subject of clothes.

"Oh, Grace doesn't care," Merritt said confidently. "She'd rather spend all our money on the boy. She has an allowance to run the house and dress and she always stays within it."

When Scott asked Ruth to go out and spend the following Sunday at Sunny Beach, L. I., Ruth demurred at first and then decided to go. The day was lovely and they arrived at the little bungalow about noon.

The ugly little living room was bright with sunlight, a fat baby sprawled on the floor. There was an air of untidiness about the place and very little taste shown in the furnishings, but Grace Merritt herself, in a blue serge dress, very much the worse for wear and with a great deal of lint all over it, whether she was dropping down on the rug to hug the baby or hurrying out to the kitchen to see to the dinner, was quite charming. Ruth could not help liking her.

While Arthur Merritt showed Scott the incipient vegetable garden, Ruth sat in a shabby chair near the window and looked out. The little street was ugly. Cheap little bungalows similar to this one lined it on either side. The Merritts' house was near the end of the street and more houses were being constructed up above. There was a conspicuous absence of green everywhere and there was a narrow boardwalk on either side of the street that squshed up mud between its cracks when one walked on it. Ruth thought the outlook inexpressibly dreary.

In her simple but expensive street dress and her squirrel coat she felt out of place in this little house. She suddenly wished she hadn't come. In a flying dash from the kitchen, Ruth studied Grace Merritt critically. She had possibilities, lovely hair and beautiful teeth, but simply no idea of how to dress. But what difference did it make, Ruth thought to herself whether Mrs. Merritt dressed or not. Buried out here in this ugly place her life would probably go on forever in a dull routine. She would meet people who lived just as uninteresting lives as she did. She would go to houses just as untidy and ugly as this one, and yet she was satisfied, happy. Instead of making Ruth ashamed of her own discontent it irritated her to know that there were women in the world like Grace Merritt.

Mary Regan

A Story of Love and Mystery, Staged Amid the Night Lights of New York.

BY LEROY SCOTT

There was silence in the little cabinet particulier; all the figures, save Jack's stood in tense tableaux—waiting. Clifford, looking through the aperture of the door, recognized that this was a climax in Mary Regan's life. Events, with some guidance from him had arranged a supreme test. The next instant would prove something—what? He was as taut as those within.

Mary, with slow calm, drew a deep breath; her figure stiffened. "Mr. Hilton, Miss Cordova," she said steadily, slowly, her eyes not leaving them, "you may tell everything you like. I am going to take Jack away from here."

At her words an exultant thrill leaped through Clifford. She had had her choice—and had chosen the way of her own destruction!

Mary put an arm under Jack's shoulders. "Stop that!" cried Nina, in sudden fury, dropping the telephone receiver and clutching the unconscious Jack, so that he was torn away from Mary's arms. With energetic fury she turned on Loveman. "Peter Loveman, make her stop! You promised me, if I'd come into this, you'd fix up a marriage between Jack and me!"

"Shut up, Nina!" Loveman cut in sharply, in half panic. "Mary," he cried, seizing her arm, "come on—let's leave her—quick!"

But the lithe Hilton did not depend upon the influence of mere words. From somewhere out of his elegant person he drew a small pistol, and this he thrust against Mary's side.

"Get out of this," he snapped, "or this gun goes off! And we'll all swear it was suicide. The gun's a lady's size, and suicides are common in joints like this. Get out!"

Mary did not quiver—she looked Hilton squarely in his handsome, evil face. At that instant Clifford stepped swiftly into the room and closed the light door behind him. The next instant he had wrenched the pistol from Hilton's hand, and pocketed it, and had seized both Hilton and Loveman by their collars.

"Cut out that rough stuff, Hilton, or I finish you off here!" he said. "And so, Loveman, I've got you at it again?"

The little lawyer twisted about—gave Clifford a startled stare—and then forced a smile intended to be tolerant, but which was sickly. "Why, Bob, I don't know a thing about this—"

"Shut up!" snapped Clifford.

He turned to Mary, who was still bewildered by his sudden appearance, and again the leaping thrill went through him. "Mary, you've gone through this great! Great, I tell you. And these people—don't worry about them another minute. You've won out!"

Mary stared at him, now breathing quickly. "I don't quite—understand."

"You were not supposed to understand. There has been a big, careful, subtle plan,—a plot devised by Peter Loveman,—and you, without knowing it, were to have been the goat!"

"Oh, I say now, Bob!" protested Loveman; "you're talking like a melodrama. Why should I plot against Mary?"

"Why? Listen to your own words—you know whom you said them to." And Clifford quoted, driving his words savagely at Loveman: "'Say, but this is one hell of a situation! Here I went into a game to clean up in three or four directions, relying chiefly on the criminal instincts of a clever girl to see the game through—and, damn it, if the girl hasn't turned straight on me! Or, if she is playing a crooked game, she's trying to play it straight. And the original game is no good now—is sure to fail. I want her to quit it, and come in on some other big proposition; but she won't quit it—she still dreams she can put it over. And if I openly block her, she'll blow on herself and me, and break with me, and that'll end everything. How's that for a hell of a fix!' Remember saying that, Loveman?"

Loveman had paled. "I don't know what you're talking about."

"And remember saying this, Loveman?" Clifford drove at him: "'I've got to have Mary Regan with us. But the only way out of this mess is to handle affairs so as to make her believe, from her own experience, that she can't succeed in her respectable game—then she'll come around to our way of thinking, and she'll try to clean up with us. And there's only one way to reach her—and that's through Jack Morton.'"

Clifford turned sharply upon Mary. "Isn't it clear to you now?—Jack's disappearance and all the rest? Loveman was determined your plan with Jack Morton should not go ahead. Since he didn't dare openly oppose you, he concluded that the best scheme to defeat you would be to get hold of Jack and handle him so that he would give himself over completely to dissipation—that would show you how hopeless your plan was, and you'd drop it. You've been framed, and Jack's been framed; and this wine party in here was part of the frame-up; and Loveman's letting you have a glimpse, as if by chance, of Jack in here, a hopeless debauche, was to have been the clinching argument that would make you give up and join in with him."

"Clifford," blustered Loveman, "everything you have just said is a lie!—and Mary knows it."

"Loveman," returned Clifford in grim wrath, "even though you are a small man, I'd hit you in the face if I didn't think it might improve your features." He turned again to Mary. "Hilton and Nan Burdette have been Loveman's chief tools for keeping Jack drunk and out of sight; they're both experts at such business. Miss Cordova has been in it to help out in some of the finer points; she's an old-time friend of Jack, and you've just learned of an ambition of her own. That's the case, Miss Regan. I don't feel like praising Jack, but it's only fair to him to emphasize that he's not here because he tired of you, as they've tried to make you think. I want you to understand clearly that Jack is the victim of this smooth bunch; that whatever he felt toward you two weeks ago, he doubtless still feels: that whatever he then was, he probably still is."

"And I can tell a little that will help," grimly added Nan Burdette.

There was a glitter in Hilton's dark eyes, and he bared his white teeth. "And what I've got to tell will jam up her game even worse! You and she are not going to get away with this!"

"The three of you are going to say exactly nothing! Nan Burdette,"—with sudden incisiveness—"I know your part in that Gordon affair. Miss Cordova, I've got more than a hunch about that pearl necklace Mrs. Sinclair gave her husband to have repaired and which strangely disappeared. And, Hilton, I've got a lead about a certain lady who fainted—she really drank drugged tea—at an afternoon dance at the Grantham and whose diamond brooch was not afterwards found. I'd run every one of you in this minute—only I'd rather keep things quiet and give Miss Regan her chance to do just as she pleases concerning Jack Morton. But if there is one word—and I'll know it, if there is—if there's one word from any of you that touches on Miss Regan, I'll get every one of you!"

HOME COOKING

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

(Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.)

Canning and Preserving.

Economic conditions make it necessary for the housewife to conserve by either canning, drying of preserving sufficient products of the harvest to insure the family a supply of fruits, vegetables and condiments during the fall and winter months.

Up-to-date scientific methods have taken the drudgery from this work. Few of us today would be satisfied to use the horse-drawn street car. And why? Because it is out of date, slow and inconvenient. Then, if this is so, why use the old-fashioned, antique methods of canning and preserving. The open-kettle method of canning food is entirely out of date. It is also unreliable and laborious.

The canning of food by a process called the cold pack is used in all large canneries. This method eliminates failure, shortens the work and gives a satisfactory result in both the state and appearance of the food that has been canned.

To be successful you must follow the rules, and for this reason each step or part of the process should be remembered and done with great care.

First. Gather together all the jars and other containers to be used for this work. Make a survey of them. Fit each lid to each jar and note that it fits securely, and that it is in good condition. Wash and fill each jar with water and then invert to test for leaks. This will prevent trouble later on.

Do not use old rubbers. Select only the best grade for this work. A poor quality of rubber will blow out during the processing and thus make it necessary to replace it. This not only increases the cost of the article canned but also makes for loss of time. Discard at once all damaged or defective jars. If you intend purchasing jars keep this fact in mind, that the all-glass jar can be used for pickling and canning foods that contain vinegar and spices.

Second. Select fresh, unwilted produce, not over six hours old. Remember that it is impossible to have succes if the foods intended for canning are old, wilted, partially decayed or overheated.

If possible, have the products that are to be canned delivered to you directly from the farm. Keep the fact in mind that these foods not only spoil quickly, but that they also lose much of their flavor by standing.

Professional canners are very well aware of this fact and for this very reason move their canning equipment directly adjacent to the fields that contain the vegetables and into the orchards among the fruit.

Third. Grade all fruits and vegetables for size and ripeness. Discard all not in prime condition.

Fourth. Wash to remove sand and grit. This must be done thoroughly, using plenty of fresh running water.

Fifth. Blanching: This process is most important for shrinking the product and for packing purposes. It also starts the flow of coloring matter and eliminates all objectionable acids.

To blanch, place the vegetables or fruits that require this process in either a square of cheesecloth or in a wire basket. Plunge at once into a large pot containing sufficient boiling water to cover well. Process as directed in the recipe. The actual time allowance will depend upon the kind of product that is to be processed. The time counted in this process is determined by counting from the moment the water starts to boil after the product is placed in the container. The minute the time for blanching expires lift the product and plunge it at once into cold water. Remove at once and spread on a flat surface while packing into the jars.

This process requires about one-half minute. Use fresh running water, if possible, and fresh water each time the products are dipped.

This process loosens the skin, hardens the pulp and sets the coloring matter, also it makes for easy packing.

Sixth. Packing: Sterilize the jars and lids in boiling water. Drain and then pack the vegetables into them firmly. Fill the jar to overflowing with boiling water containing one level teaspoon of salt to each quart. Place on the rubber and then adjust the lid. Now, if the jar is all glass adjust one clamp of the bail in place. For a screw-top jar, fasten the lid in an easy manner as far as it will turn and then give it one full turn back to unscrew. Place the jars in the rack in place in the hot water bath.

Seventh. Processing: This part is of the most importance. Here comes the time when either you will make a success or a failure of your canning. The jars must be placed on a rack, then in either a regular water-bath canner or in a wash boiler. This water should be below the boiling point, preferably about 165 degrees Fahrenheit. Have the water at least three inches above the top of the jars.

Cover the boiler closely and then bring quickly to a boil. Let boil for two minutes and then count the time from this moment for the processing period. It is important that the fire be kept up so that the water does not stop boiling. Careless processing will ruin the contents of the jars and thus cause a waste of materials, time and fuel.

Eighth. Just the moment the time is up for processing remove the jars and fasten the lids securely. Place in a cool room free from draughts to cool. Invert the jars while cooling to test for leaks.

Do not keep the jars in the kitchen to cool them. Remove at once to a cool room. Vegetables like asparagus, peas, beans and corn contain a vegetable protein that quickly spoils the contents of the jar if the products are allowed to stand in a warm room to cool. Keep the fact in mind that for successful results you cannot do several things at the same time. When canning and preserving stick to that job. You cannot use part of one method and part of another, nor can you do any experimenting. Your success alone depends upon how closely you follow the above rules.

My Dear Mrs. Wilson—Will you kindly let me know how a plain clam stew is made (just mlik and clams)? The fact I want to know chiefly is how long to cook clams. How many clams to one quart of milk if water is added to juice and how the stew is cooked?

MRS. W.

Clam Stew.

Mince fine one dozen clams. Add juice and

Three cups milk,

One-half teaspoon grated onion,

Two teaspoons finely minced parsley.

Heat slow to boiling point, simmer for ten minutes. Season and serve.

My Dear Mrs. Wilson—Will you kindly publish a recipe for a layer cake for four? I am just learning to bake and I read your recipes daily. Now, I use a coal stove for baking, which I guess takes longer to cook than a gas range.

MRS. S.

See reply to Mrs. J. W. Bake cake thirty minutes in oven of coal range.

My Dear Mrs. Wilson—I thank you for so many splendid recipes. We have cooked sweet potatoes, bacon, frankfurters and marshmallows over a camp fire, but would like a change for our next party.

Will you kindly suggest a change? We usually have about ten couples. Yours truly, MRS. H. B. M.

Correspondence School Convention Held Here; Lawrence Makes Talk

Owing to the large and increasing volume of business throughout the southern states and with the view of better serving the large student body, Atlanta, because of its being the metropolis of the south, was selected for a convention of the International Correspondence Schools representatives and a convention and banquet was held at Hotel Ansley yesterday afternoon, representatives being present from North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Florida and various parts of Georgia. They represented 88,025 students throughout the named states.

C. E. Lawrence, vice president of the institution, came from Scranton to meet the field men and to give them the benefit of his large experience. He has seen the schools grow from an institution of a few thousand to one counting more than two million among its student body and from an investment of ten thousand to over ten million.

At the convention plans were discussed for handling the large and rapidly increasing business of the schools in the south and the best methods of rendering efficient service to the students of this great educational institution.

The schools have closely cooperated with the government in their war activities, both directly and through their student body more than sixty-five thousand of whom are enlisted in various branches of the service, the government having officially recognized the schools' work.

Plans were also discussed at the meeting for co-operating with the federal board of vocational education for re-educating disabled soldiers, sailors and marines who may receive instructions as students of the International Correspondence schools by complying with the requirements of the district board for vocational education.

A BAD RECORD.

According to statistics compiled by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, a digest of which appears in the news columns elsewhere in this issue of The Constitution, a total of 3,224 persons, white and colored, were put to death by mob violence in this country during the thirty year period from 1889 to 1918.

It is to Georgia's shame that it leads all of the states in this disgraceful record, with a total of 386 victims of lynch law.

The time was when lynching was confined to punishment for only one type of crime.

Many years ago The Constitution, pointing to the danger of the mob taking the law into its own hands, took the position that if lynchings for even that one crime continued it was only a step for mob law to assume wider jurisdiction, and that it would be only a question of time until lesser crimes would be accepted by the mob as justification for its jurisdiction.

That day has come!

The report of the lynching record, above referred to, says:

> Lynchings for other causes than the so-called "one crime" have for the whole period been a large majority of all lynchings, and for the past five years less than one in five of the colored victims have been accused of rape or "attacks upon women."

Thus, despite the fact that legal justice in cases of that "one crime" has always been swift and certain, the mob continued lynching for that offense, until it now has to its credit four lynchings for other offenses to one for that!

These figures are enough to put the people to thinking.

It is as certain as anything can be that sooner or later if the states do not put an end to lynching and mob outlawry the federal government will!

WORK WELL DONE.

Not the least remarkable feature of the world's most remarkable week of grand opera, which recently closed in Atlanta, has been the fact that the Atlanta Music Festival association could have so managed the thousand and one details of the week with such apparent smoothness and efficiency.

"I don't see how they do it," said a prominent theatrical man from the east, who was in the city for the season. "The show business is the most involved proposition in the world, requiring the greatest skill and experience in handling. Yet here the Atlanta Music Festival association takes the greatest crowds that ever attended opera and handles them with all the ease of the most effective organization in New York."

The answer lies, according to a man on the inside of the opera affairs, chiefly to the sacrifice and efficiency of three men who have given practically their entire time and attention to the project for the past four months. These men are Colonel William Lawson Peel, the president, who has done such notable work in securing the backing of the Atlanta public; C. B. Bidwell, the treasurer, in whose hands are the endless details of the ticket arrangements; and Dr. Guy King, the business manager, who is also house manager.

Mr. Bidwell and Dr. King practically laid aside their personal affairs, and both are actively engaged in businesses which require constant attention from them, to devote the necessary time to the affairs of the opera.

Never before in the history of opera in Atlanta has there been such a ticket demand, and consequently such a demand upon the skill and energy of Mr. Bidwell in meeting the situation. Never before has Dr. King been called upon to handle, through the amateur organization which he has built up, so many people in so short a time at the Auditorium.

Both the public and the officials of the Metropolitan Opera company have been loud in their praise of the management.

"If the men who put this thing through ever want a job in the theatrical business there is one waiting for them in New York," is the comment of the theatrical man from the east.

SUPERINTENDENT DYKES.

The election of W. F. Dykes to the superintendency of the Atlanta public school system is the logical outcome of the public school situation in this city.

Professor Dykes is the man who first pointed out the glaring defects in our plan of school administration, and whose charges started the investigation of the city school system.

He was courageous enough, as principal of the Boys' High school, to put his finger upon these defects. There was no evasion about his position, no inuendo. He made direct statements and open, above-board charges, and he called a spade a spade.

After the most searching investigation ever made by a councilmanic committee in the history of Atlanta, his position was unanimously sustained in its report. Council turned the committee down, and then the people turned council down.

All that happened after then in the revolution of the Atlanta school department is attributable largely to the stand Professor Dykes took at that time.

What could be more natural, therefore, than that he, the man who had the courage to attack evil in the school system when he saw it, should be placed at the head of the system, especially inasmuch as his qualifications as a scholar and as an executive are such as to amply justify that action?

The selection of a man of such courage, coupled with the ability which he is known to possess, will give universal satisfaction.

It is a distinctly hopeful sign.

LET THE WOMEN IN!

There is a persistent and promising effort being made in Atlanta to let the women vote in the city primaries.

Why not?

God knows the women can do no worse than the men have done, and they may make some improvement. It is at least worth trying.

There seems to be no legal reason why the city executive committee cannot give the women the ballot in the white primaries.

The city primaries have no legal status. In that respect they differ from the state primaries, the regulations governing which are fixed by law.

If the city executive committee extends the franchise to the women the worst that could happen would be for somebody to go into the courts and attack the validity of the action, and if the court should decide that the committee had exceeded its jurisdiction we should still be no worse off than before, and no harm would have been done.

Unfortunately, Georgia denies to its women the prerogatives of American citizenship that other states in all parts of the country have extended to their women.

But sooner or later Georgia will join the procession for universal suffrage—the mossbacks to the contrary, notwithstanding.

In the meantime the way is open to women in the city primaries, and by all means let them in!

THE EARLY ROAD.

Up and out early; an hour's exercise in the home-garden, or a brisk walk before a moderately light breakfast, and then—if business isn't too far removed from home—walk to it!

That's a spring and summer prescription which will go far towards keeping the doctor at a distance.

"Catch the sun in bed" in time for the reveille of the birds, summoning him to rise and "make up" the Morning.

How many city people see the sun rise? Yet they could easily be on hand to hail its earliest light where the view is not obstructed by skyscrapers. On hand to drink in the freshness of the awakened Day.

You don't need any other stimulant for the day's work; it's the best in the world!

It stays with us, giving heart and hope for the tasks before us; tasks that lead to home and happiness, under the twilight stars.

Make the early start, and take the road with Morning! It's the time o' year when birds and flowers will give greeting on the way.

If you'll just take time to think about it, and get out a little in it, you'll arrive at the glad conclusion that it's a wonderful, good world, after all!

Carrollton Attorney Gives His Views on State Tax Problem

Editor Constitution: I suppose the most important question for the next legislature to deal with will be a general tax law. No question but what there should be some changes in our present tax system that will be absolutely fair to every taxpayer of the state.

The greatest difficulty has always been in securing a fair and equitable valuation of all classes of property on the tax books for taxation. If a plan could be devised, and it can be, by proper legislation to force every class of property on the tax digests, then there would be no trouble in securing all the necessary taxes for the support of the state at a very much lower than the present rate.

If all property of every kind and description was returned at its true market value as the present tax laws provide it should be, then there would be on the tax books of the state today nothing less than three billions of property to help bear its part of the tax burdens of the state. What we need is a law with teeth in it to compel the tax dodgers to disgorge hidden property and to force it on the tax books to be taxed like all honest taxpayers has to do. Let the lawmakers pass a law to penalize the tax dodger and subject him to severe punishment for failing and refusing to put his property on the books for taxation.

The ad valorem system of taxation is the fairest and best. It says to every taxpayer to return your property at its true market value for taxation. The trouble is not with the law, but with the taxpayer in failing and refusing to put his property on the tax digest so it can be taxed, and this is the point that should be corrected by penal legislation.

In connection with our ad valorem system an occupation or license tax on all classes of business could be adopted that would be fair and just to all classes of business and which occupation tax would produce a very large amount of revenue for the state.

An occupation or license tax would really be better than to try to collect a certain per cent on merchants' gross annual sales when he is not required to return his stock of merchandise for ad valorem taxes, I don't believe we should get away from the ad valorem system for all classes of property, but all returns should be equal in value.

It would be a mistake to tax bank deposits. This would cause the withdrawal of deposits from the banks and thereby paralyze business. All moneys, notes, stocks and bonds and all classes of personal property can be reached.

Really I don't know but what it would be best to make money tax free, as money is only a medium of barter and exchange. It is a medium for fixing values of all other classes of property and commodities; it cannot be eaten; it cannot be worn; it is absolutely worthless within itself and it has to have something behind it to make it have value. It has its mission to perform as a medium of circulation. It is ever ready to perform its functions in the channels of commerce and trade; it is not property in its truest sense, but the representative of property.

A graduated income tax would be a good thing. It would produce ten times the amount of revenue for the state than would come from tax on money. This is one of the fairest taxes that can be levied. It would be a tax on property. It should be fixed on net incomes from $500 up and let it be graduated.

All bank stocks, bonds, notes and all other classes of property should be taxed as at present, then levy a graduated income tax for state purposes and take the shackles off of money.

The result would be we would see hundreds of millions of foreign money coming into the state seeking investments in a hundred and one different enterprises and the tax digest would grow by leaps and bounds.

The lawmakers and the people should encourage all the outside capital possible to come in to help build up the resources of the state and not pass legislation of any kind that would tend to divert it from the state. We are just at the dawn of the greatest era of prosperity since the civil war and we don't want to make any serious mistake that would cut off the currents that helps to add to the ever increasing prosperity of the state.

Morning

I.

When the radiant Morning dawns
And the sunshine glimmers through
Pink, and pearl and amber clouds
Sailing o'er the heaven's blue,
Then calls from out her hidden nest,
Thicket-roofed, a mother-bird,
Half-wakened from her nursery-rest
By rustling leaves and soft winds stirred.

II.

Dewy gleam the grasses green
Down in dusky lowlands, where
Borne, dreamlike, through the lichened sheen
On waves of golden, pulsing air,
The keen, delicious breath of day—
Of fruit and blossom mingled sweet,
Crabapple, elder, laurel, bay—
The whole green morning at your feet!

III.

And with the Morning's radiant dawn
Hope in the world's heart springs anew,
Born of the beauty and the bloom—
The wondrous gifts of Heaven to you!
Then, comes a Voice, like break of Day—
If you but keep a waking heart:
"As Morn dispels Night's shadows gray,
Love's light will make Life's gloom depart."

The Bad Roads Limit.

An original good roads argument by a correspondent of The Conway Log Cabin Democrat:

"Say, Union Valley, one of your road overseers must have strayed down this way, as we found a hat such as road overseers wear floating around on one of our mud holes. After a consultation with several farmers we concluded he had gone down to see if he could find the bottom and we decided that a road overseer wasn't worth fishing after, anyway."

"In the Day's News"

Thomas Nelson Page, whose position as United States ambassador to Italy has been rendered a rather delicate one by the inclination of the Italian people to blame President Wilson for Italy's failure to realize her territorial aspirations in the peace conference, has been the American diplomatic representative in Rome since 1913. It was as a scholar and writer that Mr. Page was widely known when he laid aside his pen and entered the diplomatic service at the invitation of President Wilson. He comes of an old Virginia family and received his education at Washington and Lee university. He published his first novel in 1887 and since that time many other novels, a book or two of poems and several historical works have come from his pen. For nearly twenty years, while pursuing his literary career, Mr. Page also engaged in the practice of law in Richmond.

Following Footsteps of the A. E. F.

BY QUIMBY MELTON, Major 325th Inf.
Formerly City Editor of The Constitution.

GLORY ENOUGH FOR ALL

Certain American divisions, whose records in some cases are good and in others bad, have been crowing about the part they played in the great American offensive that ended the war. The 82d division, which played one of the leading roles in this battle, has kept quiet, feeling that they did not have to boast of their achievements, as the records at G. H. Q. show the real first rate divisions.

Recently The Stars and Stripes, the semi-official organ of the A. E. F., contained the following editorial which explains the position of certain claimants:

THE CLAIMANTS.

"The popular debate on the burning question of who won the war has been frowned out of late by the more furious inter-divisional arguments as to who took Rouge-sur-Noir or who stormed Bloody Hill. Most of these disputants blandly ignore the fact that whenever an enemy citadel is taken it is not merely the division making the frontal attack which effects the capture. Among the captors must also be included the troops who, by forging ahead on either side, are helping to squeeze the enemy out. It is a corps job. This, of course, is the A B C of military tactics, but the more audible claimants within the various divisions seem to have forgotten it by this time.

"For instance, Montfaucon, that German stronghold the resistance of which was holding back our entire line when darkness fell at the end of the first day in the Argonne, was eventually overrun by troops of the 79th division. That division, therefore, is entitled to write that fact big in the pages of history. But it certainly is not entitled to deny a share of the credit for the capture to the 4th and 37th divisions, which, by pressing ahead on either side, rendered aid without which the 79th, or any other division, could not have taken the hill at all. It has, however, a perfect right to laugh sarcastically when, as happened recently, a literarily inclined officer of one of the 37th's regiments let the home folks back in Ohio in on the previously well-guarded secret that the 37th division alone took Montfaucon.

"So it goes. Captain Frederick S. Green, of an engineer outfit, is quoted in The Buffalo News as having written this:

"'No matter what other claims are made, the 77th division alone drove the boches out of the Argonne forest.'

"This is the sheerest moonshine and must considerably annoy the wise heads in a division whose magnificent record in the Argonne battle needs no such false embellishments. Captain Green can, if he wishes, say that the 77th division was the only division which fought within the confines of the forest itself. That is approximately true, although the 28th and 82d divisions also gouged into its eastern edge. But while it is true, it is of no importance whatever. For the captain cannot say that his division alone drove the boches out. The boches were driven from the forest by a far-reaching battle, wherein the 77th fought through the forest proper and other divisions, assigned to the squeezing-out process, were, on either side, engaged in a far larger operation, every blow of which tended to weaken the German grip on the forest itself.

"'He also says,' The Buffalo Journal rambles on, 'that the 77th division retook more territory, guns and other supplies than any other division in the American army which was fighting in France.'

"Well, well! What can you say about that? And what can you say when the American Army Gazette, of Washington, D. C., quotes a letter which puts one Major Arthur T. Wallace in the unenviable position of writing home as follows:

"'When I say the American army whipped the boche, I mean it, regardless of what any of our allies may think of that statement.'

Health Talks---By William Brady, M. D.

WANTED: A HUMAN NURSE.

The average substantial citizen can scarcely afford to employ a graduate nurse for several weeks in time of sickness. The nurse's wage, added to the doctor's fee and perhaps the loss of income if the patient happens to be a bread winner is prohibitive.

On the other hand, the average so-called "practical nurse" is scarcely a safe attendant in sickness. Although a minority of these untrained or uneducated practical nurses are intelligent, cleanly and thoroughly dependable in most illnesses, it is a deplorable fact that the greater number of such nurses are not competent, though honest and willing and kind as women can be.

The first and last test of a good nurse, no matter whether trained or untrained, is her ability to keep the patient clean and comfortable. This may not sound like a particularly difficult matter and unless you have had personal experience as a patient seriously ill in bed you can scarcely realize what it means to be kept clean and comfortable when sick abed. A few practical nurses, and a precious few, for whom we thank heaven, do pass this test; four out of five of them make a miserable failure. For example, Mrs. Gamp seldom dares to change the sheets or the patient's nighty if the weather isn't just right; and she is just as timid about fresh air; and she looks upon daily bathing as an unwarranted risk. But put yourself in the invalid's place for a few weeks, quite at the mercy of the nurse, if you have a sneaking suspicion that Sairey may be half right about it.

What we need is a fairly intelligent young woman with a short course of training as a housekeeper-nurse; a young woman who can step in and take the housewife's place, keeping the housework up and at the same time nursing the housewife. This, of course, the graduate nurse will not and should not do; but there are ten cases requiring a housekeeper-nurse to one requiring a graduate nurse. The housekeeper-nurse would command a respectable wage and a great demand. Her taining should be completed in six months. She would be worth $20 a week.

Our hospital training schools ought to consider the needs of the great middle class, the best class of people in the country. Graduate nurses with three years' hospital training and their necessarily high wage are beyond the reach of the ordinary family. Why should not the hospitals endeavor to provide reasonably good nursing care for the middle class? Are the paupers and the rich alone to receive the benefits of modern nursing skill?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Yeast and Acne.

Will you kindly publish in your column directions for the use of yeast for acne. (Mrs. V. M. E.)

ANSWER—A compressed yeast cake should be taken after each meal, mixed to fluid with fruit juice or water or milk or any beverage. Continue for about six weeks, more or less. The yeast is suggested for pimples, not for all skin diseases. It is often helpful for pimples or for boils.

Old Mrs. Busybody Says.

Our baby 3 months old has a navel rupture, and the doctor put crisscross adhesive strips and a pad on it. He said he would fit a suitable truss later. But an old nurse advised me to take the dressing off and just wash the navel with olive oil and place raisins on it. I've been doing this now for several weeks, but it doesn't seem to work. What would you advise? (Mrs. W. A. J.)

ANSWER—I should advise that some one take the dear old nurse out behind the woodpile and choke her. You have probably robbed the baby of the one chance of natural or spontaneous healing, and nothing less than an operation will now cure the rupture. Olive oil and raisins are very wholesome food, but you can't rub nourishment in, even under the spell of a genuine Sairey. Why did you employ a physician unless you intended to follow his instructions?

To Soften and Whiten Hands.

Can you suggest something to soften and whiten the hands, which are red and rough, from housework, I suppose? (Mrs. G. F.)

ANSWER—Two or three times a day, after washing the hands and before they are quite dry apply this lotion:

Boric acid, a tablespoonful.
Glycerin, two tablespoonfuls.
Tragacanth, small teaspoonful.
Water, one pint.
Boil, stirring constantly till all dissolved.

Armenia, a Land as Old as History

Armenia, the land to which America now is sending food relief, and which recently suggested that it be placed under the direct protection of the United States, is discussed by Hester Donaldson Jenkins in a communication to the National Geographical society. A portion of this communication, describing the Armenians before the devastations of the world war, follows:

"Armenia is a word that has widely different connotation for different peoples. To us Americans it means a vague territory somewhere in Asia Minor; to the makers of modern maps it means nothing—there is no such place; to the Turks of a few years ago it was a forbidden name, smacking of treason and likely to bring up that bugaboo 'nationalism,' than which Abdul Hamid II. feared nothing more, unless it were 'liberty;' but to nearly two millions of Russian, Persian and Turkish subjects it is a word filled with emotion, one that sends the hand to the heart and calls up both pride and sorrow.

"Armenia is not easy to bound at any period of history, but, roughly, it is the tableland extending from the Caspian sea nearly to the Mediterranean sea. Its limits have become utterly fluid; the waves of conquering Persians and Byzantines, Arabs and Romans, Russians and Turks have flowed and ebbed on its shores until all lines are obliterated. Armenia now is not a state, not even a geographic unity, but merely a term for the region where the Armenians live.

"At the height of its power and at its greatest extent the ancient kingdom of Armenia consisted of 500,000 square miles of fertile table land, extending from the Black sea and the Caucasus mountains to Persia and Syria. It rises until it reaches 8,000 feet above the sea, then it ascends abruptly to the snow-capped peak of Mount Ararat, which is 1,000 feet higher than Mount Blanc. The land is fertile, rugged and beautiful.

"Into the soil of this beautiful and historic land the Armenians have thrust deep roots. No brief civilization is theirs, back to Mayflower or even Norman conquest, but one that is almost coterminous with recorded history; and every Armenian feels behind him this vast antiquity, giving him personal dignity and great national pride. They begin their history with the Garden of Eden, which they claim was in Armenia, basing the claim on the naive statement that the land is beautiful enough to have included Paradise, and also laughingly asserting that the apples of Armenia were worthy to tempt a most epicurean Eve. Their first recorded ancestors they find in the book of Genesis.

"Their appearance is definitely eastern; swarthy, heavy-haired, black-eyed, with aquiline features, they look more Oriental than Turk, Slav or Greek. In general type they come closer to the Jews than to any other people, sharing with them the strongly marked features, prominent nose, and near-set eyes, as well as some gestures we think of as characteristically Jewish. The type is so pronounced that to those who are akin to them they seem often very handsome, while to westerners they seem a little too foreign-looking. Of course, the type is not always preserved; white skins, even an occasional rosy cheek may be seen, and there is a small number of fair-haired and blue-eyed Armenians.

"The resemblance to the Jews does not stop with physical features, for the fate of the two peoples has been sufficiently similar to bring out common traits. Like the Jew, the Armenian has been oppressed and persecuted, and has developed a strength of nationality, a love for his own people, and a persistence of type rarely seen elsewhere. Like the Jew, he has learned to bend, not break, before the oppressor, and to succeed by artifice when opposed by force. How else had he survived? Like the Jew, he has developed strong business instincts, and like him he has a talent for languages, a power of concentration, and unusual artistic gifts. Both Jews and Armenians are very clever actors."

Armenia's history, sometimes glorious, often tragic, will be told in a subsequent bulletin.

GOVERNOR DORSEY RETURNS TONIGHT

Governor Hugh M. Dorsey will return Saturday night from inspecting the various sites that have been offered on which to locate the Coastal Plain Experiment station. Governor Dorsey and the trustees have inspected the sites at Tifton, Sylvester, Baxley, Waycross and the site in Chatham county. As soon as the board selects a site for the station, the contract will be awarded for its construction.

CAPTAIN CONNALLY TOO ILL TO RETURN WITH HIS DIVISION

Captain Joseph Brown Connally, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Connally, and a prominent Atlantan, is confined with rheumatism in base hospital No. 6 at Bordeaux, and will not be able to return home with his division, the 82d, which is now embarking. News of Captain Connally's misfortune was received yesterday through a cablegram to his parents.

It is believed that Captain Connally's rheumatism was caused by the exposure to which he was subjected during the hard campaign of the 82d division in the Argonne. News of the delay in Captain Connally's return will be received with keen disappointment by his many friends who had looked forward to welcoming him soon into the many social and business activities of the city in which he has always taken a prominent part.

Interesting Story of Meeting of Brown Boys And Margaret Wilson

Major Oliver P. Newman, staff correspondent of The Washington Times, who is writing a series of exceedingly interesting letters from France, concerning the doings of the American expeditionary forces, devotes a recent letter to the work of the president's daughter, Miss Margaret Wilson, in bringing cheer and comfort to the American soldiers.

The following interesting extract concerning her accidental meeting with her two cousins, Major Edward and Captain Henry Brown, of Atlanta, will be read with interest. These two boys are sons of Colonel and Mrs. Edward T. Brown, of Atlanta, and were with the 82d division at that time.

Major Edward Brown was afterwards transferred to the 3d division, and is now in charge of the 2d battalion of the 4th infantry in the army of occupation, and is stationed at Saffig, Germany. Captain Henry Brown returned home a few months ago.

Miss Wilson and the Brown Boys.

The extract from Major Newman's letter is as follows:

"Early on the morning of November 11 we started on our concert tour of France, Belgium and Italy, but early as it was, General Pershing had sent word to Miss Wilson that the armistice had been signed at 5 o'clock. We headed north for St. Mihiel, Verdun, and the Argonne, and all day met tired regiments tramping back from the front and passed other, spring-footed, bright-eyed regiments, moving up to take their places—all unconscious that the war was over. As we passed each company, battalion and regimental commander, we yelled at him:

"'The armistice has been signed.'

"I will never forget the scenes of riotous joy that broke loose all about us all that day. Momentarily discipline was relaxed, and officers and men danced about in the road and cheered. Almost invariably Miss Wilson was recognized, and our car was mobbed every mile of the journey. In this enthusiasm the French civilians—women and children and old men and a few crippled poilus—joined in every village. For six weeks it had rained steadily, but the morning of the 11th the sun came out clear and bright and the air was mild. It was regular Wilson weather, and our boys and the French showered congratulations on the daughter of the man to whom they felt they owed their deliverance.

"The French were particularly affected, and hundreds of old women and young women in mourning brought their little children to the car, begged Miss Wilson to get out, and kissed her hands and wept. As far as that goes, it was a weepy day for everybody. One could not see those endless clusters of women in black and little children without struggling with the W. K. lump and moist eye. Personally, I was not ashamed, for I had learned from months of close observation the horrible agony they had been subjected to for four years. Their reaction of joy, relief, gratitude and hope overwhelmed them.

"Directly in front of the birthplace of Joan of Arc, Miss Wilson suddenly cried, 'There's Edward,' and leaped from the car, ran up the road and threw her arms about the neck of a startled captain of infantry, who was plowing along with a pack on his back, a six-shooter swung on his hip, a tin hat jammed over his eyes and a gas mask swung under his chin.

"'Edward's company halted in confusion, and Edward twisted around till he could see who the good-looking girl was who had thrown herself into his arms. He was mud from head to foot, having come out of the line the night before after being in the Meuse-Argonne advance for five weeks. When he saw, he did some grabbing, too, and then somebody recognized Miss Wilson, knew she was the captain's own cousin, the captain being Edward Brown, of Atlanta, in the 82d division, and the company danced about them and cheered wildly, especially when told the war was over.

"'I never was so surprised in my life, and never so happy,' said Miss Wilson.

"'But think of Edward,' said Mrs. David. 'You knew he was in the A. E. F., and that there was one chance in a million you'd see him. But he didn't even know you were in France.'

"Five miles further on toward the front Miss Wilson did a Brodie out of the car again, and this time yanked a young captain off his horse and embraced him. He was equally astonished and his battalion repeated the performance of Edward's company. The second captain was Edward's brother, Henry."

LAURENS FARMERS BUILD ELEVATOR AND GRIST MILL

Members of the Georgia Farmer's union, of Laurens county, have formed a stock company capitalized at $20,000 for the erection of a grain elevator and grist mill, according to the announcement Friday of J. H. Mills, president of the union, upon his arrival in Atlanta yesterday.

The elevator is expected to cost about $15,000, and, according to the plans, will be a large grist mill for grinding corn into meal, near the elevator. It has been estimated that the elevator will shuck, shell, grade and sack corn at a cost of 4 cents per bushel to the farmers.

According to Mr. Mills, it is believed that the elevator will stimulate the growing of corn, wheat, velvet beans, and other grains in the county, as the farmers can store these products and sell them whenever the market is favorable.

Appeals for Jobs For Soldiers Will Be Made Tomorrow

Mother's day this year is to be Mother's and Son's day, in order to strengthen the drive made by the United States employment service for jobs for soldiers and sailors which commence with May 4, employment Sunday.

"The Mothers' International association gladly breaks its rule of forbidding appeals to be made in its name in order to aid the government in obtaining employment for demobilized men," says Miss Anna Jarvis, founder and president of the association.

"Mothers and jobs are the two universal forces that can most quickly and successfully replace our three and one-half million soldiers and sailors in civil life.

"Every man in his heart reveres the mother who dreamed of a great future for him based on the works of his hands or head. Every mother is honored when profitable employment is offered to men who gave up work to enter the service of their country. Every mother has a right to feel her sacrifices have been disregarded, her high calling debased so long as a single soldier is debarred from opportunity to work. No man can be a son worthy of his mother while he is an outcast from the constructive force of the country.

"Do what you can to help the United States employment service of the department of labor in its effort to secure profitable employment for soldiers and sailors. Make a special effort during the week of May 4 to May 11. The president of the United States has issued an appeal for observance of this time for dedication to the needs of men released from the service in the difficult problems of employment and industrial readjustment. Mayors and governors are proclaiming and indorsing the appeal. Churches, protestant and Catholics, are united in their endeavor to start an impelling drive on employment Sunday for re-employment opportunities."

KING STANLEY, GIPSY AND ADVENTURER, HERE

Hale, hearty and happy, King Stanley, the gypsy soldier, miner, and showman, who seventeen years ago stopped in Atlanta on one of his cross-continent tours and wrote for The Constitution the beautiful "Legion of Indian Springs," visited Atlanta again last night, to inquire about the "old boys" and to tell of the wonderful life he has led since that time.

He made the trip from Los Angeles in a car he has named "Maxey," and tells of plowing fifty miles through sticky, muddy roads with his wheels buried to the axle. He had a thrilling race with a cloudburst in Texas.

He will visit every state in the union before finally returning to his home.

He has visited Atlanta several times with the wild west shows, and Stanley is among the last of the old characters of the west that were reared with "Buffalo Bill."

He fought for Villa in the Mexican revolution.

TAKEN BY POSSE, IS SHOT TO DEATH

Negro Farmer, Who Shot Wife, Attacked Whites, and Barricaded Himself in Swamp, Succumbs Mortally Wounded.

Warrenton, Ga., May 2.—(Special.) Following an all night man hunt during which dynamite bombs were thrown and gasoline used, Denny Richards, young negro farmer who yesterday killed his wife and wounded four white men, was captured by a sheriff's posse early this morning and shot to death.

The capture followed an all night battle between the negro, who was barricaded in a hole caused by an uprooted tree on the bank of Whetstone creek, and a posse of about 300 men armed with rifles and shotguns.

After the negro had been killed the body was dragged behind an automobile to Warrenton where it remained for about an hour in the public square. The body was finally taken about half a mile from town where it was saturated with gasoline, placed on a pyre and burned.

Weird Scene.

The scene of the man hunt in Whetstone swamp was weird beyond all description. When Richards was located in the hole on the bank of the creek it was realized that many would probably be killed if the armed and desperate black were rushed, so the use of gasoline was decided upon. Over 300 gallons were secured, poured on the surface of the creek upstream and lighted. Flames shot a hundred feet high, lighting up the woods and making the shadows of the trees flicker like a dance of witches. Eddies in the stream, however, prevented the blazing fluid from being washed down to the bank opposite the negro.

Dynamite with percussion caps affixed was then secured and extemporized bombs thrown at the negro, who was keeping up a steady fire on his pursuers. Although some of these bombs exploded near the negro his fire continued.

At 3 o'clock in the morning, when the activities of the posse had quieted down, the negro finally surrendered. He was found to be in a dying condition, one bullet from the revolver of Sheriff W. O. Brinkley six hours earlier had penetrated his lungs in addition to numerous other wounds he had received during the fight in the swamp. It was seen that he could not possibly recover and he was shot to death.

Wounded Recovering.

All the white people shot Thursday by Richards are reported much improved. Sheriff Brinkley, it is now believed, will recover the use of both eyes, Robert Whitford, city clerk, will undoubtedly recover unless complications should set in and the wounds of Henry and Louis Baker have been found to be slight.

Richards yesterday killed his divorced wife and shot her sister and then fired upon officials who, with a posse, attempted to arrest him.

Although the entire section was aroused by the affair everything has now quiet down.

Officials state that there will be no investigation of the matter.

2 CARS WRECKED AND A LAMP POST BROKEN ON FRIDAY

Two automobiles were wrecked and a lamp post broken down in a peculiar accident which occurred early Friday morning on East Alabama street near the corner of Pryor street. The automobile driven by J. H. Beacham, of Dublin, Ga., suddenly crashed into the car of F. T. Mason, 806 Central building, causing the latter car to knock down a lamp post, badly damaging the top of the machine.

According to Beacham, both cars were parked on East Alabama street, and he had just started to drive off, when the accident occurred. When Beacham pressed his foot on the starter, his automobile started forward, crashing into Mason's machine, which broke down the lamp post. According to Beacham, the accident was unavoidable, as some one had tampered with his car during his absence and had left it in gear.

Dr. Smith Requests Probe of Remarks Attributed to Him

A unique situation arose Friday afternoon at a meeting of the board of health, when Dr. Linton Smith, a member of the board, requested that a committee from the members be appointed to investigate alleged utterances made by himself with reference to city dumping grounds during the recent campaign to vote municipal bonds. In deference to this request a committee composed of Dr. P. L. Moon and Dr. J. B. Baker, acting with Mayor Key, was appointed by the president of the board. Among published statements, alleged to have been made by Dr. Smith, were that residence sections of the city were being used by the sanitary department as dumping grounds for garbage, thereby creating a fruitful source for disease germs and that dead animals were tossed on these heaps.

Several days ago Mayor Key stated his intention of requesting a councilmanic investigation of these published remarks. He was present at the meeting Friday afternoon.

History of School Probe Started by Dykes' Charges

It was just about a year ago that the agitation started in the high schools which aroused the entire city to the extent that the system of school management was changed by the legislature, and which led to the resignation on July 29 of Professor Dykes as principal of the Boys' High school because the board of education failed to uphold the special investigating committee of council and dismiss the superintendent and assistant superintendent and make other changes in the system.

Mr. Dykes at that time made serious charges against Superintendent Wardlaw, Assistant Superintendent Culver and Mayor-elect Key, and declared that he could not serve under these men.

The school disturbance in which Mr. Dykes became a leader, originated over the proposal coming from members of the board of education to do away with the time-honored custom of separate commencement exercises for the high schools and combining them into one big event at the Auditorium.

Storm of Protest.

The idea brought forth a storm of protest from the pupils, in which parents later joined, bringing forward at the same time other issues such as the question of teachers' salaries and the method of grading teachers.

A sensational session of the board of education was held on May 24, to hear the protests of pupils and parents. This meeting proved to be the opening gun of the big offensive which developed into a staunchly fought contest which lasted until the legislature provided for a method of electing the board by the people, instead of by council.

There was a tide of resentment and indignation directed against the school authorities as a result of the board meeting, many who had kept complaints to themselves for many months now coming forward with their objections.

When a meeting was held of the schools' and teachers' committee the day following, presided over by Major R. J. Guinn, the decision of the commencement problem was placed in the hands of the four principals of the city. A report was made advising the combined commencement. From this opinion, however, Professor Dykes dissented and he and Superintendent Wardlaw had a sensational exchange of views over this and other matters.

When the people learned that Professor Wardlaw had been sustained by the committee fuel was added to the flame and finally Major Guinn, president of the board of education, announced that the board had decided to change its plan.

Dykes Issues Card.

This statement brought forth a card from Professor Dykes, who declared that the principals had not signed the agreement, and made other charges against the board of education and school officials such as "kaiserism" and "autocratic methods." He also startled the city by charging that a pro-German professor, whom he named as W. F. Rein, was employed in the public schools, and added other accusations against the official school family.

The card led to the demand for a searching investigation of the schools and the mayor pro tem. appointed a special investigating committee, which, when it got to work, was composed of Councilman Claude Ashley, chairman; Councilman Renfroe, Alderman J. S. McClelland, Councilman W. S. Dillon and Councilman Bailey. Hundreds of teachers and pupils attended the investigation and gave testimony.

During the series of hearings which began on June 12, came the dramatic withdrawal of Major Guinn from the board, after protesting that the investigation should not be conducted along personal lines.

On July 7 the report was made by the committee in which the charges of Professor Dykes were sustained and recommendations were made that the tax rate should be increased to provide more funds for the schools, that the board members be elected by the people, and that Professor Wardlaw should be dismissed by the board of education.

Council Denies Demands.

Council failed to adopt the report, the city fathers declining to indorse the election of the board by the people and to ask the board of education to dismiss Superintendent Wardlaw.

Professor Dykes' resignation came shortly after the board meeting. He was later mentioned as an independent candidate for mayor to run against Key, who had been nominated in the primary, but Mr. Dykes refused to consider this step. There was also some effort made by his friends to persuade him to make the legislative race, but the former high school principal declared that he wished to stay out of politics, and would not become a candidate for any office.

The dissatisfaction with the councilmanic domination of the schools led to the successful effort of many prominent citizens to have the legislature pass a number of reforms relating to the schools. Near the close of the session these measures were enacted, changing the membership of the board of education from twelve to seven, or one representative from every two ward instead of from each ward, with the mayor and the chairman of the schools committee from council ex-officio members.

It was also stipulated that the mayor and general council should set apart for the sole and exclusive use of the board of education from the current funds of each year a sum not less than that proportion of funds set apart in 1918, in order that with an increase in the city's income the school appropriation should also increase.

The election under the new law took place December 4, when the old board was repudiated by a victory for the candidates proposed by the Parent-Teacher association of the city, who declined to indorse any of the former members except W. H. Terrell, who had favored the changes and stood back of the reforms.

Strong confidence has been placed in the new board by the patrons and teachers, both of whom have shown a desire to co-operate. The board has supported the teachers in their demand for increased salaries and have endeavored to provide additional funds whereby a satisfactory increase can be granted.

Red Cross Aiding Relief Work In Stricken Armenia and Syria

That the American Red Cross is aiding in all possible manner the work outlined by the Armenian and Syrian relief committee in the Near East, was made known in a letter sent to Mrs. B. M. Boykin, chairman of the local Armenian and Syrian relief committe on Friday by J. L. McMillin, director of the department of development of the southern division of the American Red Cross.

Mr. McMillin clearly outlined just what work the Red Cross is doing for the poor Armenians and Syrians and states in clear language that even if the national quota as asked by the Armenian and Syrian relief committee is raised, it will not be sufficient to meet the demands of that devastated land.

The national committee of the Red Cross and the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief are working hand in hand to eliminate suffering in the Near East and there is no duplication, as each organization has its set work to perform.

To Interest Ministers.

Mrs. Boykin is interesting the ministers of the churches in this zone asking them to raise additional money to make up the allotted quota for Atlanta, which is $75,000. She plans to have an Armenian and Syrian relief sermon preached in every church in Atlanta to add impetus to the cause.

Mr. McMillin's letter in full follows:

My Dear Mrs. Boykin: Complying with your telephone request, I am attaching herewith copy of a letter from Washington relative to the relationship which exists between the American Red Cross and the Armenian and Syrian relief.

You will note that the Red Cross has donated money for this purpose through national headquarters, but that the local chapters have no right to contribute their funds for this purpose, as national headquarters makes all appropriations from Washington in light of the contributions and needs in the various parts of the world.

I think it is sufficient to tell those who state that the Red Cross is attending to all relief work, that while every possible situation is cared for by the Red Cross organization, it would take a fund ten or fifteen times the amount which the Red Cross has in hand to in any way meet the distressing needs in the war-stricken lands. While Red Cross relief work not long ago centered in France, Belgium and Italy, it has now spread out until active commissions reach from the Atlantic coast of Europe to the Pacific coast of Siberia. Our last reports tell of the imposing activities in Greece, a country from which details heretofore have been lacking, and the very many relief measures that are in operation in far off Siberia. In Poland, while the special commission sent there has hardly had time to complete a survey of the situation, actual down-to-business relief work has been begun with full energy. The longest train that was ever sent from the city of Warsaw was the American Red Cross train that left there ten days ago with a cargo of $2,000,000 worth of relief supplies.

Amount Insufficient.

These are only a few of the countries where relief is now being speeded by the Red Cross organization, but, as I stated above, the amount of [illegible] for this purpose is entirely insufficient to meet the pressing demands. While the Red Cross is doing [illegible] relief work in Armenia and Syria, the problem is so great [illegible] the full amount [illegible] of the Armenian and Syrian relief [illegible] cared for. I think that you are perfectly [illegible] of work; that the Red Cross with its splendid commissions is acting as a clearing house for all relief measures, and that all of the machinery of the organization will be used in co-operating with the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief.

While I have not been able to find any authentic statement to the effect, it is my impression that the Red Cross relief workers are supervising and assisting in the proper expenditure of the money raised in your drive. I know for certain that the Red Cross trains and the Red Cross trucks and ambulances are being used in the closest co-operation between the American and Syrian relief and the Red Cross.

The American Red Cross has just made an additional contribution to the American committee for Armenian and Syrian relief of 500 tons of relief supplies valued at $366,706.96. These supplies were being loaded on the U. S. S. Newport News, which sailed Tuesday as our fifth relief ship for Beirut and Constantinople. This latest contribution from the Red Cross is in addition to the something more than $6,000,000 of cash and supplies previously contributed.

Moving Pictures Shown at Street Committee Meeting

The usual routine of business before the street committee of council Friday afternoon was enlivened by moving pictures. Production of granite in quarries from the original mass through various stages to regular standard paving blocks was shown by means of the screen by the Granite Paving Block Manufacturer's association. Besides members of the street committee William A. Hansell, Jr., Fulton county engineer; C. A. Smith, representing the Georgia Railway and Power company, and several members of the association were present.

The films were designed to display the superiority of granite as a paving material. Many views of streets in New York of different types of construction and various terms of wear up to twenty years were shown. According to the representative of the association the first improved granite block paving laid in the United States was at Worcester, Mass.

67,000 MEN USED IN RAINBOW DIVISION

Washington, May 2.—Only about 35 per cent of the more than 22,000 men composing the 42d (Rainbow) division as it returned from France were members of the original division as organized at Camp Mills, N. Y., to embark for the front. Practically all of them, it was learned today, have been wounded or otherwise incapacitated during the months of service. They had been returned from the hospitals and rest camps to the division and when it received orders for home a special effort was made by the division staff to get together all the original Rainbow personnel who had survived the rigors of the campaign.

The intense activity of the division during the fighting is shown by the number of replacement troops which passed through its muster rolls during that period. This number is placed by officers of the division at approximately 67,000 men against the full war strength of 27,500. Each time it was withdrawn for rest it was necessary practically to reconstitute the division's personnel because of casualties. Toward the end of the fighting, however, many of the men sent forward in replacements were original members of the Rainbow division, who had recovered and returned to duty. This, officers say, accounted for the percentage of its original rolls which came back with the organization.

"The per capita taxation in this state is only $2.55 against $3.56 for the south Atlantic states in the whole, and $5.09 for the entire United States.

"With the passage of this bill, we can build our good roads, have better schools, and be in truth the empire state of the south."

W. J. Fullbright, state tax commissioner, addressed the meeting, outlining the provisions of the proposed bill, which will be offered when the legislature convenes this summer.

Explains Tax Revision.

He explained the proposed tax revision as affecting merchants, submitted to the bodies data on the inefficiency and inequality of the general property tax gathered by the special tax commission in the course of its investigations of Georgia's system of taxation.

The new system, he explained, would separate the different classes of property into groups and lay a tax on each different group according to its character.

Merchandise would constitute one group and would be taxed on a percentage basis of the merchants' purchases. This form of taxation, he said, would be more equitable than an ad valorem tax on stocks of merchandise.

The new tax cannot be submitted to the people for ballot until 1921 should the bill be passed by the legislature this summer.

A number of local merchants and some out-of-town dealers attended the meeting. Much interest was manifested and Mr. Fullbright answered numerous questions on the application of the tax. Some of the more minute details had not been worked out, he said, but he explained fully the provisions of the bill.

A chart showing Georgia's increase in money, notes and accounts listed for taxation in 1917 and 1918, as compared with Kentucky's and other states was shown during his speech. It showed that Georgia's increase in 1918 ove rthe previous increase in 1918 over the previous Kentucky's increase in bank deposits alone of $168,000,000.

Amazing Results.

"With such, to us, amazing results coming through a partial getaway from the general property tax, coupled with improved administration, all along the line, the present conditions, while not yet perfect anywhere, appear to be far more satisfactory to tax authorities of these progressive states who have taken up this new system than those formerly existing," he said. "It should be highly encouraging to those of us still abiding beneath the shadow of inertia."

Others to speak on the proposed measure were J. W. Le Craw, secretary of the tax commission; Robert Alston, attorney for the associations, and Harvey Hatcher, chairman of the city council finance committee.

The meeting was called following the report of a committee representing the three commercial bodies who attended that tax hearing at Macon April 14. The committee was headed by Colonel Paxon and Mr. Regenstein.

The proposed constitutional amendment would provide that all taxes shall be levied and collected under general laws and for public purposes only, empowering the general assembly to classify property for taxation and to segregate different classes of property for state and local taxation.

In this way taxes may be levied ad valorem upon any given class of property without regard to the method used in levying any other class of property.

Extension Is Granted For the Registration Of Narcotic Dealers

An extension of three days has been granted narcotic and paregoric dealers who are required by federal statutes to register with the internal revenue department, according to information from Washington received by local Atlanta Revenue Agent Gannt. The dealers will have until May 25 to register. Prosecution can be avoided by dealers only by registering on or prior to that date. In addition to registering with the revenue department, the dealers in the drugs specified are required by law to pay for a year and it is stipulated that a complete record of the sales of the articles be kept for examination by officers.

FAIR WEATHER WILL CONTINUE IN ATLANTA

Fair weather is expected to continue in Atlanta and vicinity Saturday and Sunday.

All signs of rain were completely erased yesterday when the sun shone throughout the day, with mild temperatures prevailing. The Atlanta bureau says this state will continue today, while the official Washington bureau assures Atlantans they will be safe from showers in visiting the parks and attending Sunday worship. Milder temperatures will come Sunday, too, Washington says.

In most sections temperatures are moderate. At scattered stations in the eastern half of the country showers occurred Friday. There have been storm centers near Havre, Mont., and Saulte Ste. Marie, but the weather man says they are too far northward to influence Atlanta.

HOLSUM SPECIAL CAKE

All Things Come to Him Who Waits

So we have waited patiently.

And there has come to us that for which we have waited and hoped.

We have wanted to make "Holsum" Cakes the best that materials and experience could make or money could buy. We have wanted to make them of the same superlative quality that characterizes all of the products of this bakery.

This was our goal. Nothing short of it could satisfy us.

But the war was on, so we waited. The Government put its ban on good materials without a mixture of substitutes. We could not make the "Holsum" Cake we wanted. It was impossible. Nor was it a time to make a 15c cake when a 10c cake would suffice.

And now the waiting is over.

Our dream has come true. "Holsum Special" Cake as we want it, as we are satisfied with, is on the market.

We can buy the best materials in the market places of the world, and put them in "Holsum Special" Cake, and they are there.

There's no better cake on earth. Few as good. Not even the cake that "Mother used to make."

Superlative quality, tested by laboratory experiment, and approved by experience, it's all there—quality, experience, facilities and workmanship.

Sealed in dust-proof wrappers at the oven, they stay sweet and fresh longer than you would imagine. They come in cartons that are distinctive, an added protection you find in few other cakes.

Look for the name on every package and for our name. It is your guarantee of quality and your protection against imitation.

FARMER SAYS HE'D GIVEN UP ALL HOPE

Suffered So Much That He Would Stay Up All Night—Takes Tanlac, Gains 19 Pounds and Troubles Are Ended.

"I gained nineteen pounds on a few bottles of Tanlac and it has put an end to my troubles," said J. M. George, a well-known farmer at Riverside, near Ft. Worth, Texas.

"Up to a few months ago," he continued, "I was one of the healthiest men of my age in this section. But one day I began to suffer pains in my back and noticed my kidneys were out of order. Soon I had to give up and couldn't do a bit of work. I suffered agony so I couldn't half sleep, I fell off in weight and was so weak I could hardly raise my hands.

"My son-in-law got me to try Tanlac, and I began to feel better after starting on it. I have now taken four bottles and there is not a sign of my old troubles left. The pain has gone from my back and my kidneys are as sound and regular as ever. If it hadn't been for Tanlac I don't believe I could have held out much longer, but since taking it I am feeling tip top in every way."

Did you lose that job through a poor skin

There's many a person whose chances in life are limited simply because of a skin that is blotchy and unpresentable. Pimples, rough, red, ugly skins—skins that chap and burn easily—are usually most successfully treated with Resinol Ointment.

The joint use of Resinol Soap with Resinol Ointment usually produces the best results where facial blemishes are concerned, and is equally successful in treating other skin affections on limbs and body.

THE MEN IN CLASS A1

A sound, healthy man is never a back number. A man can be as vigorous and able at seventy as at twenty. Condition, not years, puts you in the discard. A system weakened by overwork and careless living brings old age prematurely. The bodily functions are impaired and unpleasant symptoms appear. The weak spot is generally the kidneys. Keep them clean and in proper working condition and you will generally find yourself in Class A. Take GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules periodically and your system will always be in working order. Your spirits will be enlivened, your muscles supple, your mind active, and your body capable of hard work.

Don't wait until you have been rejected. Commence to be a first-class man now. Go to your druggist at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are made of the pure, original, imported Haarlem Oil—the kind your great-grandfather used. Two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling fine. Money refunded if they do not help you. Remember to ask for the imported GOLD MEDAL Brand. In three sizes, sealed packages.—(adv.)

CABLE SYSTEMS BACK TO OWNERS

Washington, May 2.—American cable lines taken over by the government in November were restored to private ownership and operation at midnight tonight by direction of President Wilson.

The turn back was without ceremony or formality, the wire control board of the postoffice department having arranged details of the transfer on April 29, at which time the government made known its intention to relinquish control of the properties. Since December Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, has been directing head of the cable service by appointment of the postmaster general.

Beginning tomorrow, however, Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Commercial Cable company, will resume his former duties with that company. Mr. Mackay was removed by the postmaster general because of his refusal to co-operate in government efforts to unify all trans-Atlantic service.

Postmaster General Burleson during the day received another telegram from Mr. Mackay requesting the return of the Postal Company's land lines at once. Mr. Burleson replied as follows:

"Replying to your telegrams of yesterday and today you are advised that my telegram to you of the first instant disposes of the matter so far as the postmaster general is concerned."

CHILD LABOR LAW HELD TO BE INVALID

had to be approached by indirection to avoid unlawful interference with state police powers. Judge Boyd held that the law was not sound, and, as stated, the supreme court agreed with him.

What Manufacturers Say.

Charlotte, N. C., May 2.—Winston Adams, secretary of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, with offices here, tonight authorized the following statement regarding the child labor case decided today by Judge Boyd:

"The manufacturers are contesting this law as a matter of principle rather than merely the working of young people. The manufacturers claim that if this law is held constitutional the precedent has been established whereby the federal government can make and enforce any regulation covering conditions of employment, wages, hours and other kindred matters.

"The manufacturers contend that this is a matter for state regulation, rather than regulation by the federal government.

"This case has been appealed and will be carried direct to the supreme court of the United States. An effort is being made to secure a hearing at this session of the court."

Washington Lacks Information.

Washington, May 2.—Officials of the department of justice were without information on the decision of Federal Judge Boyd at Greensboro, N. C., today declaring the child labor section of the war revenue law unconstitutional and could not say what the next step in the case would be. It was stated, however, that the decision would not affect operation of the law unless upheld by the supreme court. As the case was brought by an employee against a cotton mill, the government having no direct part in the proceedings, it was said that the question of an appeal would have to be decided locally at Greensboro.

ALLEGED MURDERERS GRANETD CONTINUANCE

Lake City, Fla., May 2.—After failing in their effort to secure a General Christian was personally in they could not secure a fair trial in this county, J. M. and Frank Landrum and J. Lichtenstein, white men, and Tim Hall, a negro, charged with the murder of Mrs. Willie Koons, of this place, were late today granted a continuance until the next term of court. Continuance was granted on the plea that they could not secure certain important witnesses in time to proceed with the trial at this term.

The prisoners were placed aboard a train for Jacksonville this afternoon, under escort of companies A, B and C, St. Johns county gaurds, ordered here by Governor Catts to protect the alleged murderers from possible mob violence Adjutant General Chritian was personally in command of the guards. The prisonesr will be turned over to the Duval county sheriff for safe keeping.

The killing arose out of a quarrel between the Landrums and Mr. Koons about some negro farm hands who left the Landrums employ to work for Koons. The Landrums, Lichenstein and the negroes all are said to have gone to the Koons place and started trouble in the negro quarters. Koons was shot, but not seriously wounded, and Mrs. Koons, appearing in the scene in an effort to persuade the men to stop fighting, was shot dead. Public feeling ran very high, and the four men were rushed to the Duval county jail at Jacksonville to prevent mob violence. They were brought here for trial yesterday under escort of county guards from St. Johns county, as ordered by the governor.

navigators will be able to read signals and make observations readily. Estimates available tonight are that each machine will consume about 650 pounds of gasoline an hour at the start, but that by the time the Azores are reached fuel consumption will have dwindled to something like 360 pounds an hour, the decrease being attributed to lightening of the load carried as gasoline is consumed on the passage.

None of the trans-Atlantic crews were given rehearsals today. A number of smaller planes went up for brief flights, but the NC crews remained at the naval stations. Before they can take their planes each crew will have to fly at least one night, it was announced today.

SUPPLY SHIP REACHES NEWFOUNDLAND BASE.

St. Johns, N. F., May 2.—The United States navy became a real factor in the contest for trans-Atlantic flight honors when the mine-layer Aroostook, flying the Stars and Stripes dropped anchor in British waters at Trepassey bay. It has on board the crew of the naval air station which will be maintained as the base for the American flying boats.

The arrival of the Aroostook with the hint it brought of the early arrival of the American naval seaplanes for their start on the trans-Atlantic flight caused noticeable concern to Harry Hawker, Australian, and Captain Frederick P. Raynham, Briton, who have been here nearly a month awaiting favorable weather for the trip in their land planes.

British Aviators Delayed.

Held on the ground by continuance of unfavorable conditions, they read of the selection of Trepassey Bay as the United States flight base and professed no anxiety over the possibility of being outdone in the overseas race.

"The Nancy boats of the United States navy must get here first," commented Raynham, in speaking of the prospects for the navy's NC planes. "Then they must fly to the Azores. Whether we call Portugal or England their finish line, the stops they will make involve time. I think either Hawker or I can give them three days and beat them to England if they follow announced plans.

"If we are held here until the Americans arrive at Trepassey Bay, or even at the Azores, we should still be able to get across before them. As the honor of the first crossing overshadows The London Daily Mail's prize for which Hawker and I are racing, I am sure neither of us will decline the issue if the Americans set out from here, whether stormy or fair."

Inadequate Facilities.

Inadequate airdrome facilities have contributed largely to delay in the Australian and British aviators' start, they asserted today. This condition has been due to the topography of the country. Adverse weather at sea has held them up mainly, but several lulls have offered chances for safe passage only to find them locally "windbound."

Level ground hereabouts is so limited that neither Raynham's nor Hawker's airdromes are located in "four direction" flying fields, but are in restricted stretches permitting runs in only two directions. The American flying boats, with their ability to rise from the water in any direction, will not be thus handicapped, it was said.

Wind and weather conditions over the Atlantic were reported today about as good as could be hoped for, but once more it was a local "beam wind" sweeping across their fields that prevented Hawker and Raynham from getting under way.

U. S. Policy About Italy Arousing Opposition, Asserts Poindexter

Washington, May 2.—Action of the American delegates to the peace conference "in assuming the entire responsibility for the settlement of the Italian controversy" has resulted in strong opposition among the people of the west, declared Senator Poindexter, of Washington, republican, in a statement issued today on returning from a trip to the Pacific coast.

"The people look upon the Italian controversy as peculiarly a European problem," Senator Poindexter asserted, "and feel that the statesmen of France and England have achieved a diplomatic triumph in shifting the responsibility of its settlement to the United States. One of the consequences of the attempt by the American delegation to dominate and dictate the settlement of purely European controversies is shown in the bitter resentment being manifested by various peoples who but a short time ago were our ardent friends."

AMERICAN TROOPS TO QUIT GERMANY

Boys to Be Hurried Home as Soon as Possible After the Peace Treaty Is Signed—Every Effort to Speed Up Demobilization.

Washington, May 2.—Determination of President Wilson, indicated in press advices from Paris, that no American troops shall continue on German soil for a longer period after the signing of the peace treaty than may be necessary to embark them for home, is borne out by present plans of the war department which contemplate the return of the entire American expeditionary forces by September. Because of this General March, chief of staff, is making every effort to speed up the demobilization in this country.

An official announcement issued today as to the accumulation of surplus clothing for the troops stated that the estimates were based on "troop withdrawal to be completed in September." The statement also said that "if an army of occupation is maintained after September, a portion of this surplus will be needed."

This computation was taken to reflect exactly the present information of the department as to future troop movements. The September date represents estimates by embarkation officials as to the maximum possible speed in withdrawing the entire force in Europe, including the troops holding the Coblenz bridgehead sector on the Rhine. If anything, officers anticipate that the movement will be accelerated rather than retarded. The schedule has been exceeded recently and in increasing measure from week to week.

450,000 Men Moving Monthly.

With an indicated monthly movement of 450,000 men, the best predictions of General March and his aides bid fair, it was said, to be more than realized.

General March returned today from a personal inspection of demobilization centers in the southeastern department, completing the personal survey he began with Secretary Baker before the latter sailed for France. At each of the camps visited the chief of staff went over the demobilization machinery with the camp commander in detail, insisting that the 48-hour period for the passage of troops from the camps into civil life be maintained and also checking up the semi-permanent demobilization personnel at the camps in an effort to reduce the number of men who are being held in the service for this work. It is believed that he will be able in his interview with newspaper correspondents tomorrow to furnish figures showing the speed with which the breaking up of the army at home is being accomplished.

"Bottle Necks" Working Well.

Officers recently returned from France say the "two bottle necks" through which practically the entire movement must pass, the embarkation camp at Brest and the debarkation station at Hoboken, are now operating at a remarkable speed. The system is said to be so precise that a unit or even an individual officer or man who loses step with the system's stride has a difficult time and probably never succeeds in catching up with the main flow.

An instance of the rapidity with which the machine is working was shown today by the fact that among the officers reporting to General March on his return were some who started from their sectors on the Rhine with their command just 21 days ago.

COSTA RICA EXILES BEGIN REVOLUTION

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua, May 2.—Costa Rican exiles met and defeated a force of Costa Rican frontier guards on the Rio Frio, near the southeastern shore of Lake Nicaragua Thursday. The frontier guards retired after the fight.

It is reported here that other revolutionists have begun an attack along the border between Costa Rica and Panama.

According to the reports reaching here a small schooner carrying revolutionists capsized in Lake Nicaragua after the skirmish on the Rio Frio. All on board, however, were rescued.

The reported outbreak of fighting between the Costa Rican exiles and Costa Rican government forces comes closely after a report from San Juan Del Sur, Thursday that Costa Ricans opposed to the present government were assembling on the southern and eastern end of Lake Nicaragua and at points on the San Juan river. Previously it had been reported from Central America that the Costa Rican government had sent several thousand troops to protect the northern frontier.

The government of Costa Rica is headed by General Frederico Tinoco, who led a successful revolution against the Gonzales government early in 1917. The Tinoco government never has been recognized by the United States, although it has made several attempts to gain recognition.

The composing rooms of the regular papers, both morning and afternoon, were still tied up by a walkout of linotype operators, who left their machines at midnight Wednesday.

The Bulletin appeared in newspaper form, carried a slug line to the effect that it was "Vol. I, No. 1," announced the committe as the publisher, and asserted that it "positively had the largest circulation today of any newspaper in Albany." It carried no advertisements. It did, however, have some local news in bulletin form and announced the progress of the loan drive and gave notice of future loan features.

S. A. Workers Are Real Heroes, Says Argonne Veteran

Robert J. Moore, one of the machine gunners of the famous battalions of the Argonne, is recuperating at Fort McPherson after being severely wounded, and he has been cited for bravery while in action.

Moore was a member of the Machine Gun battalion that by its bravery and daring gained the name of the Suicide club. When asked to tell some of his experiences at the front and why his battalion came by this name, he said: "I don't know why we got that name, unless it was because we just stuck to the little bullet 'squirters' until we were killed or had wiped out everything before us, but I would like to know what you would call the smallest and frailest girl the Salvation Army sent overseas?

"If you could have seen them working as I have. Why, I tell you, I have seen Salvation Army girls leaning over their little cook stoves frying doughnuts and making coffee and serving us boys when the shell of the Hun was plowing up the ground on all sides. They stuck until they were ordered back by our commanding officers and then they gave their doughnuts and coffee to the soldiers they were meeting en route to the front. I want to tell you it was a sight and a service I shall never forget, but any man who has ever worn the uniform in any branch of service will be at the beck and call of the S. A. because they were with us when we needed them most, and we shall be with them in the future whenever they need us.

"I think it is a duty that every soldier owes to himself and to the Salvation Army to tell of the wonderful work of mercy performed by the Salvation Army workers and to leave nothing undone to show their appreciaion.

"I feel sure that when the boys of the south get back home their people will know things of the Salvation Army that have never been known or fully appreciated before."

NO STOPPAGE OF WORK BY THE SHIPYARDS

Washington, May 2.—Shipyards will not be forced to suspend work nor will any men be thrown out of employment in the contemplated readjustment of the building program of the shipping board, Chairman Hurley said today. Mr. Hurley explained that the prospective cancellation of 2,000,000 deadweight tons of shipbuilding contracts would be followed by the substitution of contracts, calling for the construction of more desirable types of vessels.

The prospective cancellations, he said, would be of undesirable types of ships, which cannot be completed until late in 1919, with some of them being unfinished at the end of this year. Cancellations, he added, would result from a study now being made to balance the fleet for peace-time needs. Style, types and speed of ships, Mr. Hurley explained, are being studied, and figures already obtained indicate the necessity of cancellation. To this, it was said, was due the cancellation of 35 troop ships of 8,000 tons each at the Hog Island yard.

ALIEN UNDESIRABLES MADE UP FOR EXPORT

San Francisco, May 2.—Parties of alleged alien revolutionists are being made up in San Francisco, Seattle and other coast points for deportation as a result of the receipt of mailed bombs and other radical activities at these points, Edward White, commissioner of immigration, announced here today.

The recent murder of Mrs. George D. Greenwood, Oakland society matron, by a bomb and the receipt here of infernal contrivances by District Attorney C. M. Fickert and his assistant, Edward A. Cunha, have caused the immigration authorities to redouble their efforts to round up all alien undesirables, White said.

Washington, May 2.—Anthony Caminetti, commissioner of immigration, said tonight that Edward White, immigration commissioner on the western coast, was not acting under any special orders from Washington in rounding up alien undesirables in San Francisco, Seattle and other coast cities.

"If Mr. White is arresting large numbers of aliens for deportation," Mr. Caminetti said, "he undoubtedly is doing so in line with his regular duties. He has made no report to this office regarding his activities, and it is not necessary for him to do so."

BLACK-DRAUGHT CLEANS THE LIVER

Enthusiastic Texan Tells of Bad Fix He Was In and How He Got Out by Using Black-Draught Liver Medicine.

Holland, Texas.—Mr. J. N. Messer, who lives a short distance from here out in the country, says: "Black-Draught is without doubt the best liver medicine made. I do not hesitate to say it will do all it is recommended to do and more.

I am strong and healthy, but we all need a little active medicine once in a while, and Black-Draught is good enough for me. It does the work well and cleans the liver, carrying away bile, the easiest of any purgative I have ever seen.

Once, some years ago, I had slow fever and my stomach was in a bad fix, and Black-Draught gave me relief and helped me a wonderful sight. It cured me of indigestion, and the bad feeling after eating. I keep it for my family, they use it and have for years, and, too, it saves doctor bills and is not expensive.

A stitch in time saves nine, and most sickness is caused by a bad liver. A few doses of Black-Draught fixes that, and I don't see why people don't use it, and they would see as I have, what a help it would be."

IRELAND DECLARES HER INDEPENDENCE

Text of Declaration Adopted by Irish Republic Parliament—First Copy Reaches the United States.

New York, May 2.—Supreme Court Justice Cohalan received today from Sean T. O'Kelly, the representative of the Irish republic at Paris, a copy of the declaration of independence adopted by the Irish republic parliament, publication of which has been suppressed in Ireland. This is the first copy to reach this country.

"Whereas the Irish people is by right a free people, and

"Whereas for seven hundred years the Irish people has never ceased to repudiate and has repeatedly protested in arms against foreign usurpation; and

"Whereas English rule in this country, is, and always has been based upon force and fraud and maintained by military occupation against the declared will of the people; and

"Whereas the Irish republic was proclaimed in Dublin on Easter Monday, 1916, by the Irish republican army acting on behalf of the Irish people; and

"Whereas the Irish people is resolved to secure and maintain its complete independence in order to promote the common weal, to re-establish justice, to provide for future defense, to insure peace at home and good will with all nations and to constitute a national policy based upon the people's will with equal right and equal opportunity for every citizen; and

"Whereas the threshold of a new era in history the Irish electorate has in the general election of December, 1918, seized the first occasion to declare by an overwhelming majority, its firm allegiance to the Irish republic:

"Now, therefore, we, the elected representatives of the ancient Irish people in national parliament assembled, do in the name of the Irish nation ratify the establishment of the Irish republic and pledge ourselves and our people to make this declaration effective by every means at our command;

"To ordain that the elected representatives of the Irish people alone have power to make laws binding on the people of Ireland, and that the Irish parliament is the only parliament to which that people will give its allegiance;

"We solemnly declare foreign government in Ireland to be an invasion of our national right which we will never tolerate, and we demand the evacuation of our country by the English garrison;

"We claim for our national independence the recognition and support of every free nation of the world and we proclaim the independence to be a condition precedent to international peace hereafter;

"In the name of the Irish people we humbly commit our destiny to Almighty God who gave our fathers the courage and determination to persevere through long centuries of a ruthless tyranny, and strong in the justice of the cause which they have handed down to us, we ask His divine blessing on this, the last stage of the struggle which we have pledged ourselves to carry through to freedom."

WORLD LABOR PLANS PRAISED BY WILSON

Washington, May 2.—President Wilson cabled Secretary Tumulty today that in his opinion the labor program adopted as part of the treaty of peace "constitutes one of the most important achievements of the new day in which the interests of labor are to be systematically and intelligently safeguarded and promoted."

Mr. Wilson said that he personally regarded the labor program as one of the most gratifying achievements of the conference and believed no other single thing done would help more to stabilize conditions of labor throughout the world and untimately "relieve the unhappy conditions which in too many places have prevailed."

"The labor program which the conference of peace has adopted as part of the peace treaty constitutes one of the most important achievements of the new day in which the interests of labor are to be systematically and intelligently safeguarded and promoted. Amidst the multitude of other interests, this great step forward is apt to be overlooked and yet no other single thing that has been done will help more to stabilize conditions of labor throughout the world and ultimately relieve the unhappy conditions which in too many places have prevailed. Personally, I regard this as one of the most gratifying achievements of the conference."

MACON COPS INVOLVED IN ROBBERY EXPOSURE

Macon, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—The shooting to death by city detectives of Philip Lamar and the fatal wounding of Abraham Kimbrell, two young men who were in the act of holding up the proprietor of Bob Bo's store in South Macon, a couple of nights ago, has taken a new turn, with the arrest of Emmett Finney, a taxicab driver, who is alleged to have arranged the holdup for Lamar and Kimbrell. Finney is charged with robbery. His arrest was made after Kimbrell gave out a statement at the hospital implicating Finney and alleging that for weeks Finney had been begging him and Lamar to engage in automobile thefts, informing them he could get them $250 for each car they stole.

According to Kimbrell's story, Finney suggested that the Bob Bo store be robbed and he took them there in an automobile, which Kimbrell claims belonged to the city detectives.

At the time Finney was arrested he was in the office of the city detectives in consultation with them. The arrest was made by the county authorities on a warrant.

Latest developments tend to show, the county authorities claim, that Finney was working in league with the city detectives and that he deliberately framed the robbery in order to tip the city detectives off. That such was the case, is shown by the fact that city detectives knew of the contemplated robbery before it was pulled off and were aware of the exact time it was to take place. Three of the detectives had secreted themselves around the store building and when the "stick up" men entered and covered Bob Bo with their pistols, the detectives covered them with shotguns and commanded them to throw up their hands. Instead of doing so the robbers opened fire with their pistols, it is claimed. The detectives returned the fire and Lamar fell dead, while Kimbrell was shot five times and is mortally wounded, his death being only a matter of time.

The disclosure, tending to show that Finney and the detectives deliberately plotted to stage the robbery and effect the arrest of the participants has created somewhat of a sensation in Macon and further developments are looked for.

Dorsey at Waycross With Trustees Board Of Coast Exper. Station

Waycross, Ga., May 2.—(Special.) Governor Dorsey and the members of the board of trustees of the coastal plains experiment station arrived in Waycross yesterday afternoon from Sylvester and were met at the depot by a large delegation of Waycross citizens and the Waycross concert band. They were escorted to the chamber of commerce auditorium, where, under the direction of John W. McGee, proprietor of the New Willard hotel, a delightful luncheon was served. Following the luncheon the party was taken at 8:30 o'clock to the Chautauqua tent, where Governor Dorsey, by special request, made a short talk. The novel experience of riding a French war tank was enjoyed by the governor, as he was taken from the chamber of commerce to the Chautauqua on the tank that spent the day in Waycross today in the interest of the Victory Liberty loan.

The board of trustees will inspect tomorrow morning the site offered by Waycross for the location of the experiment station, after which they will go by auto to Alma, where they will be met by a committee from Baxley and carried to Appling county to make an inspection of the site offered there. It is generally conceded by those who are familiar with all the different locations offered for the station that Ware county is the logical place for it and it is believed the decision will be in favor of this county.

Proposals will be received by the City Manager and Board of City Commissioners of Griffin, Ga., until 11 o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, June 3, 1919, for grading, curbing, draining and paving certain streets with vitrified brick, concrete, bituminous concrete, patented pavement, or other pavement.

The street paving work will include approximately the excavation of 10,300 cubic yards of earth; the setting of 34,500 lineal feet of granite curb and the construction of 6,500 lineal feet of concrete curb; the laying of storm drains and the furnishing and laying of approximately 47,500 square yards of street pavement, with all the necessary work incident thereto, as called for by the plans, profiles and specifications.

Bidders must use the printed forms accompanying the specifications. A certified check payable to the city of Griffin for five (5) per cent of the amount of the bid must accompany each proposal as a guarantee that the contract will be entered into if awarded. An acceptable surety bond for one hundred (100) per cent of the contract cost will be required. A five (5) year maintenance bond for twenty-five (25) per cent of the contract cost will be required to guarantee the street pavement against defects. Payment will be in cash, or cash and notes, for eighty-five (85) per cent of completed and accepted work on monthly estimates.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the City Manager in Griffin, Ga., and copies of specifications may be obtained from Solomon-Norcross Company, Consulting Engineers, 1625 Candler Building, Atlanta, Ga., and the City Engineer, Griffin, Ga., by depositing check for ten ($10) dollars, payable to the Consulting Engineers, to be held until their return. Blue prints may be had at the cost of printing.

MRS. WINCHESTER, WHO WED IN JAIL, NOW ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Mary C. Winchester, who four months ago, was wed behind the bars to the man who shot and wounded her in the Winecoff hotel on New Year's day, Rev. Sirl Winchester, has now filed a petition for divorce, charging cruel treatment and the fact of her husband's conviction.

The divorce petition was as much of a surprise as was her marriage on that Sunday afternoon, January 5, when she visited the Tower and throwing herself in the arms of the imprisoned minister declared that she would marry and stick by him, since she believed that he did not intend to shoot her.

Since the marrige the two have never lived together, Winchester having been kept in the Tower until he was sent to the state farm to serve four years, a sentence later reduced by Judge Humphries to two years. The cruel treatment of which the bride complains took place, she says, two days after the marriage when she visited him in jail. He asked her to use money which was in her possession but which was the property of her minor children, she asserts, for employing counsel to defend him.

When she refused to do so she alleges that he cursed and abused her and told her that when he got out of jail he intended to leave her and go to California. This caused her, the petition states, much pain and suffering.

There were various rumors at the time of the extraordinary marriage, one of these being that the family thought a reconciliation between the minister and his sweetheart, a cigar stand clerk, would stop the prosecution. This, however, proved not to be the result of the wedding, as Solicitor Boykin refused to consider the request of Winchester that the charges be dismissed. The prisoner was tried and convicted on January 16.

NEXT TERM TO BREAK ALL DIVORCE RECORDS

Present indications are that the number of divorce cases coming up in the next term of court will exceed all previous records, with 50 more undefended divorce suits on the docket than for the last term, and 300 cases in all.

Judge George L. Bell will preside over what is known as Divorce week, beginning May 26. Deputy Clerk Clarke Lewis is now preparing the cases for the jury which will have to pass on one every five minutes if the docket is cleared in the week allotted.

Some of the officials have declared that the increase in divorces is an outgrowth of the war-bride habit, which was most contagious for a period. Recently the committee on church co-operation started a propaganda campaign to bring about stricter marriage laws.

The grand jury in their presentments read Wednesday also urged the legislators to enact statutes looking toward more rigid requirements for marriage, recommending the publication of marriage bans and other measures.

Suspicious Package Held Up at Americus Contained Child's Watch

Americus, Ga., May 2.—(Special.) A widespread report that a "suspicious" package bearing a Gimbel Bros.' tag, and addressed to a prominent citizen here, caused great alarm in Americus today, until it developed that Frank P. Harrold, to whom the package was addressed, expected such a package, and had been prevented from receiving it only by pressure of business engagements. D. F. Davenport postmaster here, reported the presence of the package in the mails to the department at Washington, but would not discuss it with newspaper men here. It was at first reproted that the package was addressed to Congressman Charles R. Crisp, and that he had refused to receive it, fearing it contained a bomb.

AGED WOMAN JAILED; SHOPLIFTING CHARGED

Charged with shoplifting in several of the uptown department stores, an aged woman, who gave the name of Kuy Kendall, of 23 Berden street, was arrested late Friday afternoon and is now held at the police barracks under a $1,000 bond. According to Detective Young, who made the arrest, she was caught in the act of stealing by the house detective in a local department store. When search was made by the matron at the police station, it is said, more than $100 worth of wearing apparel was found on her person. She will be given a preliminary trial in the police court Saturday afternoon.

"O-O-OH-HELL-O" TANK ARRIVES IN WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., May 2.—(Special.) The French war tank bearing the name of "O-O-Oh-Hell-O," although probably not the official name, arrived in Waycross this morning in the care of James L. Moore, of Atlanta, who is the field representative of the sixth district of the Victory Liberty Loan, and manned by R. G. Fecteau and Curtis G. Nance, of the United States Tank corps. The tank shows battle scars, there being many holes picked into its armor plate by machine gun bullets. It saw real service in the Argonne forest.

Closed steady.

New York, May 2.—An opening advance on a renewal of yesterday's buying movement was followed by reactions in the cotton market under realizing or liquidation. July contracts sold off from 27.11 to 26.57, and closed at 26.68, with the general list closing barely steady at a net decline of 20 to 24 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 15 to 27 points on relatively firm cables and bullish private advices from Liverpool reporting a very bullish sentiment there on the prospects for general trade. According to these reports Liverpool traders were favorably impressed by the British budget, and houses with English connections were good buyers here on the early advance which carried active months about 20 to 30 points above last night's closing figures, with October selling at 25.33. The weather map made a favorable showing, however, while a report issued by one of the local authorities indicated a reduction of only 11.2 per cent. in acreage and of seven per cent. in the use of fertilizer.

These features probably promoted a more optimistic view of new crop prospects, which increased the disposition to take profits on cotton that had been carried over the break of Wednesday, and the market soon turned easier. Trading was not particularly active, but there was less support after the close of Liverpool, which rendered prices sensitive to selling orders.

SHARP REACTION FOLLOWS MODERATE EARLY ADVANCE

New Orleans, May 2.—Moderate advances in the early trading in cotton today were followed by a sharp reaction under bear pressure and realizing by longs. Offerings for short account were stimulated mainly by the better tone of crop reports and the moderate reduction in acreage forecast in several private bureau reports. From a level 23 to 25 points above the close of yesterday prices fell until they were 21 to 35 points blow. Closing prices showed net losses of 9 to 35 points.

In the face of the decline in contracts, spots were quoted firm and 25 points higher, which sent middling up to 28 cents a pound. This price compared with 26.50 as the high on July and 26.05 as the low. Total sales on the spot were approximately 6,000 bales and Liverpool was mentioned as the best buyer.

The early advance was due partly to the favorable construction placed on political news and the strength of Texas spot markets yesterday. Longs commenced to take profits in a large way and traders who have been working for a reaction joined in the selling, finally creating more pressure than the market could stand. The tone on the close was steady with prices showing something of a tendency to recover on the strength of spots.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, May 2.—(Special.)—In response to better cables from abroad the market opened approximately 30 points higher, but did not hold on account of increase of offerings from the south, as well as profit-taking sales by recent buyers. It was also noted that the west was a seller on balance. We believe that for the time being, we will have scalping markets and advise purchases on any sharp reactions, as we believe ultimately cotton will sell much higher.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, May 2.—(Special.)—Although our market opened higher in response to the improvement in Liverpool, the advance was not sustained. Scattered liquidation kept appearing during the entire day, which caused the market to close near the low prices. They see nothing new in the situation, and, in fact, believe that the crop is rapidly getting over its delayed start. So far the selling has been largely liquidation of speculative accounts and not selling against spot cotton in the south. For this reason there is a scarcity of contracts, and consequently it is felt that, even though prices may decline, it is dangerous to be short of the market as long as the south refuses to sell. This selling, however, may come at any moment if the prospects of the crop continue to be favorable.

LOW GRADE RAILS SOLD UP FRIDAY

Purchase of These Furnished Feature of Markets and Made Another Turnover of Huge Dimensions.

New York, May 2.—Buying of "reorganized" or low-grade rails on a scale almost without parallel in several years was the interesting feature of today's stock market and contributed more than any other factor to the turn-over, which again attained huge dimensions.

The demand for transportations included not only the western and southwestern oil rails of recent prominence, but also encompassed many issues which have become little more than a memory to the average trader.

Gains in these secondary and dormant shares, such as Pere Marquette, Wisconsin Central, Western Pacific, Denver and Rio Grande, Chicago Great Western, Chicago and Alton, and Ontario and Western, ranged from 1 to 3 points.

Dividend paying rails and allied issues of intrinsic value were 1 to 4 points higher, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pacifics, Atchison, Lackawanna, Reading and New York Central leading that division, with partial forfeiture of gains at the close.

In general the movement was on a par with dealings of the past fortnight, the market evincing a further disposition to break away from the irregular conditions which followed the passing of the United States Steel extra dividend.

Steel yielded a fraction at the outset, but rallied almost 2 points when affiliated issues began to advance and closed at a gain of 1 point, others of the same class gaining 1 to 2 points.

Shippings, oils and motors and their specialties responded to another broad inquiry at extreme gains of 2 to 8 points. United States Rubber eclipsing all other issues in its advance of the final hour. General Cigars rose 8 points and Texas Pacific Land Trust 105 to 500.

Bonds were irregular, investments making slight gains. Liberty and foreign issues were steady to firm. Total sales, par value, aggregated $13,250,000. Old United States bonds unchanged on call.

FRESH ADVANCE IS MADE BY CORN

Chicago, May 2.—Bullish constructions placed on a speech at Duluth today by Julius H. Barnes, national wheat administrator, did a good deal to bring about a material fresh advance in the corn market here, but later the bearish aspects of the address received more careful study. Corn closed nervous, 2¼ to 3½ cents net higher, with July $1.65½ to $1.65⅞ and September $1.61⅞ to $1.62⅛. Oats finished ⅝c off to ¼c advance and provisions ranging from 5c decline to a rise of 25c.

Throughout the session dealings in corn were on a broad scale, with aggressive commission house buying most of the time until after midday, when the prevailing tendency swung toward sales to realize profits. Increased shipping demand from the east, together with shrinkage of receipts from the country counted as bullish factors, and so, too, did reports of an outbreak of Australian wheat disease in Illinois. The rapid fluctuations in the market, however, depended chiefly on the varying advices at different stages in regard to the views of Mr. Barnes about wheat and flour. Some notice late was taken of proposed imports of corn from Africa into this country.

Oats weakened as a result of word that cutting of the new crop had already begun in Texas.

Provisions were lifted by the strength of corn and hogs. Lard touched a new high price record.

Coffee.

New York, May 2.—An opening advance of 45 to 59 points in the market for coffee futures met a good deal of realizing and scattered trade selling which caused reactions of 20 to 40 points from the best during the middle of the day. Buying was encouraged by bullish reports from Brazil, however, and the market firmed up again during the afternoon on talk of an improved spot demand, covering by recent sellers, and a renewal of buying by houses with Wall street and European connections. After selling off from 17.30 to 16.90 December closed at 17.20, while July made new high ground in the late trading, selling at 18.25. The market closed at a net advance of 47 to 65 points. Closing bids, May, 18.50; July, 18.25; September, 17.77; October, 17.50; December, 17.20; January, 17.08; March, 17.02.

Spot coffee quiet but firm. Rio 7s, 19; Santos 4s, 22½@23. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were irregular, ranging from 22.30 to 22.40 for Santos 4s.

Owing to the holiday there were no official quotations from the Brazilian markets. Receipts at the two Brazilian ports were 30,000 bags; Jundiahy receipts, 22,000. Private cables report that offerings of the higher grades are scarce, with lower grades advancing.

DUN FORESEES MARKET PROSPECTS BRIGHTER

New York, May 2.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

Economic aspects, while still reflecting many contrasts of light and shade, grow steadily brighter. Some of the dark spots, as those in the iron and steel industry, remain conspicuous; but that decisive recovery from the after-war repression has occurred in some other leading branches is not longer to be doubted, and best of all, there has been a further strengthening of that confidence which is essential to sustained progress. It is not now a question, in short, as to whether conditions have improved, but only as to what lengths the commercial revival has already carried, and as to how soon the general peace time expansion which seems to be clearly portended will make its appearance. All the traditional elements of prosperity are present; economically the country has moved into a powerful position and but for the delay in the adjustment of those complex international problems which inevitably come as an aftermath of the greatest war in history, the domestic business development would probably be more far-reaching and rapid.

PUTS CROIX DE GUERRE IN EXHIBITION WINDOW

Thomasville, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—When he saw that a window in one of the principal streets here was being decorated with war trophies in preparation for the Victory Loan drive, C. A. Higgins, of this city, quietly went in and placed a Croix de Guerre, which had been presented to him, along with them, telling no one what his name was. It was afterwards found out that he was a Thomasville man, who had been a member of the Forty-third aero squadron, and had been presented wth a Croix de Guerre with a palm leaf, for personal courage at the battle of Chateau Thierry. He enlisted from Thomasville early after the United States entered the war, and was assigned to the aero squadron.

SMALL LOUISVILLE BOY KILLED BY WIRE

Louisville, Ga., May 2.—(Special.) Phillips Polhill, known to all his friends as Little Bo, while playing near his home here last evening came in contact with a heavily charged guy wire on an electric light pole and was killed instantly. A heavy rain had fallen just a few minutes before which made the strong circuit through his body. The light plant had to be shut down before his body could be removed. He was the little son of James B. Polhill and the pet of the household.

Sixth District A. & M.

Barnesville, Ga., May 2.—(Special.) The annual commencement of the Sixth District A. & M. school will begin Saturday evening with a debate between the representatives of the Henry Grady and Sidney Lanier Literary societies. Sunday morning the commencement sermon will be preached in Gordon auditorium by Dr. Lewis C. Fowler, president of Lanier university, of Atlanta. The graduating exercises will occur Tuesday evening, at which time an address will be made by Chancellor David C. Barrow, of the University of Georgia.

Professor T. O. Galloway, principal, states that the year just closing has been a highly successful one, during which the school has made splendid progress in a number of directions. The outlook is very encouraging.

Negro Shot Dead.

Savannah, Ga., May 2.—Joe Binyard, a negro, was shot to death today by a policeman and detective following an attack on the officers in the negro quarter of the city where they went to arrest a negro woman. The officers, Patrolman J. C. Colman and Detective Hodges, received cuts in the fight with Binyard.

Excitement ran high for a time, but subsided after the arrival of a detachment of police.

SPORTS ATLANTA BATTLES FOR DRAW

Ray Roberts Holds Pelicans Sixteen Innings to Tie, 2-2

Superb Hurling and Exciting Situations in the Three-hour Duel Between Two Pitchers in Second of Series.

TIME OF GAME.

Manager Charley Frank has definitely announced that all ball games in Atlanta on week days, not holidays, and where there is only one game and no double-header, will commence promptly at 4 o'clock. The Saturday games will be played at 3:30 o'clock.

Holding the spectators on the edge of their seats for sixteen sensational and nerve-racking innings, and showing Atlanta fans a brand of baseball which is seldom seen, the game between the New Orleans Pelicans and Atlanta Crackers was brought to a close by darkness at Ponce de Leon park, Friday afternoon, after Ray Roberts and Pitcher Torkelson had battled as two pitchers have never battled before on an Atlanta diamond. When Umpire Pfenninger called the game on account of darkness the score stood 2 to 2.

The Crackers should have won the game in its early stages and allowed the exicted fans to go home at the end of the first half of the ninth if not for a short spell of erratic playing, which, if not for the work of young Roberts, would have cost the encounter. Pitching a wonderful brand of ball on his own account, Torkelson, of New Orleans was never at the mercy of the Cracker bats, although Roberts had a shade the better of him when it came to sheer ability and field generalship.

Hitting Near Equal.

Thirteen hits were given up by Roberts and fourteen by Torkelson, while Torkelson allowed two stolen bases and let down on his control, hitting Bratchi twice. Robertson had perfect control at all times, and although he allowed two steals and three men to walk, there was hardly an inning when he wasn't capable of placing the sphere where Neiderkorn called for it.

In the tenth, twelfth, fourteenth and fifteenth innings the Crackers failed to hit although every other inning registered one bingle for the Frankmen and sometimes more. Roberts held the Pelicans hitless for four innings and in the other frames their hits were more scattered than were those of the Crackers.

The first score of the game was made by Daniels, Pelican rightfielder, who was allowed to walk in the second by Roberts. Daubert followed Daniels and sacrificed, Daniels taking second and when Kitchens was out on a fielder's choice at first, Daniels was caught in a chase between second and third, scoring when Christenbury threw the ball away.

The Cracker hitting machine couldn't get to going until the sixth inning, when the first Atlanta score was made. Christenbury lead off with a single over second and immediately pilfered two bases, scoring when Gooch hit a hot one through short.

Exciting and complicated situations continued to arise for both sides during the next seven innings, while, by sheer work and ability, both hurlers kept the opposition scoreless. In the fourth inning the Crackers had two men on the bags with one out, and yet were unable to go far enough to bring in another tally.

Herndon led off in the seventh inning with a double, but was forced at second by Moore. Neiderkorn flew out to center, and Roberts followed with a strikeout. King hit a beautiful triple in the eigtth inning, with one out, but the next two batters up went down and failed to bring the little shortstop in.

Both Teams Score.

After going from the sixth to the thirteenth inning, with the score 1 and 1, the Pelicans tallied their second marker in the first of the thirteenth, to be followed immediately by the second score for the Crackers in the last of the same inning.

Knaupp was safe on first by an error on the part of King in the first of the thirteenth. He advanced on a sacrifice by Stansbury, and scored when the next two batters, Sullivan and DeBerry, singled, the first through short and the second to left field.

Bratchi took first when hit by a pitched ball in the last of the thirteenth; advanced on the return of a long fly to right, and scored when Sammy Mayer hit a long one to center for a safety.

When Dan Pfenninger called the game in the sixteenth it looked as if there would be sixteen more innings before either side would get enough of an advantage to win. Both pitchers were going strong and were fighting just as hard as they had been at the start of the game, while their teammates were giving them excellent support.

Scrappy Moore, at third, and Bratchi, ni left, were the fielders of the day. No less than five pop-ups, the majority of them hard chances, were sent over the little third baseman's head, and he missed none of them, while Bratchi came clear in to shortstop on the run and captured what should have been a hit.

Herndon, King and Mayer were the Cracker stars with the willow, King with a triple, Herndon with a double and Mayer with three hits out of five times at bat.

Nashville 9, Memphis 4.

Memphis, May 2.—Nashville's batting rally in the first inning not only retired Foster, who was replaced by Barger, but won the game for the visitors. Griffin, who hit a home run for the locals in the third inning with two out and bases full, was responsible for Memphis' only runs, the score ending 9 to 4. The hard hitting of Street, for Nashville, who made four hits out of five times up and scored on a home run, featured the visitors' playing.

"BOY HOWDY!"
By W. Leslie Rawlings

Somebody's always taking the joy out of life, but as they say in France "C'est la guerre", and business is business. The reason for this lament is that the Crackers leave town tonight to be gone a whole week, while time will drag and drag until their return. We are going to get a chance now to see how the boys do away from their own back yard, although it is certain that unless somebody leaves the gate open they will come home with as good a record as they leave.

"Kid" Elberfeld is always causing somebody trouble, but the trouble he gives to other folks isn't half as bad as that he dishes out to himself.

They have to hand it to us. First, Sammy Nicklin, then Charley Colsson and now Johnny Dobbs admits that Atlanta has a ball team fit to contend for anybody's pennant.

The old place ain't a bit like it use to be. In the olden days all the decorations you could find around a newspaper office were cigar and cigarette butts and empty glasses. Now the typewriters are bedecked with pink ribbons; some returning lad, who left the sheet to write a thesis on the map of Kaiser Bill, finds a powder puff in his desk, or a vanity case in one of his pigeon holes, and sob sisters are so thick you can't cuss a single note. Oh, war, where is thy sting?

Reports are received to the effect that five of the local preparatory camp followers invaded the sporting editor's offices of one of the afternoon papers and attempted to beat up the sporting editor's assistant on account of alleged injury in the paper. That's a good way for the preparatory schools to get in bad, not only in a sporting line, but in others. Those things aren't being done these days.

If Lee Gooch's hopefuls at Trinity college absorb any of the teachings of their former coach, they should give Georgia a battle in the event the Red and Black accepts Trinity's challenge for a game.

"Doc" Neiderkorn is sure hitting the ball this year and backing up the pitchers in the most approved stye. "Doc's" peg to second is getting more like that of Cy Perkins every day and, by the end of the season, Frank had better put log chains on him, or he won't be available again for the Southern league.

Cotton Knaupp is back to see us with New Orleans. Cotton is a good ball player, and has a host of friends in this city.

Al Brennan reports that Mrs. Brennan will join him in Atlanta following the return of the club from the Mobile and New Orleans visits.

Umpires are supposed to be good judges of pitchers and, from what the veteran, Dan Pfenninger, has to say about one Keller Hasty, the youngster is going to set the baseball world afire when he has gained a few more months' experience. Dan says Keller has as much stuff as any young pitcher he has ever seen on the mound.

The sporting editors of Atlanta respectfully request that the Crackers get as many runs and hits against the teams they play at home as possible. There's a telegraph operator who sits in the press box and, every time the Crackers score, he feels so good he invites the crowd to have a drink. Of course his invitation is always accepted, so hit 'em up, Crackers.

There's one consolation in going to Poncey: You don't have to pay the new tax on drinks there. There's no worry over where you put that elusive penny in Frank's ball yard, because that matter has already been taken care of in order that the fans will not have any weighty subjects to think of while enjoying a game.

CAMP GORDON WILL BATTLE FORT SUNDAY

Lieutenant H. Maloney, acting advisor of Camp Gordon sports, announced Friday that the fast Fort McPherson team will meet the Camp Gordon squad, at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon on the big diamond which occupies a portion of Sage field. He also announced that the game and camp will be thrown open to the public, and a large crowd of baseball fans in the city is expected to be in attendance.

Both of the two posts, which will battle Sunday, have one baseball league each, and the regular players for the team to represent the camps is picked from the best men in the league.

Smith, who, it is reported, will join the Indianapolis American association as soon as he receives his discharge, and who is famous by his deep drop, will work in the box for the Gordon squad, while Hollnigsworth, who has also played professional ball, will probably oppose him for Fort McPherson.

Cubs 4, Pirates 2.

Pittsburg, May 2.—Chicago defeated Pittsburg in the opening game here today by a score of 4 to 2, each side using three pitchers. Mayer had his hand split by a liner from Hollocher's bat in the first inning and gave way to Evans, whose wildness in the fourth and fifth innings, coupled with timely hitting by the visitors scored all their runs. Evans gave way to a pinch hitter in the eighth inning, and Adams pitched the last. Tyler hurt his side in pitching to Terry in the fifth inning, and gave way to Martin, who allowed the locals two runs while on the rubber. When the first man up tripled off him in the sixth he was replaced by Douglass, who prevented further scoring.

Tigers 14, Indians 6.

Cleveland, May 2.—Detroit defeated Cleveland again today, the score being 14 to 6. Pitcher Bagby was forced to retire with a strained side when in the lead and each of his successors had a bad inning. Cleveland drove James from the box, but could not overcome Detroit's lead. Veach returned to the Detroit team and made two singles, a double and a triple in four times at bat, driving in three runs and scoring two.

Browns 11, White Sox 4.

Chicago, May 2.—St. Louis inaugurated the American league season here today with an 11 to 4 victory over the White Sox. Gallia held the home team to five hits, while the Browns batted three Sox pitchers for sixteen hits, seven of them for two bases. The opening day ceremonies were featured by the presence of a squad of marines, who hoisted a new United States flag, assisted by Eddie Collins, captain of the White Sox, who enlisted in the marine corps at the end of last season.

Philadelphia, May 2.—Washington beat Philadelphia 7 to 2 in the opening game of the American league here today. A reception to Admiral Sims in connection with the Liberty Loan campaign caused the cancellation of the exercises originally intended to open the local season. Shaw was largely responsible for the Senators' triumph. In his first two times at bat he sent the ball into the left field bleachers for home runs. He held Philadelphia to a single by Thomas up to the fifth inning, but in the sixth they bunched four singles and with Dugan's hit to center the Athletics scored two runs. Johnson was then substituted and held the locals.

ALL SET FOR BIG FIELD MEET AT TECH

Big Intercollegiate Preliminaries Run Off

All Clear for Finals at Tech This Afternoon. Many Schools Qualify for Different Events.

The preliminaries in the big intercollegiate track and field meet at Georgia Tech Friday afternoon afforded good entertainment and promised better for the finals Saturday afternoon. Sewanee, Tech, Mississippi and Vanderbilt ran a close race for first place in qualifying men for the final stage of the meet Saturday. Sewanee qualified thirteen men, Tech and Mississippi each qualified twelve, and Vanderbilt qualified nine.

Among the other colleges, Clemson qualified seven, Auburn six, Georgia and Davison two, and Alabama and Emory one each.

Fields Were Busy.

Grant field presented a busy scene. The 100-yard lines were laid off on the west reach of the track, and the big triangular sector of the discus throwing was laid off in the middle of the field. Some hundred and fifty muscular gentlemen gravitated from one spot to another in the field, as interest was centered on the pole vault or the low hurdles or the quarter. A massager was busy under the shade of the oaks in the corner of the field, and a huge white and gold megaphone was in the hands and at the mouth of "Shorty" Vickers, the announcer.

In the 100-yard dash, those qualifying were: Smith, of Clemson; Ellis, of Mississippi; McDonald, of Vanderbilt; Voight, of Clemson; Treleaven, of Mississippi; Nance, of Vanderbilt; Holst, of Tech; Babcock, of Emory; Weidenberg, of Auburn; DeJarnettte, of Oglethorpe; Scarboro, of Tech, and Reid, of Auburn.

In the 220-yard dash, those qualifying were: Cornwell, of Clemson; Brice, of Davison; Holst, of Tech; Smith, of Clemson; Ellis, of Mississippi; Murrey, of Davidson; Treleaven, of Mississippi; Nance, of Vanderbilt; Caughlin, of Sewanee; Baskin, of Mississippi; Voight, of Clemson, and Barge, of Tech.

Vault Ten Feet.

In the pole vault there qualified: Dodenhoff, of Tech; Boggs, of Clemson; Estes, of Sewanee; Martin, of Auburn; Nelson, of Mississippi, and Nance, of Vanderbilt. The distance reached was 10 feet.

In the high hurdles those qualifying were: Harper, of Sewanee; Plyler, of Mississippi; Hammond, of Sewanee; Montgomery, of Auburn; Nance, of Vanderbilt, and Crymble, of Tech, the best time made being 16 seconds.

In the 440-yard run those qualifying were: Baskin, of Mississippi; Caughlin, of Sewanee; Dearborn, of Sewanee; Early, of Vanderbilt; Vernon, of Mississippi; McLellan, of Tech; Barge, of Tech; Conyers, of Vanderbilt, and Dowell, of Auburn. The best time made was 54 1-5 seconds.

In the broad jump there qualified: Montgomery, of Alabama; Weidenber, of Auburn; Carter, of Clemson; Hammond, of Sewanee, and Scarboro, of Tech. The best distance made was 20 feet, 10½ inches, by Hammond, of Sewanee.

In the low hurdles those qualifying were: Austin, of Georgia; Bossett, of Mississippi; Hammond, of Sewanee; Harper, of Sewanee; Nance, of Vanderbilt, and Fields, of Tech. The best time made was 26 seconds.

In the shot-put there qualified: Rigdon, of Georgia; Williford, of Mississippi; Burton, of Sewanee; Guerry, of Sewanee, and Fincher, of Tech. The best distance made was 38 feet, 7 inches, by Rigdon.

In the discus those qualifying were: Farley, of Vanderbilt; Granger, of Tech; Williford, of Mississippi; Satterlee, of Sewanee, and Banker, of Sewanee. The best distance made was 107 feet 9 inches, by Earley.

Finals This Afternoon.

Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, the finals in these events will be run and, in addition, there will be the high jump, the half mile, the medley relay race and the mile run. In addition to all this, the interscholastic events, taken part in by Marist college, the Georgia Military academy, the Tech High and the Boys' High, will include the 50-yard dash, the hundred-yard dash, the 2:20 and a medley relay race.

The number of entrants in the collegiate events varies from seventeen to thirty-seven, and the number of entrants in the scholastic events varies from twelve to seventeen.

The officials Friday afternoon were: Clerk of the course, R. C. Cubbon, of Brown university; assistant clerk, Hugh McDowell, of Sewanee; track judges, O. E. Warfield, of Ohio State university; W. J. Sandford, Jr., of Kentucky State, and S. M. Hastings, of Tech High. The chief scorer was F. C. Owens, of Tech. The starter was Walter I. Hanson, associate camp athletic officer at Camp Gordon. The timers were J. W. Weaver and H. H. McLees, both of Camp Gordon. The field judges were E. M. Mowbray and E. L. Secrest. J. Hume McDonald, the boxing instructor in R. O. T. C. colleges in the southwest, was present and acted as chief inspector in the events of the afternoon.

All officials are urgently requested to meet Bob C. Cubbon, the clerk of course, at the Tech Y. M. C. A. at 2:15 sharp. He states that a shortage of officials slowed up the program Friday, and the events must go off fast this afternoon.

HERE IS ONE THING THAT IS ABSOLUTELY IMPOSSIBLE

Rheumatism Has Never Been Cured by Liniments or Lotions, and Never Will Be.

You never knew of Rheumatism—that most painful source of suffering—being cured by liniments, lotions or other external applications. And you will never see but temporary relief afforded by such makeshifts.

But why be satisfied with temporary relief from the pangs of pain which are sure to return with increased severity, when there is permanent relief within your reach? Science has proven that Rheumatism is a disordered condition of the blood. How then, can satisfactory results be expected from any treatment that does not reach the blood, the seat of the trouble, and rid the system of the cause of the disease? S. S. S. is one blood remedy that has for more than fifty years been giving relief to even the most aggravated and stubborn cases of Rheumatism. It cleanses and purifies the blood by routing out all traces of disease. The experience of others who have taken S. S. S. will convince you that it will promptly reach your case. You can obtain this valuable remedy at any drug store.

A valuable book on Rheumatism and its treatment, together with expert medical advice about your own individual case, will be sent absolutely free. Write to-day to Medical Department, Swift Specific Co., 250 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga. —(adv.)

PREVENT URIC ACID

By keeping the kidneys healthy and active with an occasional dose of JACOBS' LIVER SALT.

If your kidneys are overworked and sluggish, and fail to properly filter the blood of waste and acid, the uric acid settles in the blood and poisons the entire system. Rheumatism is the natural result.

If you will secure a bottle of JACOBS' LIVER SALT from your druggist, and take two teaspoonfuls in a glass of hot water before breakfast, it will flush the alimentary canal, stimulate your liver and kidneys, and keep your entire system pure and clean.

Generous packages at 35c and 75c. If your druggist can't supply you, we will send postpaid.

FRANKMEN GO TO MOBILE FOR SERIES AFTER GAME HERE

Following their last New Orleans game this afternoon the Crackers will board a train for Mobile, where they will play the Bears a second series of four games, leaving there Wednesday night and playing the Pelicans in New Orleans Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The Frankmen will be at home again next Monday, May 12, with Birmingham.

The Crackers have gone mighty well at home and their supporters are naturally anxious to see how they are going to hold up on a road trip, where most of them will be on entirely strange diamonds and under different conditions from the ones surrounding them at home.

Frank is confident his club will go just as good on the road as it has in its own back lot and great reports will be expected from Mobile and New Orleans.

JUNIOR SMITHIES LOST FAST AFFAIR TO MARIST CADETS

Eckford, for Marist, secured two safeties, one a double and the second being good for three bags. Pickett knocked a home run, the only one of the afternoon in either of the two games.

Gaston, besides knocking a triple to the flagpole, played good ball for the losers on the initial sack, and did his best to keep his rivals from bringing home the bacon.

Cole, behind the plate for the losers, also starred.

COMMODORE FEDS PLAY TECH SCRUBS SATURDAY

An exceptionally hot encounter is promised Atlanta amateur fans Saturday afternoon, when the fast Georgia Tech Reserves journey out for a nine-inning go with the swift Commodore Feds, the game to be played on Hyde park, and to start at 1:30 p. m., in order that the visitors may be given an opportunity of returning to the city before dusk.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand at the game, since the last meeting of these two aggregations resulted in a 0 to 0 score after having been fought for ten innings. The battle is open to the public, and a portion of the viewing stand will be reserved for any Atlantans who will be in attendance.

Ivy Griffin, Charley Frank's other infielder, has reported, and is at present busily engaged in getting in condition in order to get in the game while the Crackers are going as they should. Griffin is just out of the army and states that he is mighty anxious to get to playing ball, but wants time to limber up before getting in a real gmae.

As soon as Griffin gets in condition there is a probability of Frank making a shift, placing Griffin on first, Mayer in center field and allowing Herndon to proceed to Charlotte, where he is scheduled to manage the Charlotte club, but fans are in hopes that the Atlanta pilot will see fit to hold Herndon in some capacity, as he is one of the best prospects on the team.

Rhymes of the Diamond

By GEORGE J. MORIARTY.

Oh, Kaiser Bill, you had to quit that crooked path to fame. Some lads went over just to hit and bust up your ball game. They had no fear, they had no dread when they stood at the plate. No sporting column ever said, "They swung just like a gate." Your pitchers didn't have the stuff, you couldn't win the cup. Your Berthas hadn't smoke enough when those Sam lads came up. They found the hitting game a cinch; they never pulled a bone. They were the best lads in a pinch the world has ever known. Those Sammy lads were not afraid of ruthless pitching tricks. Remember how their granddads played way back in '76? When Belgium's team first waved their bats, you gave them not a chance. You threw the bean-ball at their hats; you dusted off brave France. You threw the rule book in the dump; fair play would halt your game. In vain you tried to kill the ump, though Justice is his name. Your curves and tricks fooled Russia's nine—they swung like Casey did. But Uncle Sam's team was no shine—you found it out, old kid. They smashed terrific liners, Bill, no Texas leaguers fell. They stepped into the apple till they heard the victory yell. They piled up hits and runs galore upon your war-torn lot, and when you lamped the final score, you said more than "Mein Gott!" Oh, Kaiser Bill, you planned that scheme while struggling with fatigue—you must have thought our Sammy team played in the Federal league."

BOYS' HIGH SWAMPS FAST FULTONITES IN FRIDAY'S SCRAP

By slugging the ball to all corners of the field and hammering in enough runs to put the game on ice in the sixth inning, the fast Boys' High aggregation, leader of the 1919 prep pennant race, swamped the swift Fultonites, who have been under the tutorage of Addison Brennan, the Cracker marvel hurler, for the past few weeks, Friday afternoon at Piedmont Park, the final score being 12 to 6 for the fray.

In all six batsmen received extra bases, three being marked up with doubles and three with triples.

Weyman Leftwich, first man up for Fulton High in the first, was given a base on balls. Stephenson, second man, was safe on the initial sack when "Baby" Roane, the Gilmerites' speedy third baseman, dropped a hot grounder along the first base line. Minhinnitt singled to left, scoring Leftwich, Stephenson taking third on the play. Mooty attempted to score Stephenson by a long sacrifice fly, but Eddie Morris by a spectacular catch, held the Fulton man on third. Stephenson scored on a fielders' choice to Sparks.

In the Boys' High half of the inning, the Fultonites looked like a million dollars, but in the second, the winners scored a run on two hits and an error. They repeated their scoring in the third, sending in two counters on two hits, a sacrifice and an error. They again scored in the fifth, crossing the platter twice.

It happened that Mooty, owing to a sore arm, due to the recent games which he has worked in, was shifted to second in the sixth, Stephenson replacing Yeager behind the platter, Mims being sent from the bench to the outfield, while Laird went into the box.

The sixth frame brought forth a heavy attack of the slugging fever to the Gilmerites and they were responsible for six hits for a half dozen runs.

In the eighth, the Fulton boys began a batting rally, scoring four runs on four hits, one a double and an error on the part of Roane. The winners scored two more tallies in their half of the seventh on two hits and an error.

For the losers, Travis Stephenson was the shining light with three singles and a triple out of five times up. Minhinnitt secured only two singles out of five chances, still his safeties came at such times when they aided his team very much.

The game was scheduled to have been played Tuesday, but was rained out and postponed until Friday.

Boys' High ....012 016 20x—12
Fulton High ....200 000 040— 6

Summary—Two-base hits, Laird, Jake Morris 2; three-base hits, Roane, Vogt, Stephenson; sacrifice hit, J. Morris; stolen bases, Vogt, Roane, J. Morris, E. Morris 2. Umpire, Griffin.

SPORTOGRAPHY

By Gravy.

Bob Shawkey is having no trouble with his arm this spring and he is confident that he will win more than twenty games during the season just opened.

Since Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane in his first bout since re-entering the ring had a narrow escape from being knocked out by Frankie Brown, he has had no trouble getting all the matches he can attend to. Practically every boxer in the country who can weigh in under 130 pounds is hot on the trail of the supposedly tottering champion for a match for the title. The latest to enter the lists of contenders for Kilbane's title is Benny Valgar. Whether the latter is really of championship caliber is a matter of doubt, but he will probably get the first chance when Kilbane gets ready to risk his title.

Tomorrow, according to the articles of agreement for the championship fight between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey, Tex Rickard, promoter of the big battle, must name the place where the contest is to be staged. The time is already set —July 4—and the money has already been posted, Willard having put up a $10,000 forfeit, while Rickard has produced $15,000 as a guaranty that the fight will take place. As to the scene of the contest, several places are available, notably in Nevada and Idaho, where long fights have been legalized. Rickard is considering plans for an amphitheater that will hold 50,000 persons, it is said. Meanwhile, Willard is training steadily at his ranch, taking road runs and indulging in light sparring. The big champion has also put himself on a special diet with the idea of gradually reducing weight. Beginning about the middle of May, Willard plans to increase his labors, so that by the time he enters the ring he will weigh not more than 245 pounds. Dempsey will not start vigorous training until the first of June, as he believes that four weeks of strenuous training work will prove sufficient.

Anniversary of First Epsom Derby.

Tomorrow will be the 139th anniversary of the first running of the famous English Derby, the pioneer of all thoroughbred classics. It was on May 4, 1780, that Sir Charles Bunbury's Diomod beat Major Kelly's Eclipse and seven other horses. It was a mile race and at the time attracted little attention. The stakes were 1,025 guineas, or $5,125, although some authorities place the stakes at $9,000. The Earl of Derby instituted the stakes, in order to promote the breeding of horses, and thereby "hangs an tale."

Captain John Burgoyne—who later surrendered to the American army at Saratoga—had wooed and won the heart of the beautiful Lady Charlotte Stanley, daughter of the Earl of Derby, and, lacking the consent of the latter, the pair eloped and were married. Captain Burgoyne made a nest for his bride on an estate which is now the scene of the famous Epsom Downs race course. The dashing captain found himself unable to pay for the property and Mrs. Burgoyne appealed to her father for assistance. The earl forgave the runaways and purchased the estate, turning part of it into the track where the Derby was inagurated in 1780.

Before the war Derby day, on which the famous races were run, was a holiday in London and vicinity and everybody with the price went to Epsom Downs. Parliament took a recess on the day of the race, and many business houses closed their doors. Kings and princes and millionaires from America jostled in the great crowd with the touts and hawkers, and titled ladies touched elbows with the lowest women of London town. So tremendous was the concourse of humanity in former days that perhaps not one in a hundred really saw the race, but that did not prevent a considerable portion of London's population from going to Epsom Downs each year. It was the fashionable thing to do, and everybody wanted to be fashionable.

Since the Derby was founded by Edward Stanley the twelfth Earl of Derby, three nations have successfully challenged English horses and won the classic—France, Hungary and the United States. King Edward had three victories to his credit, a record surpassed only by the Duke of Westminster and Sir John Hawley, each of whom won the Derby four times.

Doing His Bit.

(From The Forecast.)

"I hails him and wants to know what the big idea is.

"'Taint nawthin' wrong,' he comes back. 'I just take her down to the newspaper office every day to see if you've got killed or not.'"

MATT HINKEL.

Friends of Matt Hinkel, of Cleveland, Ohio, one of the most famous of western sportsmen, say he is likely to be the third man in the ring when Willard and Dempsey square off for their championship battle on July 4. Fistic experts and boxing enthusiasts everywhere in this broad land have seconded the nomination on the ground that there is no more capable arbitrator in this country than Matt Hinkel.

TEX RICKARD CONSIDERS TOLEDO FOR BIG MATCH

Cleveland, Ohio, May 2.—Toledo, Ohio, is being considered as the possible site for the championship heavyweight boxing contest on July 4 between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey, according to Tex Rickard, promoter of the contest, who was here tonight conferring with Mat Hinkel and others regarding the selection of the Ohio city to stage the contest.

Rickard, who returns to Toledo tomorrow, said he probably would name the city by Monday next.

PEOPLE OF BULGARIA FORCED INTO THE WAR

New York, May 2.—Dominic I. Murphy, who accompanied the Bulgarian peace plenipotentiaries from Sofia to Saloniki to arrange the armistice there, and who was ordered by the state department to return to Sofia, arrived here today on the steamship Nieuw Amsterdam.

Mr. Murphy, who has been consul general at Sofia for four years, was not criticised for his action, but the state department made it clear last September that he was without instructions to participate in the negotiations. It was reported in February that he had been instructed to return to Washington. On his arrival here today he did not discuss this situation.

The Bulgarians were much misunderstood, Mr. Murphy said. "The country was forced into the war by its rulers," he added. "The people did not want to fight. They have always had a friendly feeling toward the entente and also for the United States. The feeling of hatred for the Turks is widespread."

Here We Rest.

(From The Providence Journal.)

That is the motto of the state of Alabama—seemingly a strange motto for any state to adopt. It probably represents the exclamation of some pioneer band who, crossing the wilderness, decided that they would look no farther for a place of settlement.

It is a motto which, rightly adapted, we can all of us turn to profit in our daily lives. Most of us worry about the future. We conjure up troubles. We anticipate anxieties. We harbor irritations and resentments. We rob ourselves of our present joy by regrets for the past or fear for the years to come. It would be better if we made a bargain with our eager minds and said: "Here we rest."

The present at any rate is secure. The moment belongs to us. No one can deprive us of the Here and Now. And, between us and the griefs that the imagination can only too easily create, marvellous barriers may erect themselves in time to preserve for us our existing safety and contentment.

We should take counsel of our hopes rather than our fears. The universe is built on hope. It swings through its wonderful motions and processes unafraid. No adventure daunts it. No apprehension holds it back. It goes its measureless journeys in absolute poise. While it moves it is still at rest.

Atlantans Win Hard-Fought Encounter and Narrow Finals in S. I. A. A. Championship Race.

Memphis, Tenn., May 2.—(Special.)—Georgia Tech won the first game of the series today from Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical college, 6 to 2. The visitors put up a better all round game, especially in the field, and deserved to win.

The Maroons had an off day and played a ragged game in the field. Russell, who was tried out in the box today for the first time, pitched a very creditable game and, with better support, would have given the visitors a battle, as none of their runs off him were earned. He gave way to a pinch hitter in the eighth inning and White finished the game.

Asbury, for Georgia Tech, had the maroons guessing all through the first part of the game. In the seventh inning, however, A. & M. started a rally, but a double play by the visitors in field on Lee's grounder to second base broke up a promising start for some scores.

In the next inning, however, A. & M. scored twice on singles by Critz and Perry. A throw from the outfield to catch Critz at the plate got by the catcher and Perry went to third, scoring from there on a wild pitch. Murphy relieved Asbury in the last inning and started off by hitting Lee, the first man up. He tightened up, however, and retired the next three men.

Suffered With Rheumatism of Her Hip.

Prescription C-2223 Gave Relief Where Others Had Failed.

"My wife has been suffering with rheumatism of the hip for some time and after trying a number of remedies without success, I saw Prescription C-2223 advertised and had it recommended to me. After using one large bottle, my wife is able to be up and is now doing her own housework, which she was not able to do before taking this medicine. I think Prescription C-2223 a wonderful medicine and want to recommend it to every one suffering with rheumatism. I would be glad to have any one ask me about it."

Prescription C-2223 is giving relief to hundreds every day. If you suffer with rheumatism, lumbago, gout, lame back, and similar troubles, go to your druggist today and buy a $1.50 bottle of Prescription C-2223 and a box of 2223 Liver Pills. Your money back if you are not satisfied.

In the Churches

FIRST CHRISTIAN.

"So Many Beds In the Ward" will be the subject of Dr. L. O. Bricker's sermon at the First Christian church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. "But the Spirit Suffered Us Not" will be the subject of the evening sermon at 8 o'clock. Bible school at 9:30. Christian Endeavor meeting at 7 p. m.

The musical program for the First Christian church follows:

Morning—Organ Prelude (Faulkes). Anthem, "I Waited for the Lord" (Mendelssohn). Offertory, "Jerusalem the Golden" (Rubinstein), Mrs. Martin and choir. Organ Postlude (Whiting).

Night—Organ Prelude (Hosmer). Anthem, "Come Unto Me" (Coenen), Mr. Aldred and choir. Offertory, "More Love to Thee" (Reed). Organ Postlude (Parker).

The following are the members of their choir: Soprano, Mrs. A. H. Martin; alto, Mrs. LeRoy Webb; tenor, Clarence Aldred; bass, Ernest Waitt; organist and director, Miss Clementine MacGregor.

LIBERAL CHRISTIAN.

The Liberal Christian church, 301 West Peachtree street, will tomorrow observe the centennial of Dr. W. E. Channing's epoch-making sermon delivered in Baltimore May 5, 1819. The subject of the sermon by Rev. G. I. Keirn, D. D., will be "Channing As a Leader of the World's Religious Thought and Life." The service will be at 11 o'clock.

CHURCH OF CHRIST.

West End Avenue: Bible study, at 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., by S. H. Hall; communion and fellowship at 11:45 a. m.

South Pryor-Vassar Streets: Bible study at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. by John A. Klingman; communion and fellowship, 11:45 a. m.

East Point: Bible study at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. by R. R. Brooks. Communion and fellowship, 11:45 a. m.

CENTRAL CONGREGATIONAL.

All Congregationalists in the city will be interested in the baccalaureate sermon of the Atlanta Theological seminary, which will be delivered by its president, Rev. Frank E. Jenkins, D. D., at the morning hour of worship. Dr. Jenkins was pastor of the Central church for a period of years and he will be welcomed by his many friends. His theme will be "Leadership of Democracy." The evening hour of worship, resumed recently, is proving to be a unique privilege under the direction of Rev. George Plumer Merrill, the new pastor. This week the call to worship consists of three organ numbers played by Miss M. Ethel Beyer—finale by Merkel, "Romanza" by Lemare and melody in E by Rachmaninoff. The "Service Song Book," known by all the government troops, is used for congregational singing. The series of sermons on "Degrees of Faith" and the pulpit prelude on "Our Atlanta" are eagerly listened to. "Our Atlanta Newspapers" is the prelude theme this week and Miss Edith McCool sings Hammond's "Behold the Master Passeth By."

LATTER DAY SAINTS.

Services will be held tomorrow at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 350 Woodward avenue, as follows: Sunday school at 10 a. m. Preaching service at 11:30 a. m. and a special gospel service at 8 p. m. Elder S. McKenney, of Salt Lake City, formerly of Atlanta, will be the principal speaker.

ENGLISH LUTHERAN.

At the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, corner Trinity avenue and Capitol place, services will be held at 11 o'clock on Sunday morning and at 8 o'clock on Sunday evening. Sunday school meets at 9:45.

TRINITY METHODIST.

Dr. S. R. Belk will preach at Trinity Methodist church Sunday at 11 a. m. on "The Church's Opportunity," and at 8 p. m. the large chorus choir will render a sacred song service. Professor Ben J. Potter, is the new organist and choirmaster. A fine program has been prepared. The Sunday school will meet at 10 a. m. under W. C. Mansfield. The Sunday school is making great progress.

From 7:30 to 8 o'clock Sunday night, preceding the musical service, Ben J. Potter, associate of the Royal College of Organists of London, England, will play the following program on the fine organ in Trinity Methodist church:

Prelude in C sharp minor (Rachmaninoff). "Allegro Scherzando" (Gordon B. Nevin). "Military March" in D (Schubert). "Traumeri and Romance" (Schumann). Numbers 1, 3 and 4 are arranged for the organ by Mr. Potter.

The recital will last half an hour and at 8 p. m. the choir of Trinity will render the following program under the direction of Mr. Potter:

Anthem, "Arise, Shine" (Dudley Buck). Soloist, Mr. Sutton. Anthem, "Behold the Days Come" (H. H. Woodward). Solo and chorus. Anthem, "Lovely Appear" (from Gounod's "Redemption). Soloist, Mrs. Belter. Organ solo, "Serenata" (Moskowski). Vocal solo, "Hosannah" (Granier), Mrs. Edwards. Anthem, "God Hath Appointed a Day" (Tours). "The Star Spangled Banner."

ST. PAUL METHODIST.

The revival at St. Paul church closes with the Sunday night service one of the most remarkable services ever held at this church. There have been about 100 additions to the church. Great crowds have attended these services by Rev. Arthur J. Moore. Dr. Moore is one of the most eloquent preachers who has held services in Atlanta.

'DOUGHBOY' AND 'TAR' NOT TO LACK FOR JOBS

New York, May 2.—Notwithstanding the return of the men of the American expeditionary force the country will be confronted by a shortage of labor by 1920 in the opinion, expressed here today, of Colonel Arthur Woods, special assistant to the secretary of war.

Basing his conviction both on his own investigation of the industrial situation from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic seaboard and as far south as Baltimore, and on reports made to him here today by members of the board of directors of the National Association of Employment Managers, Colonel Woods declared that employers everywhere were showing a disposition to give jobs to discharged soldiers and sailors and that the time was approaching when every man released from service would be at work and there would be positions unfilled.

Reports made by the employment managers, whom Colonel Woods addressed at a meeting here, showed that already there are labor shortages at a number of great industrial centers, including Detroit and Flint, Mich., and Akron, Ohio, and that a labor shortage is in sight in Cleveland.

Colonel Woods went to the meeting today to seek the co-operation of the employment managers and found them eager to employ the "doughboy" and "tar" returning to civil life. He was informed by A. L. Rectanus, Youngstown, Ohio, employment manager of the American Roller Mill company, president of the association, that the employment managers assembled represented the sentiment of the vast majority of American employers. It is estimated these employers have as many as 10,000,000 men under them. Colonel Woods said after the meeting:

"Everyone with whom I talked said that the 'best buy' for an employer was a discharged soldier in his employ. I asked the different employment managers what their experiences had been.

"E. C. W. Parker, of Chicago, secretary of the association and president of the Chicago branch, representing such firms as Sears-Roebuck, International Harvester and Western Electric, said they were taking all soldiers back and that the employment managers in that neighborhood regarded the returned soldier as a real asset.

"Ralph Wells, employment manager of the DuPont companies, said these companies are absolutely committed to the policy of taking back all soldiers and sailors."

Colonel Woods said similar reports were made from all industrial centers.

BLOODY RIOT CAUSED BY HIGH LIVING COST

Madrid, May 2.—Ten persons were killed, sixteen seriously injured and a large number slightly wounded in disorders arising from demonstrations of protest against the high cost of living in the province of Tarancon on April 28.

There were several clashes between gendarmes and civilians on the previous day, and in the evening the governor decided to reduce the cost of food 25 per cent. The following day, however, the merchants were selling provisions at the old prices. Crowds pillaged the stores. They were charged by gendarmes and revolver shots were exchanged. The disorders continued into the night, with numerous violent street battles between the gendarmes and the public.

POSTOFFICE WORKERS MEET IN CHATTANOOGA

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 2.—Two hundred postal employees from Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia and Mississippi will hold a convention here next Sunday for the purpose of discussing legislation for making the salaries paid during the war permanent.

Chairman John A. Moon, of the committee on postoffices and post roads, of the house of representatives, has been invited to appear before the convention and express his views on the question of salaries for postal employees. All branches of the postal service will be represented at the convention and other matters affecting the service will be considered.

PARIS CROWDS FOUGHT POLICE

Paris, May 2.—Two hundred and fifty policemen were hurt and one sergeant was stabbed during yesterday's May-day disorders, according to announcement made by the prefecture of police at midnight. Apparently only one person was killed, a youth named Lorne, who, according to reports not yet authenticated, was struck by several revolver bullets. The person who fired the shots is said to have been arrested, but his identity has not been established. One hundred and fifty persons were arrested during the demonstrations. American ambulances did efficient work in picking up the wounded, the American Red Cross attendants being cheered by the crowd.

One of the incidents of the day occurred at the Invalides bridge, where an American lieutenant colonel and two junior officers were stopped by dragoons when they attempted to cross the river. After a parley the Americans were charged upon by some cavalrymen, and in the melee some shots were fired.

During a clash between the police and a crowd in the Place de la Bastille, in which twenty persons were wounded, a policeman shouted to the mob: "If you want to fight, go to Versailles and fight the Germans."

The mob took up the cry of "On to Versailles," and a diversion was created which averted more serious fighting. Foreigners were prominent among those engaged in the demonstrations and the police declared tonight that virtually every other leader in the crowds was either Russian, Spanish or a member of some other alien race.

Labor Leaders Protest.

Socialists and the leaders of labor unions are extremely indignant over yesterday's incidents. The general labor federation has issued a protest, and a committee will tonight meet to consider what steps will be taken as a result of the disorders. The managing committee of the socialist party and the socialist group of the chamber of deputies also will meet.

Deputy Marcel Cachin, writing in Humanite, claims the day was "a magnificent demonstration of the power and discipline of the laboring classes, and was marred only by the brutality of the ferocious police" He emphasizes the fact that the soldiers used no violence, and that there was no trouble where they were on duty.

The parliamentary socialist group at a meeting today adopted a resolution protesting against the attitude of the police in the May-day observance yesterday and decided to present a collective question on the acts of the government. It was announced later on behalf of the government that the government would accept the question and would answer it before Tuesday.

SOME SOUVENIRS AND SIDELIGHTS ON THE GERMANS

The acompanying layout shows the former kaiser reviewing his troops, a most unusual photograph, showing his withered arm; also ruined Mellincourt, a ruined hillside town and demolished guns.

A captain of a New Hampshire regiment brought back to America souvenirs which throw some light on the propaganda work of the Germans among their own troops. After the drive through the Argonne forest the body of a dead German wearing the Iron Cross of the first class was found. Among his effects was an envelope of photographs, all of German origin. This envelope was inscribed with various addresses written in fairly good English.

The photographs are evidently German propaganda and show the destruction wrought in captured territory, but the most unusual one is that showing the former Kaiser reviewing his troops, but picturing plainly his withered arm.

HUNT CONTINUES FOR BOMB SENDERS

No Arrests Have Been Made, Though It Is Intimated That Several Radicals Are Under Suspicion.

New York, May 2.—Agents of the department of justice, post office inspectors and New York detectives, under Inspector Faurot, continued today their hunt for the anarchists who deposited in the mails more than a score of deadly dynamite bombs addressed to prominent men in all parts of the country, but no arrests have been made thus far. It was intimated, however, that several radicals were under suspicion.

Details of the progress made in the inquiry were not disclosed on the ground that undue publicity might enable the reds sought to escape. District Attorney Swan announced that he had received an anonymous communication suggesting that he investigate the activities of three men who have been prominent in socialist and I. W. W. activities. He intimated that he would act on the suggestion.

Captain H. D. Trounce, explosives expert of the bureau of mines, arrived here today from Washington. With experts of the police and fire departments, he made a close examination of the bombs. It was found that the dynamite used in them was of the ordinary commercial variety, but that it had been soaked in nitro-glycerine to make it more deadly.

The bombs which have not yet been examined were hastily removed from the post office today when it was discovered that the acid in the phials designed to explode fulminate of mercury caps was eating through the corks, threatening an explosion.

Officers at work on the case are virtually convinced the infernal machines were made in this city. They expressed satisfaction at their success in finding the plant which manufactured the paper used as a covering for the bombs. Only a small quantity of the paper has been distributed, and it may be possible to trace the assassins by means of it.

It was said tonight there appeared to be no connection between the bomb conspiracy and the finding of a quantity of explosives in a house in West 45th street, raided by government agents seeking narcotics illegally held. The quarters were occupied by Charles J. Pinchel, alias "Dr. Charles Baldwin," who conducted a "medical institute."

Pinchel told the police that the explosives were stored in his living apartments by Oscar Parker, of Philadelphia, whom he met while serving in the ordnance department of the army. The explosives seized included a considerable quantity of trinitrotoluol of the best quality.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING WRECKED BY A BOMB.

Brownsville, Pa., May 2.—An explosion believed to have been caused by a bomb placed in the office of Burgess Charles H. Storey wrecked the municipal building and shattered windows for several blocks in the business district here early today. A score of prisoners, trapped in the jail in the basement of the building, a three-story brick structure, which collapsed over them, were rescued by firemen. Police and agents of the department of justice said they believed the explosion an anarchist May day plot.

Up to noon the police had no clue as to the identity of persons responsible for the explosion which occurred at 2:15 o'clock, half an hour after Street Commissioner Clark Breckenridge had locked the building for the night. The blast which aroused hundreds of persons from their beds and cries of the prisoners whose escape was cut off by the wreckage, attracted a large crowd.

After examination of the ruins federal authorities said they believed the bomb or explosive had been placed on a desk in Burgess Storey's office and timed to go off.

The damage to the municipal building and hundreds of windows broken by the blast, it was estimated, would run into many thousands of dollars.

REGULATIONS ISSUED ON CAPITAL STOCK TAX

Washington, May 2.—Returns filed by corporations for the taxable perid July 1, 1918, to June 30, 1919, under provisions of the law of 1916, will be used by the bureau of internal revenue in assessing the new capital stock tax, for which regulations were issued today.

All corporations, joint stock companies and associations, foreign and domestic, engaged in business in this country, are subject to the law, unless specifically exempted. All corporations are held to be engaged in business and liable to the tax, unless positive proof is submitted showing exemption or non-liability.

Special taxes, of which this is one, become due on the first day of July in each year, or on commenceing business. The tax is payable in advance, but corporations may await bills from the collectors before making payment.

The tax does not apply to any corporations which was not engaged in busines during any part of the fiscal year preceding the year of which the tax is due, but if it was in business even one day it is subject to the tax. There is no relation between the amount of the tax payable and the length of time the corporation was in business.

A corporation owning a railroad, controlled and operated by the government, is exempt for a given taxable year only in case it does no business during such year.

Heavy penalties for wilful refusal to make return and pay the tax are provided in the law.

AMUSEMENTS

"Hearts of the World."

(Last Times Today.)

The final performances of D. W. Griffith's soul-stirring love story of the great war, "Hearts of the World," will take place today at the Atlanta theater at 2:30 and 8:30. These will positively be the last showings of this, the greatest creation of the master producer of the silent drama. An outstanding feature of the production is the delightful musical score rendered by an orchestra of twenty.

Four Shows Today.

(At Loew's Grand.)

At Loew's Grand today five high-class Loew acts will be provided as well as feature pictures and the weekly current events. The show is continuous from 1 to 11 p. m., and, being Saturday, four vaudeville performances are given, starting at 2, 4, 7 and 9 p. m. One of the most entertaining acts seen here in some time is that of Jimmy O'Brien and the Southern girls. The screen star today is Geo. Walsh in "Help, Help, Police."

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

"The Bridal Belles," with six very clever people, is the headline number at the Lyric theater for the last half of the week. In addition there are four other fine acts and some pictures that will prove most entertaining. There will be four shows today to accommodate the great crowds.

A Literary Lack.

(From The Indianapolis Star.)

In this day of much writing there is a singular scarcity of good essays, yet there was never a time when this particular variety of literature would fit better the needs and tastes of the discriminating part of the reading public. It fills a place between fiction and serious, informative, or argumentative writing, between more entertainment—though no essay can be called good that is not entertaining—and the purely instructive dissertation, and even the most persistent of novel readers must feel at times the need of a different mental pabulum, yet without wishing to go so far as to take up what is commonly recommended as "improving literature.

It is not an easy thing to describe the desirable essay so that it may be recognized at once, for many literary productions bear the name mistakenly. It is easier to say what it is not, than what it is. It is not a treatise or a dissertation, though these are often called essays; it is not formal argument or propaganda; it does not deal with a subject exhaustively. It is, rather, an informal expression of indivdual thought and opinion on men and things which, in a novel, the author is obliged to make known through the conservation of his various characters or else interpolate heavily and inartistically in pages which impatient readers hastily skip in order to continue the real story, the true instinct of the novel reader placing the story first in importance.

Door Panel Is Sign of Cross.

(From The St. Paul Dispatch.)

Most modern doors have panels, either for ornamental purposes or to make the door lighter, usually the latter. A solid door without any panels would be no stronger and would possess an added weight as well as wasting considerable material. But the panels of the common or household door of our childhood, which, you remember, had a long panel running down each side and two smaller ones at the bottom, date back into a vast antiquity.

The early Christians, desiring to have always before them the sign of the cross, nailed a cross upon their doors. This brought them new martyrdoms at the hands of the Romans. And so, acording to the old legend, they reversed the cross, bringing the arms at the bottom instead of the top, when technically it became no longer a cross. If you recall the way the old dining room door looked when you were a child, you will remember that the paneling was so arranged as to leave higher and thicker parts of the door in the form of a reversed cross upside down. Sometimes even today, when the builders wish to be very artistic, they reverse the old fashioned door, bringing the small panels at the top. This rather pleases the eye by its novelty and reverts back to the doors of those early Christian days.

Roast Lamb.

(From The New York Tribune.)

With a small roast, plan to scant on the cutlets and chops somewhat when you are to use the shank end for a roast. Trim neatly, place in the dripping pan and sprinkle over it half an onion finely minced. Place in a hot oven, and after heating for five or ten minutes spread with a little currant or other tart jelly. Baste often, while cooking, with the melted jelly and drippings. A roast flavored and cooked in this manner will have a distinctive and most delicious flavor.

With roast lamb serve potatoes browned in the pan, creamed and escalloped onions, creamed turnips, or squash „southern style." Cut squash after paring in small, neat pieces and place closely in a buttered glass pie plate; sprinkle with salt, brown sugar and add bits of butter liberally. Cover and bake until soft; then remove the cover and finish quickly until a rich brown. The butter and sugar from a syrup, which should be used for basting.

And the Girl Explained.

(From The Columbus Jester.)

Two lovers were sitting side by side in Battery park, New York, one evening. "I wonder," he whispered, as he glanced out across the beautiful bay and saw the Statue of Liberty in the shadowy gloom, "why they have its light so small."

"Perhaps," replied the girl, as she blushed and tried to slip from his embrace, "the smaller the light the greater the liberty."

National Museum At Washington Has Many Relics of War

Washington, May 3.—(Special.)—Guns, knives, saw edge bayonets, gas masks for men, horses and pigeons, all classes of helmets, an anti-tank gun, a field amputation chair—these are some of the more striking features of an unusually interesting collection of relics of the great war now being shown to visitors at the United States national museum in Washington. This collection which has been generously loaned to the museum by Major General H. L. Rogers, quartermaster general, United States army, was for the most part picked up by American soldiers on the battlefields of France, in the Argonne forest, at Chateau Thierry, at St. Mihiel and at Verdun.

Probably the most striking single object is a cartridge case for the 420 mm. (16.55-inch) German howitzer, the largest fixed ammunition in the world. These giants of destruction were used in leveling the Belgian forts which were thought to be indestructible.

There are also shown cartridge cases for other German guns ranging in size from the little one-pounder up. A light water-cooled German machine gun and also a heavy one are included in the exhibit, and another of the more unique relics is a powerful German anti-tank gun. In order to be effective against the comparatively heavy armor of the modern tank, this gun has a long, heavy barrel, insuring a high muzzle velocity and consequently great armor-piercing qualities.

Masks for Horses.

One of the horrors of poison gas warfare was that not only were men exposed to it, but also animals, the artillery horses and ammunition mules, dogs and pigeons, which had no means of combating the gas. A mask constructed by the Germans to be pulled over a horse's head is shown in the collection, and also a gas-proof cage for the pigeons which were used for carrying messages from the front lines to headquarters in the rear. This cage is fitted with a gas-proof opening, making it possible to take out a pigeon during a gas attack.

A canvas chair used by the German surgeons in making amputations in the field is in the collection and shows unmistakable signs of having been used many times. The chair is fitted with a number of straps for holding the patient securely in the chair during the operation. An example of Hun cruelty is shown by a double saw-edge bayonet of the type used by German pioneer troops, which was picked up by the Second division in the Argonne forest. Other interesting relics in the collection include helmets, trench knives, steel breast armor pierced by bullet holes, German bed sacks made of paper, grenades and a grenade-thrower, trench tools and iron crosses.

"War Museum."

This collection, kindly loaned by General Rogers to the national museum for exhibition to the thousands of visitors who pass through Washington every day, is a part of the "war museum" being assembled by the national museum, and which it is hoped eventually to make one of the greatest collections of relics of this war in the world. Already there are on exhibition several types of airplanes used in the war, collections of our own and allied decorations and medals, individual and organization fighting equipment, and all United States military and naval insignia.

Bolshevik Terror Crumbling.

Bolshevism, by the testimony now coming from all Bolshevik quarters, si so bad athing that it soon kills itself. Its ambitions are rapacious, its passions are murderous, but its follies and excesses are suicidal.

In Russia, where it seems to flourish for the moment most vigorously, where it might have builded itself into a formidable power if it had been sounder in principle and saner in practice, Bolshevism collapses under pressure as easily as it falls elsewhere. Its mob armies are crushed by a few trained soldiers. Its mock governments are contemptuously kicked over by levelheaded and courageous groups which themselves might have embraced Bolshevism if they had found anything good or seen anything permanent in it.

70 KILLED, 500 HURT IN SALVADOR QUAKE

San Salvador, May 2.—Seventy persons were killed and more than five hundred persons were injured as the result of the earthquake of April 28. The damage was extensive in the city and nearby towns to which the earth shocks were confined

The population of the neighborhood, which for a time was panic-stricken, has been restored to calm.

Washington, May 2.—Seventy-two persons were killed and more than 400 injured in the earthquake at San Salvador April 28, according to advices today to the state department. The shocks continued until yesterday.

The dispatches said that the property destruction was great and that the American legation building was damaged, but no Americans were hurt.

The American charge at San Salvador has been instructed to express the sympathy of the American government and people to the Salvador government.

The London Bargee.

(From The Washington Star.)

"American soldiers in London," said General Samuel A. Ansell, "take a great deal of interest in the bargees who row enormous canal boots up and down the Thames.

"A soldier stood on the Blackfriers bride one day watching a bargee row his canal boat, or barge. It was an enormous barge; half a dozen oarsmen could hardly have managed it, but the lone bargee wielded his oar undismayed, and the barge approached the soldier on the bridge at the rate of about an inch a minute.

"The soldier watched the barge a long time, and, when the bridge was at last reached, he took the cigarette from his mouth and shouted down to the plucky oarsman:

"'Well, so long, oldtimer! Don't forget to bring us a parrot back with you!'"

(Charlton Bates Strayer, in Leslie's.)

Reparation is the rock on which the Peace Conference is splitting, and France is responsible for it. There are two views of France in this connection. According to the first, France is hysterical, demanding everything in sight and constantly changing her demands. According to the other view, France is asking only that she be given adequate protection from the Teuton menace in the future, and that she be paid only what is justly her due. The controversy centers about the Saar valley, rich in coal deposits, which France demands shall be annexed in compensation for the malicious destruction by the Germans of her coal mines in the Lens district. Before the war Germany fed the furnaces of the Rhineland with 15,000,000,000 tons of coal mined annually in the Saar valley. This coal region and the coal and iron mines of Alsace-Lorraine gave Germany her industrial supremacy and enabled her to prepare for the great war. Germany's destruction of the French coal mines was with the sole purpose of crippling France commercially for years to come. The Peace Conference would be untrue to its duty if Germany is not made to pay for this damage. France's desire for political appropriation of the Saar valley cannot be countenanced. This would be a stupid repetition of the German blunder in regard to Alsace-Lorraine, though France has provocation Germany never had in the theft of the French provinces.
